Willamette Is Thankful— The Statesman's article of last Sunday, prepared by the Chamber of Commerce was conclusive evidence that Willamette University is one of the most profitable assets, ven financially, of which Salem can boast, says Dr. G. L. Trifts, the Field secretary. And the business men of the city continued the speaker, are showing their keen appreciation by the liberal spirit manifested in the payment of their donations to the university. In behalf of the executive committee, said Dr. Trifts, I wish to thank all the patrons of the school for the kind reception they have given me as the collector of these funds.

CRIMINAL CONTEMPT IS NOW FACING BRAMWELL STATE BANK HEAD ORDERED TO APPEAR FRIDAY

Offense Punishable by $300 Fine. Six Months in County Jail, or Both

Facing charges of criminal contempt of court, Frank C. Bramwell, state bank superintendent, will appear in circuit court Friday morning, before Judge L. H. McMahan to show cause why he should not be punished for failure to appear Monday, May 25, under court order. In case Mr. Bramwell fails to respond to the order on Friday a bench warrant will probably be issued for his arrest.

Under the Oregon statutes, criminal contempt of court is punishable by a fine of not more than $300 or a sentence of not to exceed six months, or both, at the discretion of the court.

The affair grew out of the removal of the headquarters of the state banking department from Salem to Portland, under a law passed by the last legislature. Following the move, George Putnam, Salem publisher, issued a petition demanding the return of the offices to Salem. The case was to come up in the circuit court here.

Bramwell then issued a complaint asking for a change of venue, declaring that Judge McMahan, because of preconceived prejudices, could not give him a fair trial. In a reply, Judge McMahan stated that he had never, to his knowledge, met Bramwell, and held no opinions one way or the other.

A court order was then delivered to Bramwell, demanding that he appear in circuit court and explain just what prejudices he believed Judge McMahan harbored against him. Neither Bramwell nor his attorney, S. J. Grahame of Portland, appeared in court.

According to officials, the whole testimony, if Bramwell appears Friday, will hinge around the question as to whether the circuit judge has a right to demand proof of prejudice, or whether he must at once grant a change of venue when a prejudice petition is filed. If Judge McMahan was not within his rights in demanding Bramwell's appearance, contempt charges against him will be voided. Affidavits have been filed with the order, as the alleged contempt did not occur in the presence of the court.
