ASA'S PRAYER:—Lord, it is nothing with Thee to help, whether with many, or with them that have no power; help us, O Lord our God; for we rest on Thee, and in Thy name we go against this multitude. 2 Chronicles 14: 11.

IRELAND TO MAKE HER OWN SUGAR

An agreement has been reached between the government and a Belgium syndicate headed by M. Lippens, whereby the latter will erect a sugar factory in consideration of a subsidy to be paid for sugar produced during the next ten years. This bounty is to be at the following rates:

	Per Cwt
First three years	24s. 6d.
Next five years	22s. 6d.
Next two years	22s.

These rates apply to sugars averaging 95 degrees polarization and it is estimated that they will call for payments in aid of the domestic industry amounting to $122,500 for the first year, increasing to $225,000 during the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth years, and declining to $220,000 for the final two years of the decade covered by the grant, the total payment amounting to $1,961,000 for the ten-year period.

In consideration of receiving this assistance, which is equal to 5.31 cents a pound at normal exchange for the first three years, 4.88 cents for the next five years, and 4.77 cents for the final two years of the period, the factory must pay to growers 54s. per ton for washed and topped beets, delivered at the factory, of an average sugar content of 15.5 per cent. For each per cent of variation above or below this mean 2s. 6d. per ton is to be added or deducted. This is a high rate of payment, equalling $13.12 per long ton, but it was considered necessary in order to induce farmers to take up the growing of sugar beets. In order to obtain the stipulated price growers must contract to grow beets for a period of three years.

The operating company will have full freedom of choice as to the location of the factory, but its attention has been drawn to the experimental growing of beets during the past few years in North Cork. M. Lippens has associated with himself a number of Belgian investors and has succeeded in enlisting a certain amount of Irish capital in the undertaking. It is expected that the factory will be ready for operation in the fall of 1926.

For the present, at least, the government will authorize only one factory on these terms, desiring to await the result of its operation during the first few seasons in order to determine whether the undertaking promises success and whether a lower rate of subsidy will be sufficient for the establishment of additional plants. For this purpose the sugar company will be required to submit its balance sheets, showing the cost of operation and the profits earned, if any.

The above is official information, given out by Minister of Finance Blythe, of the Irish Free State. That seems an immense subsidy. It amounts to within a cent to two cents a pound of what ought to be the average retail price of sugar in the different sections of the United States.

But even so, it will be justified, if that is the best way to make Ireland self sufficient in sugar; to have the people of that country produce their own sugar from their own land and with their own labor, instead of sending all their sugar money to other countries. England is giving similar subsidies for the same purpose; though smaller than those offered in this case by Ireland.

The better way is the way of the United States, which gives her growers and manufacturers advantages through protective rates of tariff duty on sugar importations. Ireland will no doubt come to this later, for she is adopting protective duties for a considerable list of home products.

Such facts as above mentioned ought to make the people of the Salem district more anxious to join the movement to render the United States self sufficient in sugar. That must be the next industry taken up, after the flax and linen industries. Sugar beet growing and manufacturing here is without doubt the next most important matter.

OUR SHRUBS AND FLOWERS

All over the land effort to preserve the wild flowers of roadside glen and forest is being put forth. In Oregon appeals have gone forth from schools, civic organizations and the press.

Dogwood, wild currant, mock orange, trillium, spring beauties, trees, shrubs and smaller flowering plants are being broken, torn, plucked up by the roots or destroyed in various other ways with an abandon which means that they and other beautiful species of our flower friends are doomed to extinction.

Picking flowers in moderation is urged upon those who stop their autos at frequent intervals by the roadside to tear branches from the shrubs and pull up the smaller plants by the roots thus destroying the possibility of reseeded. Every day along our highways persons thus engaged may be seen with the "lion's share" of nature's beauties. Their desire for destruction appears insatiable. They pluck and bear more shrubby and plants than are necessary to adorn themselves or to beautify their homes. The result is withered discarded branches, plants and flowers and nature's beauty marred or destroyed forever. Such thoughtlessness of indifference is inexcusable. It is a kind of selfishness. It is wanton destruction.

Colorado protects her wild flowers by law. She makes it a misdemeanor punishable by fine for picking or possessing more than twenty-five blossoms of the native columbine,—the state flower. Similar action may be necessary to protect other wild flowers from extinction in all the states. Pass the words "protect the wild flowers" on to your friends. Protect and preserve for yourself and others the natural beauty of Oregon.

THE EXECUTIONER

That there is much that is unfathomable in the human race is shown nowhere else perhaps more clearly than in the expressed desire to officiate upon the events of capital punishment.

The warden of an eastern penitentiary received recently over a hundred applications to operate the death dealing device. The amount paid for the effort which would snuff out the life of a fellow man was to be the munificent sum of seven dollars. For service of this kind there are numerous offers made to every warden of a penitentiary preceding the infliction of capital punishment.

Just what the feelings of an executioner are is a puzzle to those who shrink from even the thought of thus taking human life. Whether abnormal tendency to excitability, craving for show of courage, ultra-strong desire for revenge, or the stimuli of this specific type of public service animates the mind of those really seeking the execution of another human being is a theme for the psychologist.

It is the duty of the state to require an executioner, under regularly constituted authority, to perform this morbid service with courage, modesty and solemnity.

Whatever the outcome the county judges are conducting the campaign against the bus and truck law referendum with notable push and efficiency.

If the state is to retain the capital punishment as a result of electoral mandate, there should be opportunity given at the next election to provide for a more expeditious, humane way to end life than by the hangman's noose. There are other means, by which the law of "an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth," may be satisfied. Application of electricity or lethal gas insures, it is said, greater celerity and certainty in obtaining results.
