OXFORD TRADESMEN DEPLORE NEW ERA OF SALES ON CASH BASIS

OXFORD, England — Oxford tradesmen are gravely concerned over the increasing tendency of undergraduates to pay cash for their purchases. The new fashion saves the postage on the customary 36 monthly duns, but it means the loss of the extravagant custom of the young Verdant Greens of pre-war days, who ordered silk dressing gowns by the half dozen in the serene belief that bills due three years hence are really no proper bills at all.

Tradesmen are discovering that the man who buys for cash buys carefully and stints the more exotic cravings of his fancy. Worse still, they are discovering that he prefers to do his buying in London, where a shopping excursion is a very desirable excuse for a restful afternoon in one of the music halls. London competition is far from pleasing, for it was long ago settled that Oxford prices should be set well above those of the metropolis during term time, to carry over the lean vacation when streets are deserted and tradesmen recline against their sturdy oak counters in sad and wistful boredom.

The increase in cash purchases is indicative of a shifting of social standards. Fewer undergraduates are now the sons of choleric and unbusinesslike old country gentlemen with gout and ancient lineage; more and more are coming up to the university from the very recently acquired country seats of moneyed men of business who are better judges of accounts than of horses and Maderia. In the university as elsewhere the easy-going credit system based on the unimpeachable honesty, solvency and respectability of the settle country families is giving way to the rule of ready cash.

How To Solve Cross Word Puzzle

Each number is the start of a word. White space represents a letter. Look at the key printed and see the definition for the word you seek. Select a word that has the right number of letters for the space allowed it horizontal or vertical, as the case may be. Remember the word ends in the square just before the first black square you reach or at the border of the puzzle. After you have found one or two words you will have clews to still others.

Cross Word Puzzle Synonyms

Horizontal Words—

Word 5—A lady's gown.

Vertical Words—
Word 1—A word used to describe the condition of cotton or hay or other merchandise after it has been pressed and bound tightly for shipment.
Word 2—It takes sixteen of them to make a pound.
Word 3—The ruler of a monarchy—plural.

Violence Walks Abroad In Portuguese Capital

LISBON, May 14.—The population of Lisbon has fallen recently under the terrorizing influence of the Red Legion, a secret society of malefactors notorious for bomb outrages, assassinations and robberies. Several groups of these bandits have, during the last few weeks, carried out their exploits in broad daylight, entering the principal national banks and demanding, with pointed pistols, large sums of money, and imposing silence by threats of vengeance on the clerks and their families.

A few days ago in a busy thoroughfare, a collector was assaulted and robbed of his bag containing several thousand pounds. While two men attacked the collector, others discharged pistols in the most approved movie style, effectively covering the retreat of the attacking party to a side car, in which they made their escape.

As these repeated occurences are being carried out without the immediate intervention of the police, and without arrests being made, the newspapers have censured the negligence of the police. Now, however, the authorities have arrested the principal persons implicated in the assault on the collector and several other members of the Red Legion. At the same time all the newspapers print a statement from the commissioner general of police in which he protests against the injustice of the references made to this corporation. He affirms that the impunity of the criminals is due to the terror and cowardice of the victims, who refuse to lay complaints against them.

As soon as the members of the Red Legion were arrested dynamite bombs exploded in various parts of the city, fortunately causing no loss of life, though several places of business have suffered severely, one of them being completely destroyed.
