

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN IN DEFENSE DAY TEST

HEADQUARTERS FOR COMMITTEE RE-LOCATED HERE

Short Time Remains to Obtain Full 30,000 Quota of One-Day Volunteers

Instructions pertaining to the national defense day test are given by Brigadier General George A. White, who has returned from the annual National Guard encampment at Camp Jackson.

As the time remaining for enrollment of one-day volunteers is so short, says the bulletin, "the utmost energy by all mayors, committees, organizations and individual workers is essential."

Battle Creek, district 25—A. F. Rieher, chairman, J. A. Morgan, Bert Peebles, Endora V. Peebles, clerk.

FRANCE TO ISSUE MONEY

PARIS, June 27.—(By The Associated Press) — M. Caillaux's financial measures, which were adopted by the senate this afternoon, 273 to 13, will become law upon their publication in the official journal tomorrow. The measures had been previously passed by the chamber of deputies earlier in the day.

They authorize the printing of six billion more paper francs, making a total of 10,000,000,000 francs within the last three months.

This inflation of the currency was scored by all the opposition speakers in the senate, and even by Premier Painleve himself, who, however, stressed it as a measure to avert national peril.

Senator Henry Berenger, representing the Caillaux projects for the senate, declared it was certain that if the deficit in the circulation of the national defense bonds was not checked the newly authorized 3,000,000,000 francs would be rapidly absorbed.

MILTON MILLER HOME FROM LONG TRIP EAST

REPRESENT STATE AT CHILD WELFARE MEETING

Many National Characters Had Important Places on Program

Hon. Milton A. Miller, of Portland returned home a few days ago from a five-week trip east to attend the child welfare conference in New York City. From Washington west he traveled on the same train with United States Senator Charles L. McNary, whom he praised very highly for the attention he was shown while in Washington, D. C.

"Yes, I had a good trip, but a hard one," he said. "I traveled in 20 states or more and visited for the first time New England."

"I attended the child welfare conference which was held in New York May 35 to 26 inclusive. I was appointed by Governor Walter M. Pierce as a member of this meeting, the purpose and object of which was 'To discuss ways by which destitute children may be kept in, or restored to suitable homes, under the care of their kin, and minimize the placing of destitute children in public institutions.' This was a most interesting and educational gathering. Every state in the Union, Hawaii, and Territory of Alaska, were represented. Something like 125 active members were in attendance. The president of the organization is Miss Sophie Irens Loeb, who is giving her time to this great work. She is one of the most beloved women in the city of New York."

"The first day of the gathering, we were welcomed by an address by Governor Smith, also addresses by Mayor Hyland, Miss Loeb, and Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson. A letter was read from the President of the United States, congratulating them on the gathering and giving his full endorsement to the movement. Other notable speakers on that day were: James J. Davis, secretary of labor, Hon. Murray Hulbert, representing the benevolent order of Elks. In the afternoon we had the pleasure of hearing from Hon. Bird S. Coler, commissioner of the department of public welfare of the state of New York.

"Men and women of national reputation from different states were on the program at different periods of the meeting, including such well-known characters as James E. West, secretary of the White House conference on dependent children, Dr. Henry Dwight Chapin, who gives such of his time to the cause of children, Dr. Neva R. Beardorf of Pennsylvania, William J. Bryan, Senator Benjamin Arlin of New York, Cornelius F. Collins, justice of the court of general sessions, George A. Hall, executive secretary of the New York Child Welfare commission. The meeting was attended by five governors.

"The motto of the meeting was 'A Home for Every Child.' Uniform laws throughout the United States, mothers' pensions, keeping the child in homes as far as possible. It was shown that this could be done at a much cost than to keep them in public institutions.

this work and, in his speech of welcome, stated that the city of New York, in 1924, contributed over $5,000,000 to this cause. He further stated that "Civilization cannot rest on broken homes. No city or state can afford to stand by and see the home broken down and so a great work is the human welfare problem," and he congratulated us upon having assembled in the greatest city in the world to discuss this very important problem. I might say the object and purpose of the meeting is summed up in the following: "As far as possible, to secure natural, normal home life for every child; to prevent the placing of the normal dependent child in institutions; to prevent pauperism among children; To promote the study, investigation, adoption and revision of mothers' pension laws in the various states of the United States; To raise the standards of Child Welfare laws in the various states of the United States; To formulate and secure the adoption of proper standards for the care of the normal, dependent child in the home; To aid in the enforcement of laws relating to child welfare."

"In conclusion, I wish to say that we were most highly entertained and courteously received by the good people of New York. We were entertained at luncheons, theater parties, and a trip up the Hudson. A magnificent banquet was served there were something like six hundred guests, Senator Roy Copeland of New York, presiding, and thirteen speeches were delivered by eminent men and women from different parts of the country.

"We are living in a most remarkable time; we are living in a commercial age to a very great extent, and in the contest for the supremacy of the almighty dollar, we are apt to forget those who are less fortunate; therefore, meetings of this kind are most valuable and necessary in the great contest of life for a better and a greater civilization."

Riding Horses of Today Excel Breed of Past

WASHINGTON — While the number of riding horses bred in recent years has decreased enormously, army officers say the kind and type of this day is far superior in quality and breeding than in the past.

Not only is there a demand in the army for good riding horses, say officers of the quartermaster corps, but horseback riding, polo and hunting are greatly on the increase throughout the country, and a good, well-bred riding horse is bringing a better price than at any time in the history of the United States.

