SOCIETY

By AUDRED BUNCH

THE SECOND ANNUAL floral show closed in a successful manner last evening at the Armory with numerous attractive and interesting entries made.

The following awards were made:

Class 1—Table decorations, first prize of $3 to Mrs. C. A. Kells for a brass bowl of cerise sweet peas, azure delphinium, maidenhair fern, hokera, roses and candytuft.

Class 2—Best arrangement of short stemmed flowers, first prize of $3 to Miss Ella McMunn, for a green pottery bowl of yellow and purple pansies; second prize of $1 to Mrs. C. A. Kells for larkspur in an art glass bowl.

Class 3—Best arrangement of hardy perennial cut flowers, first prize of $5 to Mrs. M. N. Chapman for a green wicker basket of astilba, Iceland poppies, delphinium, coreopsis, spirea, lychalis and Michelmas daisies; second prize of $2 to Mrs. C. A. Kells for a bowl of valerian, coreopsis, harebells, delphinium, sweet william and fox glove.

Class 4—Best arrangement of flowers in basket, first prize of $3 to Mrs. Harrison McWhorter for larkspur in vase of pink and rose with lavender Michelmas daisies and spirea foliage; second prize of $1 to Mrs. W. W. Rosebraugh for purple canterbury bells with Queen Anne's lace.

Class 5—Best collection of wild flowers, first prize of $5 to Mrs. E. H. Van Trump and second prize of $3 to Miss Margaret Nunn, each exhibiting a complete table of blossoms.

Class 6—Best collection of sweet peas, first prize of $5 to Mrs. J. A. Bishop and second prize of $2 to Mrs. B. H. White.

Class 7—Best exhibit of unusual varieties, first prize of $3 to Mrs. W. W. Rosebraugh.

An interesting exhibit, in addition to those competing, was that of the Breithaupt Florist, which was arranged on the stage. Mrs. William McGilchrist, Jr., arranged a lovely basket of blossoms on a decorative pedestal.

Miss Sally Bush's gardeners of Hills, 12 different kinds in all, including the regale, the madonna, the hanson, the native Oregon, the superb, the day lily and the only, made a striking display.

Eleven children competed in the children's parade, a special feature of the evening program. The first prize, a blue bucket of jelly beans, went to Master Merlyn Gunnell, who was a little duke in a dress suit and silk hat. Little Miss Jenette Maxwell, with her basket of marigolds, won second prize, jelly beans in a red bucket. Nine other youngsters between the ages of 4 and 6 received prizes as well.

Mrs. W. T. Stolz, Mrs. Lenta Westcott and Miss Nina McNary will be hostesses at one of the large teas of the season this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. Three hundred cards have been issued for the event.

Miss Frances Virginia Melton left yesterday morning for Seattle for a vacation period on Puget sound.

The 36th birthday of Mrs. W. D. Littler was celebrated in a most delightful fashion on Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Underhill. An elaborate anniversary dinner was served at noon with a number of out-of-town guests present for the occasion.

Baskets of sweet peas and roses were used throughout the rooms while pink candles covered the white-iced birthday cake. A number of gifts were received by the honor guest, and in the afternoon additional guests called to extend their greetings.

Mrs. Littler is particularly active and well informed for her years and is a regular attendant at the morning service at the First Methodist church, the denomination of which she has been a member for three-quarters of a century.

In the evening she was an honor guest in the group of those whose years would name them "old folks." Mrs. Littler was born in Ohio in 1839, moving at the time of her marriage to Indiana. For the past 30 years she has resided in the Willamette valley, living at Portland, Albany, Forest Grove, and for the last 15 years in Salem.

Covers at the birthday dinner on Sunday were placed for Mrs. W. D. Littler, the honor guest, Rhoda Leach and Charlotte Winward of Eugene, Mrs. J. W. Menzies and daughter, Ida, of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Karl Connet of Albany, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Littler and Miss Harriet Gantenbein of Forest Grove, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Underhill.

Mrs. Littler is the grandmother of Robert Littler of Palo Alto, Cal., who graduated on Monday night from Stanford university. Mrs. Littler not only received a graduate scholarship but was class orator as well.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Chambers were week-end visitors at Nesko-win.

A number of Salem matrons will arrive today to be guests of Mrs. C. K. Spaulding at a house party at the Spaulding cottage at Newport. The affair is planned for the pleasure of members of the Round-Up club. The hostess, Mrs.

The Yomarcos club of the First Methodist church will meet on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Roscoe Van Orsdal at the corner of South Commercial street and Hansen avenue.

Mrs. T. G. Hopkins and Mrs. E. C. Small entertained at a delightful appointed 1 o'clock luncheon yesterday at the Gray Belle for the pleasure of a group of guests who motored down from Albany for the afternoon. A low pottery bowl of pink roses, sweet peas, and phlox gave a lovely floral note. Covers were placed for:

Denn Powell, Miss Elizabeth Irvine, Miss Flora Mason, and Mrs. Charles Cusick, all of Albany; Mrs. Joseph H. Albert, Mrs. J. C. Griffith, Mrs. W. H. Stensloff, Mrs. George G. Brown, and the hostesses, Mrs. E. C. Small, and Mrs. T. G. Hopkins.

In the afternoon the ladies enjoyed visiting the flower show at the Armory and numerous of Sa-

Spaulding, accompanied by Mrs. Walter L. Spaulding, little Miss Leone Spaulding and Ha Mills, left yesterday for the summer home. Beach parties, surf-bathing and excursions to points of interest have been planned for the pleasure of the guests. Thursday cards will be enjoyed.

Those who plan to be in the group are: Mrs. Edgar Hartley, Mrs. C. H. Robertson, Mrs. E. Cooke Patton, Mrs. John L. Rand, Mrs. John Albert, Mrs. Joseph Albert, Mrs. J. C. Griffith, Mrs. R. E. Downing, Mrs. J. T. Whittig, Mrs. G. G. Bowersox and Mrs. W. G. Allen.

Miss Nell Thielson was the guest of Miss Edna Simonton in Portland over the week-end.

Salem friends of Mrs. F. M. Jordan of Seattle are anticipating her arrival here today. Mrs. Jordan will be the house guest for the coming week of Mrs. Henry Meyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Moores (Lucile Elrod) have returned from their wedding trip to Alaska and are at 1080 Franklin street, Portland.

Recent letters from Mr. and Mrs. John L. Brady tell of visits of Salem friends. Last week Dean and Mrs. George H. Alden, who are on an extended trip into the white-iced birthday cake. A number of gifts were received by the honor guest, and in the afternoon additional guests called to extend their greetings.

An Ideal "Steamer-book": An Unbelievable Book on Tribal Migration, and a Porter Book of the Out-of-doors Are Perused

By AUDRED BUNCH

The reader covers but few pages before he is literally swamped in amazement. Can it be fairytale, or can it be fiction he is reading? And he is heartily gratified to know that it is neither—that it is one of the choicest books of exhilarating fact he has come on for years.

It seems incredible that two white men, and a woman, Americans, could do such a feat as to cross the Caucasus mountains of Persia with this primitive tribe of the Baktyari who migrate twice yearly over these snow-capped peaks in search of grass for their herds.
