PROCTOR SCORES WINNING RUN IN LAST FRAME

The Valley Motor nine won a hotly contested game from the ONS's last night. The score was tied at 4-4 until the last of the fifth inning, when with the bases full Proctor's hit brought in the winning tally.

The Valley Motor club made the first two scores in the first inning of the game, and then continued their tally-making with two more in the third. In this inning they blew up, however, and by making several costly errors, allowed the guardsmen to make four runs.

This was the second 5 to 4 win taken from the guardsmen by the Valley Motor team. Umpires were Edwards and H. Gross.

EVOLUTION LAW IS ASKED FOR OREGON

difference. It is only when we examine the embryo that we can justify and note the difference between the two specimens.

"We will have to revise our interpretation of the old testament," Mr. Cantrell declared, "in view of the discoveries made by archeologists and geologists. Ancient ruins of civilizations existing thousands of years before the birth of Christ have been found. There is now a tree growing in California that has been there for 7000 years. How are we to reconcile these facts with the story that the world was created only 4000 years before Christ was born? In that case the tree was standing there 1000 years before the world was created."

In confuting Mr. Cantrell's statements, Dr. Riley came to a defense of the Bible. "There is no one who interprets the Bible to read that the world was created in six days of 24 hours each," he stated. "In the first place, the sun was not created at once, so there would be no means to measure a day. The term used in the Bible is 'day' which should not be interpreted as a day, but as an 'epoch' or 'eon'. The creation of the world might have possibly taken several million years."

"My friend Dr. Cantrell speaks of 'cosmic dust'. That isn't 'cosmic dust' you see when you look into the heavens. That is a myriad of universes and worlds, created by the hand of God, indistinguishable to the naked eye of man."

"There is nothing to offer in support of the theory of evolution. Take for example the 600,000 or more separate species that make up this world of ours. Not one of these species has ever failed to produce after its own kind, according to the law placed in the Book of Genesis. If I ever hear of a single case of a cross between two species, and the result of that cross being fertile, I will admit that evolution is no longer a theory, but an established fact."

LAND BLOCKADE FORMED

FRANCE AND SPAIN TO BAR REBEL MOROCCAN ZONE

MADRID, July 8.—(By Associated Press.)—France and Spain today signed an agreement to conduct a land blockade of the Moroccan rebel zone. The agreement, which supplements the sea blockade accord signed recently, was effected by the delegates of the Franco Spanish conference on Morocco at a session today.

Louis Malvy, head of the French delegation, announced a third accord, providing for French and Spanish political cooperation in Morocco would be signed tomorrow.

General Gomez Jordan of Spain who is president of the conference, declared that "the accord signed today provides for the blockading of the land borders to prevent traffic in arms, ammunition, foodstuffs and other commodities needed by the rebels, and to suppress suspicious maneuvers."

SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

For many weeks to come Gene Tunney will draw the bulk of attention in the heavyweight circles.

He deserves such attention. His victory over the much talked of veteran, Tommy Gibbons, gives him some claim to fame.

But let's not form any wrong impressions concerning the young man—as much in justice to himself as for any other reason.

Tunney stands out as one of the best young heavyweights in the game. Because of his recent k. o. victory he holds the edge, in drawing power at least, over Jimmy Slattery, Paul Berlenbach, Young Stribling and Jack Delaney.

But he cannot now be called a great heavy.

There is no reason for ranking him above Firpo—the man who knocked Jack Dempsey out of the ring.

He has not met Firpo. He fought a worn out vet when he met Carpenter.

He has licked no one of real importance. Giving him the credit due him in his fight with Gibbons the fact that the St. Paul man was but an aged shell cannot be overlooked.

Tunney has already been likened to Gentleman Jim Corbett in boxing skill. Those who seek to pay Gene this compliment must have forgotten how good Corbett was.

The main thing in Tunney's favor is his youth and the present situation in the heavyweight division. The next logical opponent for the young Tunney will be the winner of the Harry Wills-Charlie Weinert battle. Both of these men are ring grandpas.

By the time Tunney disposes of one of them and steps into the ring with the champion the latter will be an old man in ring parlance and out of the habit of fighting.

In the meantime, however, Tunney may find trouble for himself if he takes on one of the aforementioned younger men. A draw verdict or a defeat even on points at the hands of Slattery, for instance, would lower Tunney's stock.

The kind thing to do Tunney is to give him plenty of encouragement and let him alone. Let's not build him into a false idol and then watch him go on the rocks of torchlight parades and ballyhooing.

Eddie Kealey, New York structural iron worker, born in County Cavan, Ireland, and now weighing the tidy poundage of 197, is one of the newer aspirants for Jack Dempsey's crown. The most interesting thing about him is that he is a southpaw fighter, the only one in the ring game today and one of the few in heavyweight discipline been maintained in recent seasons the Cubs, with the material employed, might have won a pennant or two.

The other day the question of policy came up again and Lasker finally stated in a friendly spirit that as long as the two ideas conflicted it was only fair that one man step out. He thereupon offered to buy Wrigley's interests at $200 a share or sell him at $150. Wrigley agreed to buy.

Lasker, however, still retains enough stock to give him a place in the directorate.

For those fight promoters and managers who think—and we fear that we automatically limit this item to the attention of a very few men—there should be a warning in the financial outcome of the recent Tunney-Gibbons battle in New York.

The battle was a gigantic fizzle as far as the box office was concerned. The promoters lost between $60,000 and $70,000. This despite the fact that Tunney is a reigning favorite in New York and the rest of the east; that Gibbons had the rep of having stayed 15 rounds with Dempsey, and that the show was staged for sweet charity.

Gibbons drew $100,000 for his end and Tunney a total of $50,000 for his end.

Three boners were pulled in staging the fight.

The promoters allowed the falling old veteran Gibbons and his astute manager to hold them up. The same promoters figured they could kid the public into paying high prices for seats. They ignored the fans who like fighting but can't pay a day's salary to see a bout.

The result has been chronicled. Those who didn't have the price stayed away.

Those who had it figured the fight wasn't worth the money—ditto.

And those who went weren't any too well satisfied with what they got for their money.

Now the warning is that these holdups can't be pulled too often. The sooner promoters and managers get together and decide to play fair with the public the better off the fight game will be.

And every holdup is souring a certain number of ticket buyers on the game.

Sensational don'ts for swimmers are appearing. If you do not remember the others, bear in mind that the injunction to use common sense will of itself go far as a safeguard.

That's a common record with Aristo. This western oil is economical to begin with—it costs less than many other motor oils—but its greatest saving is in the end.

Perhaps the most confusing thing about motor oils is the matter of price. Eastern oils, for example, cost more—chiefly because they carry heavy freight rates. Western oils, actually superior lubricants, are thus obviously the most economical. And particularly is this true of Aristo Motor Oil. Aristo's greatest saving, however, is not in its price. It's in that most formidable of items—motor up-keep. Aristo combats the formation of carbon. And as a lubricant it has no peer. The makers of Aristo have a pride in their product which takes no account of costs. It could sell for twice as much and not be a better oil. Sold at Union Oil service stations, and at independent dealers of the first class everywhere.