Pointing that breeders appreciate this, the officers point to the numerous applications being made to the quartermaster general's office for remount stables, more than 1,500 being received. To encourage the breeding of light horses, the quartermaster corps is distributing stallions of thoroughbred, Arab and Morgan breeds. The thoroughbred, or running horse, the officers say, is by far the most popular sire for the production of riding horses.

In the army's quest for appropriate horses the entire country has been covered by army purchasing boards, and while the purchasing program is now up to schedule, Major C. L. Scott of the remount service, said that "the fact that horses of proper type were so hard to locate shows the neglect of breeding in the past and the scarcity of good sires of riding type at the present."

During the World war, and for a dozen years previous, breeding of light horses, particularly riding horses, decreased greatly. In many states the drop being from 75 to 90 per cent. The breeder has now discovered that it only pay to raise a high-class, wellbred colt and that "scrub and mongrels are of no use and have no saleable value."

FRENCH TROOPS WIN IN DESPERATE MOOR CLASH

VIOLENT ATTACK STAGED; ALL UNITS CALLED OUT

French Soldiers Victorious in Repulsing Attacking Moroccan Invaders

FEZ, French Morocco, June 27.—(By Associated Press.)—Facing an alignment of Rifian shock troops and Abd-el-Krim's best regulars, surpassing in numbers and violence of attack anything heretofore attempted by the Moors, the French in a series of combats have succeeded in preventing the Fez-Taza line of communications from being severed. Abd-el-Krim's warriors, however, were repulsed only after every French unit available had been called into action.

Although driven back, Abd-el-Krim's troops retain the initiative in the operations, the French remaining on the defensive. The French official communique admits that the tribesmen penetrated nearly to El Arba de Tissa, only about 27 miles from the Holy City of Fez.

The Moorish attack on the left flank continues with unabated fury on a line just east of Ouzanan. Military experts assert that the Moors are now making a supreme effort to drive the Europeans from the Rif.

Only prompt defensive action permitted the French to maintain their positions along the Ain Aicha and Ain Natout fronts. Airplanes which began operating with daylight were greatly instrumental in dislodging the advance guard of Moors numbering 3,000 men. These troops were digging themselves into the south of the Fez-Taza road.

SALEM PICNIC SUCCESS

NEARLY 500 ATTEND ANNUAL EVENT IN PORTLAND

One of the most successful of the Salem picnics held in Laurelhurst Park, Portland, was staged Saturday with nearly 500 present, of which approximately 100 were from Salem and the remainder former Salem residents now living in Portland. The affair was opened by Roy T. Bishop, president of the reunion committee with Hal D. Patton, of Salem, as chairman of the day.

Mrs. Haile Parrish Hinges lead in the singing of America and gave several vocal selections during the program. Talks were given by Charles B. Goodrich, Portland, who with John Knight and Mrs. J. J. Murphy originated the reunion event nearly 15 years ago; W. D. Wagon, son of the man who planted the first maple tree here; Mrs. Marsh, formerly Marie Smith, Hal Patton's first school teacher 45 years ago; Oswald West former governor; F. Wheeler, Frank D. Hodkins, L. B. McClain,ohn Knight, Whitney Boise and Seymour Jones. All gave short and snappy talks.

Following the dinner the remainder of the afternoon was spent in exchanging reminiscences and in renewing old friendships.

American Polo Team Is Defeated by Britishers

LONDON, June 27.—(By The Associated Press)—East met west at polo on the somewhat neutral field of Hurlingham this afternoon and the west, represented by the champion United States army team, was beaten 13 goals to 3 by the famous Indian four of the Maharaja of Jodhpur.

Statesmen after their recent matches against the British army team in which the Americans retained the championship won at Meadowbrook last year was largely responsible for the defeat today.

It was the last match in which the Americans will play in England.

Passing of Barber Recalls Many Celebrities He Shaved

SAN FRANCISCO—The recent death of Bernhard Bernhard, known to two generations of San Franciscans as the owner and manager of the Palace hotel barber shop, recalls the many celebrities he shaved and looked after in other tonorial ways. He was past 80, and for 50 years had missed scarcely a day at his shop. He trimmed the beards of Presidents Ulysses S. Grant and Benjamin Harrison and shaved Presidents William McKinley, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding. Among other notables in every walk his list included Enrico Caruso and John L. Sullivan.

Movie Queens Often Fail To Get Roles They Desire

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—One of the greatest problems with which motion picture directors have to contend is casting in suitable parts the feminine stars of film-dom. Many of the actresses have beauty and personality adaptable to many roles, while others film well only in certain parts. The director's problem is made more difficult because of the desire of the majority of the actresses to enact roles contrary, in the director's opinion, to their personalities. Sometimes it becomes necessary to use compulsion to select the players needed.

A director noted these requests for parts contrary to those he had selected: One actress wanted to play the part of a girl in tattered garments, the heroine of romantic poverty. Her assignment necessitated 14 changes of elaborate apparel.

A second who desired the role of a vampire was cast in the part of an amiable wife, while one who aspired to be a sweet housewife character acted the part of a fascinating and beautifully goned heroine.

One who had visions of making masculine hearts flutter became an unsophisticated flapper, while a star whose aim was the farm girl's role, with all the sim-
