

MOTOR CARS COST 29 PER CENT LESS

Railroads Get $4,000,982,000 in Freight Business From Products

Motor cars on the average cost 29 per cent less today than they did before the war, while commodities in general cost 67 per cent more, according to "Facts and Figures of the Automobile Industry," 1925 edition, which is now coming off the presses.

This 96-page booklet is published annually by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. It summarizes, from government sources and its own researches, the main facts, historical and current, dealing with motor transportation.

Production, registration, exports, service, commercial vehicles, highways, and taxation are among the topics covered. While the re-checking of production and registration figures shows little change from the advance data published earlier in the year, the booklet contains many new studies along taxation, highway, and other lines not previously printed.

Cars Cost Less in Terms of Farm Products With the average retail price of a car now listing at $325, automobiles cost 29 per cent less today than before the war.

Railroads Gain from Motor Transport The profit of the railroads from the automobile business is brought out in the total freight receipts of the steam roads from motor products for one year were $4,000,982,000 while highways which they paid toward highways during that period were $3,416,522.

This money paid by the railroads in highway taxation is 3.6 per cent of the total highway bill. Motor vehicles pay more than 40 per cent of this bill in special fees and levies; and the remainder is raised by general taxation.

Exports of motor vehicles in 1924 totaled 336,580, including cars and trucks assembled abroad. This is 17 1/2 per cent larger than the 1923 figure, and is the largest export business done by the industry in one year.

Federal motor vehicle excise taxes 1917-1925 totaled $789,385,399, or more than twice as much as the amount of federal money paid out toward highways in that period, which was $389,523,313.

Among other points brought out are the following: 2,000,000 carloads of motor transportation products are shipped over the railroads annually. 470,000 school children are transported to school daily by 30,000 motor buses.

TIRE PRICES GO UP, REPORT SAYS

Firestone Company Announces Increase in Cords; Balloons Same

AKRON, Ohio, May 9.—A readjustment of tire prices, announced by the Firestone Tire & Rubber company today, effective May 1, does not carry an advance on fabric casings, 2 1/2-inch cords on regular cord tires 5 per cent, and on tubes, solids and truck and bus pneumatics 10 per cent.

Commenting on this readjustment program, Harvey S. Firestone, president of the company, said today that the British Crude Rubber Restriction Act was responsible for the advances.

"The restriction legislation," said Mr. Firestone, "placed the supply of plantation rubber in the hands of a foreign monopoly but, like all monopolies on natural resources and commodities, it can only be temporary."

British colonies had been supplying approximately 35 per cent of the world's output of plantation rubber, and on August 1, 1922, three months before the restriction act went into effect the price of crude rubber was 15 cents. The average price of four popular sizes of cord tires at that time was $29.60.

"On May 1, 1923, six months after the restriction act had been in operation the crude rubber price advanced to 37 cents, and the average price of four popular sizes of cord tires was about $34.30.

FORD FENDERS BIG PRODUCTION JOB

Scientific Methods Used in Producing Enough Fenders for Demand

Providing fenders for a large number of cars and trucks are daily produced by the Ford Motor company in itself quite a manufacturing accomplishment and the way the company produces the mis interesting because it is done on such an enormous scale.

But fenders for new cars isn't all. It must be remembered that there are several millions of Ford cars operating on the streets and highways of this country alone and that quite a number of fenders are bent out of usefulness in traffic bumper every day.

The flat stock that is, special cold rolled steel, comes in at one end of a great building and emerges at the other completed fenders ready for the enameling oven and installation on the cars.

Big punch presses cut out the patterns and the steel parts go on to other machines which twist, bend, emboss and assemble them as they pass through the progress of fabrication on to completion—a marvelous and illuminating illustration of the perfection to which Ford progressive manufacture has attained.

Blanking dies used in the machines which cut out the patterns although they are made of the highest grade tool steel, wear out in from two to four days under the heavy production in stamping process, after the larger parts are cut out, the stock passes to new machines which punch out smaller parts, thus reducing waste to a minimum.

Parrish Baseball Team Defeated by Stayton 13-0

The Parrish Junior high baseball team was defeated by Stayton on the Stayton field Friday afternoon by a score of 13 to 0. Several errors were made by both sides in fielding. The ball would hit a hole, rock, bunch of grass or some other obstacle and would in most cases succeed in dodging the fielder.
