Louis Maller and George Halder escaped from the feeble minded institution last night, it was reported at the police station.

Painting Flag Poles—
Perched atop one of the flag poles at the state house Tuesday was a man engaged in gilding the round ball at the apex. Poles on both the north and south wings of the building are being re-painted. Many people stopped to watch the painter at work.

Alexander Speaks—
Charles Alexander, literary man and short story writer of Albany, addressed the short story writing class at Willamette university last night, giving them some first-hand information and instructions in the art of writing. Mr. Alexander is known for his Oregon stories and animal stories in particular.

Musical Planned—
A sacred musicale is to be presented at the First Methodist church Sunday night under the direction of Prof. E. Hobson, director, and Prof. T. Roberts, organist. A noted pipe organist has been secured for the evening, J. H. Shearer, who is touring the United States with his wife, who is a noted soprano soloist. The two will offer the major portion of the program Sunday evening.

Institute Declared—
The teachers of Marion county are to hold a two-day annual institute next year, according to the statute that goes into effect soon. Attendance is compulsory to the institute, which may be of one or two-day session length. Local institutes have been held this year in the various districts. This will be changed, however, and the general gathering will be sponsored. Strong speakers are to be secured and a record made at the annual.
