

VANCOUVER NINE TO MEET SENATORS AT OXFORD PARK THIS AFTERNOON

VISITORS HAVE STRONG LINEUP

Entire Salem Team in Good Condition and Will Report; Barham to Hurt

The Senators are to clash with the snappy Vancouver nine this afternoon on the Oxford grounds in the second game of the interstate series.

The Vancouver team and the Camas line-up are considered as two of the strongest contenders for the title.

The entire aggregation of the Senators are to be out in suit. Blanchard who was sick for the season's opener is out in trim.

Barham, who twirled a cracker-jack game for the Senators against the Camas players will probably start the game today, although there is a possibility of Ashby going in. He is in fine shape and ready for most anything that can happen.

OREGON JOURNALS DROP FIRST GAME

Alley Cats Take Lead in Junior Twilight Baseball League Saturday

The Oregon Journal ran up against a snag Saturday morning in the first contest of the Junior Twilight League when they were defeated by the Adams Alley Cats by a score of 5 to 22.

The pitching of Red Lyons was the feature of the game, although a little wild at first he continued and struck 9 men out in a row.

The line-up for the teams was as follows: Adams Alley Cats: Dwight Adams, Capt.; Siegmund, Morfali, Kantell, Lyons, Colgan, Wolf, Freeman, Blake, H. Lyons, Schwabauer.

Oregon Journal: Paul Lee, F. Gould, Sequin, B. Hill, H. Waters, D. Norris, O. Blixeth, Burgess, Norris, F. Linn, F. Alley.

Albany High Tennis Team Drops Six Matches to Salem

Walter Johnson, Big League Pitcher, Tells of Methods Behind His Success

"Pitch to His Weakness" is Advice; Tip That Every Fellow Who Pitches or Bats Ought to Know; Told to Vaughn Francis

The greatest player on the world's champion baseball team—that's Walter Johnson, king of fast ball pitchers. For eighteen years he has been mowing down big league batters—many say his dazzling speed is the greatest ever seen on a baseball diamond.

When the Washington club plays at home lots of boys come to the ball park before the games to warm up with us.

Two years ago I was particularly drawn to one young chap—an upstart kid, broad-shouldered youngster who looked to be about seventeen or eighteen years old. He came to the park day after day, and he loved to go in the box and pitch to us.

"Buddie," I said to him one day, "you're hitting too heavy a pace. Boys of your age haven't their muscles hardened to the jerking strain that a curve ball delivery puts on them. Better cut down on your curves, if you want your arm to last."

The boy just grinned, good-naturedly, and—kept on pitching curve balls. I don't expect to see him at the ball park this year. Unless he's stronger than nine out of ten boys are, his arm will be about gone.

If pitching is your ambition, at the beginning of the season throw no curves at all. Later, when you're in tiptop shape, you may try them sparingly. If you go about it the right way, you can become an effective pitcher without using the curve ball until your arm is ready for it.

Usually a boy who wants to pitch tries for high speed and a large assortment of curves. Neither is a pitcher's greatest asset. First of all, seek control.

Last year "Dazzy" Vance burst out of the National League. He very nearly pitched Brooklyn into a pennant by winning 26 out of 30 games. Consider Dazzy's history. He came to the big leagues with all the stuff in the world, but he was wild. When he threw the ball he did not know where it would land.

Manager after manager tried him out, shook a rueful head, and released him. Dazzy had plenty of speed and marvelous curves, but he simply couldn't put the ball where he wanted it. He kept trying, however, and last season control came to him. After that there was no stopping him.

Joe Boelling was a pitcher who suffered from the same ailment as Vance—he came to the Washington club with lots of stuff, but was wild. Finally hard work triumphed, and Boelling got control. He joined our staff of regular pitchers and won eleven straight games!

So acquire control. You need it. I'm not going to prescribe any cut-and-dried way of delivering the ball—every fellow should know that.

Bearcat Racket Welders Too Much For Albany

The Willamette University men's tennis squad swamped the Albany College men at Albany Saturday by defeating them in all of the matches played. The Bearcats are strong this year as they have three veteran men to form the nucleus of the squad under the leadership of Captain Hale Mickey. Charles Nunn, the only new man on the squad is showing up well in the two varsity contests that he has been in this year.

The Bearcats will have these men all back next year with the exception of Ted Emmel who is to graduate with this year's Senior class.

Mrs. J. G. Kaufman transacted business here from Woodburn Saturday.
