SOCIETY

ONE HUNDRED and seventy-five prominent society maids and matrons received cards to one of the most attractive of the season's teas when Mrs. Louis Lachmund entertained yesterday at her home, 925 Court street, honoring Mrs. George E. Dorcas, formerly of Sacramento, who has come to Salem to make her home.

The floral motif throughout was a lovely blending of the warmer tones of bronze, ivory, yellow, ochre, primrose, apricot, and old gold. In the reception hall tulips in saffron and bronze filled a pottery bowl, while ornamental candles guarded each side. In the drawing room baskets and bowls of tulips in the same ochre and primrose shades enhanced the effect. Tall yellow candles were used here and there in holders of gleaming mahogany.

Assisting Mrs. Lachmund in the rooms during the afternoon were Mrs. Henry Meyers, Mrs. S. W. Thompson, Mrs. Curtis Cross, and Miss Louise Thompson.

Especially enchanting in its loveliness was the dining room. A great bowl or tulips in the chosen shades, with sprays of varying blossoms, completely transformed the tea table, gleaming with silver, exquisite linen, and cut-glass. Very tall, very slender candles of a delicate peach color gave the table a graceful distinctiveness. A bowl of blossoms on the side board, guarded by tall peach colored tapers, reproduced the colors in the centerpiece. The glow of the tall tapers gave a lovely subdued light in the rooms.

Dispensing tea table hospitalities during the first hour were Mrs. Fredrick Lamport and Mrs. David Eyrre while their places at the urns during the second hour were graciously taken by Mrs. John J. Roberts and Mrs. Dan Fry, Jr.

The Piety Hill club will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edgar Hartley. Joint hostesses with Mrs. Hartley will be Mrs. W. P. Fowle and Mrs. S. P. Kimball.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. Duncan Chambers, Mrs. H. B. Thiesen, and Mrs. Ada Strong motored to Astoria on Wednesday. Mr. Chambers will attend and read a paper before the meeting of the Northern Deanery of the Episcopal church and Mrs. Chambers, Mrs. Thiesen and Mrs. Strong will attend the quarterly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary.

Miss Carol S. Dibble gave a group of Irish lyrics in her delightful manner yesterday afternoon before the members of the Clontarian literary society of Willamette university.

Unusually lovely among the season's bridge luncheons was that of Tuesday at which Mrs. Frank Jaskoski was hostess, entertaining for the pleasure of sixteen friends, many of whom are members of the U. D. bridge club. The 1 o'clock luncheon, attractive in its appointments, was served at the small tables. Each table was centered with a crystal vase of lavender and pink sweet peas. In the living rooms a gorgeous basket of bronze tulips was arranged in a decorative way.

Mrs. George Schuneman won the high bridge score. Those playing at the tables during the enjoyable afternoon were: Mrs. G. H. Burrell, Mrs. James Heenan, Mrs. Scott Page, Mrs. M. J. Petzel, Mrs. Phillip Jaskoski, Mrs. George Schuneman, Mrs. C. D. Thomas, Mrs. T. M. Barr, Mrs. J. D. Nathan, Mrs. Henry Hintzen, Mrs. Harry Weis, Mrs. Eugene Eckerlin, Sr., Mrs. Eugene Eckerlin, Jr., Mrs. C. J. Henly, Mrs. J. G. Nadon, and the hostess, Mrs. Frank Jaskoski.

Members of the Modern Priscilla club spent an interesting afternoon with Mrs. E. F. Ghormley at her home in Salem Thursday. The club women motored to the Ghormley home in the early afternoon, arriving there in ample time to spend the regular club hours with their hostess. Mrs. Ghormley used a profusion of tulips and the wild larkspur in making her home festive for the occasion and decorated her pretty luncheon table with the blossoms. Mrs. Moore of Portland, Mrs. Ghormley's house guest, enjoyed the afternoon with the club women. In the group from Corvallis were Mrs. J. G. Githens, Mrs. Ira Hutchings, Miss Mayme Rowland, Mrs. H. E. Walter, Mrs. F. H. Walters, Mrs. C. A. Berry, Mrs. Bert Head, Mrs. E. N. Fehler, Mrs. Guy W. Jordan, Mrs. A. J. Bier, Mrs. Ralph F. Schindler, Mrs. H. W. Clark, Mrs. A. M. Gunn, Mrs. A. L. Stevenson, Mrs. Leland Spring, Mrs. Fred J. Hooks, Mrs. Howard N. Peary, Mrs. Lee Anderson and Mrs. W. A. Foster.

Mrs. Ghormley was formerly a member of the Corvallis club. —Corvallis Gazette-Times.

Chadwick chapter of the Eastern Star and the Portland Matrons' association of 1924 reciprocated hospitality on Tuesday evening with Chadwick chapter entertaining the Portland association at a six o'clock dinner and the team, in turn, entertaining the chapter with a program in the evening. At the dinner which was served at 6 o'clock in the Rose room of the Spa thirty-seven covers were arranged at three long tables one of which was presided over by Mrs. W. P. Babcock, worthy matron, another by Ralph Thompson, worthy patron, and a third by Miss Lelia Johnson, associate matron.

In the exhibition of drill work that took place following, the team represented characters of half a century ago, wearing the same costumes and using the same quaint ritual. The hall was packed even to the balconies for the interesting evening. Officers and past officers in the order present included out of a large group: Mrs.

The Store That Sells For Cash Only Can and Does Sell For Less The Kafoury Store proves it every day It is an established fact that one of the largest stores in New York City sells and buys for cash only, and it is a recognized fact that this store does sell for less in consequence of which it does an enormous business. Now then if the people of New York City have found it to their advantage to buy for cash at this store, isn't it just as reasonable that the people of Salem should find it advantageous and profitable to buy at this store, and pay cash and effect the saving that we effect by selling for cash only. Just think this matter over. You, too, will come to the conclusion that it pays well to buy for cash.
