You take no chances in buying one of our used cars. If after one week's use you are dissatisfied with the used car you selected, you have the privilege of returning it and applying the money paid on same toward the purchase of another used car of equal or greater value or on a new car. Isn't that a fair proposition?

Burglary Attempted

Every available policeman made a mad dash for the Shipley store early Wednesday morning when the burglar alarm sounded for the second time this month. The vicinity was thoroughly searched, but no one was found. Examining switches on the inside of the store revealed the place, a rear window, where entrance was attempted.

Senator Is Visitor—United States Senator S. M. Shortridge, of California, stopped in Salem yesterday to visit old friends that he knew here in 1874 and 1875. In the early days he was employed as a janitor in the old East school, now known as the Washington school. After a year and a half he left for the southern state with his mother. Senator Shortridge is now an important member of the naval affairs and other committees of the senate.

Salem Plumber Honored—At the closing session of the Oregon Master Plumbers association in Portland, Theodore M. Barr, of Salem, was elected president. The meeting was held in connection with the forty-third annual convention of the National Association of Master Plumbers.

MIDSUMMER'S afternoon was chosen for one of the loveliest of the year's teas when yesterday Mrs. W. T. Stolz, Mrs. Lenta Westcott, and Miss Nina McNary entertained at the spacious Stolz home, 495 N. Sumner street.

The season's most attractive flowers in floor baskets and hanging baskets and in lovely pottery and brass bowls decorated the rooms throughout. In the drawing room where the hostesses received, a maze of Oriental poppies were used on the mantel. A delicate basket of delicately tinted candles, a cut glass bowl of shell-pink gladioli and snapdragons, guarded on either side with a very slender brass ladder enhanced a small mahogany table in an opposite part of the room. Hanging baskets of regale lilies, delphinium, gladioli, and Canterbury bells were artistically used in carrying out the chosen floral note. The hostesses were graciously assisted in the rooms by Mrs. John H. Albert, Miss Margaret Cosper, Mrs. R. P. Boise, Mrs. J. H. Lauterman, Mrs. Peter Graber, Mrs. Joseph Baumgardner, Mrs. U. G. Shipley, Mrs. Frank Snedcor, Mrs. John McNary, and Mrs. Frank Spencer, the latter four matrons presiding at the urns in the dining room, where the same summer blossoms in pastel shades were used in the decorating.

The tea table was artistic with a low, French bouquet of astilba, Canterbury bells, cerise sweet peas, and pink and azure larkspur. Rose candles burned in four crystal holders. During the first hour Mrs. U. G. Shipley and Mrs. John McNary poured, at the second hour Mrs. Frank Snedcor and Mrs. Frank Spencer taking their places.

Assisting in the dining room were six charming girls of the younger set, Miss Margaret Stolz, Miss Eugenia Zelber, Miss Charlotte Zelber, Miss Rovena Eyrle, Leah Ross, and Miss Edith Bragg. A three piece orchestra, with Ruth Bedford, Mary Talmadge Headrick, and Viola Vercler Holman, furnished delightful musical numbers throughout the afternoon. In the library a brass candelabra, together with a myriad flowers, gave a charming decorative note.

Mrs. George M. Brown has returned home from Roseburg where she was called two weeks ago on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. A. J. Bellows. Salem friends will be glad to learn not only of Mrs. Brown's return to her home but also of Mrs. Bellows' improvement.

Mrs. Roy Ohmart returned recently from visiting her parents Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Allen, near Waha Waha. While there Mrs. Ohmart was presented with several rare family heirlooms.

Among them several degerotypes, a copy of The New York Times dated September 3, 1833. Mrs. Ohmart's grandfather, Judge Benjamin Walden, an Oregon pioneer of 1845, was a constant subscriber to this paper for more than twenty years, and kept this early copy.

A family bible, yellow with age and stained, a result of being submerged in the Platts river along with other household goods when Mrs. Ohmart's great grandfather crossed the plains in 1852. Two small pieces of calico purchased in Baltimore, Md., by Mrs. Ohmart's great grandfather during the Revolutionary War, the price being seventy-five dollars per yard and also several pieces of homespun and rare linens.

Salem's lady golf enthusiasts enjoyed their third weekly excursion to the Illhee links yesterday. While Mrs. Ercel Kay and Mrs. E. L. Baker and Mrs. J. H. Garrison and Mrs. Lester Schlosberg all played, the most of the matches were postponed on account of the heat to next week. Mrs. H. H. Offinger entertained as her guest on the course, Mrs. W. I. Northrup of Portland. Today a group of eight ladies from the Portland golf club will play on the Illhee links.

A special feature of yesterday's game was the informal explanation Mr. Sharkey made of the rules of the game during the luncheon hour.

About 200 former Idahoans of the Central Idaho association of Oregon, met at the Fair grounds last Sunday for their third annual picnic.

Basket dinner was served at noon with Governor Pierce and his private secretary W. A. Delzell as guests of the association.

The address of welcome was given by Carey F. Martin, who introduced the governor, the latter
