NEIGHBORHOOD LAWN
A party was one of the most interesting events of recent evenings when Mr. William White, night patrolman in the eastern part of the city, entertained for a group of friends at the home of Mrs. Lula Phillips, on the corner of N. 21st and State streets. The lawn was transformed into a gay Japanese garden with innumerable colored lanterns. A punch-bowl and an ice cream and cake stand were the sources of delicious refreshments throughout the evening. Music and conversation made the party, which many said was the most enjoyable they had attended in many months, full of "merri-ment."

In the group were: Mrs. M. Goode, Mrs. Mae McDaniel, Mrs. E. Downing, Mrs. Behlbreed, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rogers, Mrs. John Jayes, Mrs. Winnie Pettyjohn, Mrs. Lila Phillips and Mrs. J. P. Daniels, and Mrs. S. H. Probert. Mr. and Mrs. Demerest, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mr. and Mrs. Fred Armbrist, Mr. Maranda, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil C. Rush, Mayor and Mrs. J. B. Giesy.

American War Mothers' organization chapters throughout the country have adopted a plan whereby the members in charge of veterans' hospital work, finding a patient who hails from a different state from the one in which the hospital is located, report his presence to the War Mothers in his own state, that they may send him little gifts and otherwise keep up the "home touch." This plan, declared Mrs. Marguerite N. McSieur of Kansas City, national American war mother, in outlining its workings yesterday, has been one of the most satisfactory activities of the organization.

Mrs. McClellan is paying an official visit to the Oregon and Portland War Mothers, having visited Colorado and Idaho, and will leave Thursday for California.

"Our hospital work is uniform throughout the country," said Mrs. McClellan, "as is our patriotic work, memorial and so forth. Planting of memory trees, creating 'memory miles' is one of our great features, and our goal now is to have these avenues of trees reach from coast to coast. In Denver I visited the memorial home of the War Mothers, at the site of the government hospital, maintained to afford a pleasant and inexpensive place for the visitors of the patients to stay. This is one of our greatest projects."

Mrs. McClellan's older son returned from the world war safely. He has remained in the service, having been a captain of the artillery overseas and taking part in three great battles, Chateau Thierry, Belleau Wood and the Argonne. Mrs. McClellan is the wife of Halbert N. McClellan, attorney of Kansas City.

BRILLIANT PAGEANTS OFFERED IN SEATTLE

"WAYFARER" WILL BE PRESENTED FOR SIX NIGHTS

Knight Templar and Middles Will Attend Between July 27 and August 1

Special nights at "The Wayfarer" to be produced in the University of Washington stadium, each evening July 27 to August 1, have been announced at the headquarters of the big civic and religious pageant. Because of the large number of Knights Templar who will be in Seattle that week attending the 36th Triennial Conclave of the order, crack drill teams from all parts of the country will give exhibition drills each evening before the performance starts. In honor of the drill teams taking part, nights have been named for the various states from which the organizations come.

On Governor's night it is expected the chief executives of Oregon, Idaho, Washington and British Columbia will be present. Special invitations will be sent to these men.

With 1,500 midshipmen from Annapolis Naval academy in Seattle during "Wayfarer Week," squads of several hundred of these men will be in the final March of Nations each evening and special ceremonies will take place on Navy night.

This is the first time midshipmen from the United States Naval academy have visited this coast and it is expected their smart appearance and clock-like precision will prove an added attraction for those attending the pageant.

Plans are being made to care for 120,000 persons, who it is expected will see "The Wayfarer" during the week. Two new carlines are being constructed to the stadium gates and an additional bridge has just been completed across the Lake Washington canal. This will be the first time fifty pageants has been presented in the stadium with carlines operating to the structure. Special loading platforms with electric turnstiles will make it possible to handle the crowds boarding cars without confusion or discomfort. The new bridge also will give quick access to the stadium for automobiles. Twenty acres of additional parking space for automobiles also has been provided.

Although mail orders for reserved seat tickets were not filled until July 1, great stacks of mail have been arriving at the pageant headquarters every day for weeks, containing orders for tickets from all parts of the country, and even from Alaska and the Philippine Islands. Cities in Michigan, Maryland and Ohio have ordered blocks of tickets ranging from 50 to 200.

The regular sale of tickets over the counter will start on July 13.

and mail orders will be filled up to the time of the opening of the production.

Railroad traffic officials in the Pacific Northwest are making arrangements to handle the largest number of passengers during "Wayfarer Week" ever carried in the history of this part of the country. Special round trip excursion rates have been granted from all points in the Pacific Northwest.

In addition to "The Wayfarer" and the Knight Templar Conclave, The Seattle Sportsmen's association will hold its annual exhibition and the American Athletic Union will stage its national swimming contests in Seattle during "Wayfarer Week."

The American Language

An English professor is coming over to edit a dictionary of American English, or more properly, the American Language.

Yankee professors, after refusing to admit these many years that there is such a thing as an American language, have happened upon the amazing discovery that there is one after all, and are bent now on isolating and imprisoning it in the marble walls of lexicography.

Ambrose Bierce, himself a master of English, satirically defined a lexicographer as "a pestilent fellow who, under pretense of recording some particular stage in the development of a language, does what he can to arrest its growth, stiffen its flexibility and mechanize its methods."

"For your lexicographer, having written his dictionary, comes to be considered 'as one having authority,' whereas his function is only to make a record, not to give a law.

"The natural servility of the human understanding having invested him with judicial power, surrenders its right of reason and submits itself to a chronicle as if it were a statute.

"Let the dictionary (for example) mark a good word as 'obscure' and few men thereafter venture to use it, whatever their need of it and however desirable its restoration to favor—whereby the process of impoverishment is accelerated and speech decays.

"On the contrary, the bold and discerning writer, who recognizing

The truth that language must grow by innovation if it grow at all, makes new words and uses the old in an unfamiliar sense, has no following and is largely reminded that "it isn't in the dictionary" although down to the time of the first lexicographer no author had ever used a word that WAS in the dictionary.

Bierce recalls the golden prime and high noon of English speech; when from the lips of the great Elizabethans fell words that made their own meaning and carried it in their very sound; when a Shakespeare and a Bacon were possible, and the language now rapidly perishing at one end and vigorously renewed at the other was in vigorous growth and hardy preservation, the lexicographer was a person unknown, the dictionary a creation which his Creator had not created him to create.

Don't be afraid to use a picturesque, unskilled, effective word regardless of whether it is in the dictionary. If it's a good word, it'll be there eventually.
And if you converse in the tongue your neighbors understand, abandon the idea you speak English. American is your language.

Jap Schools to Contest Hawaiian Language Law

HONOLULU.—Revision of regulations adopted by the territorial school commission appears to have made no material change in the attitude of the 85 litigating Japanese language schools. The modification which permits an eight year course by eliminating the former requirement that attendants at a foreign language school must first have completed the first two grades of a public school, has been characterized by attorneys for the litigants as a step in the right direction toward bringing about an amicable adjustment of the controversy.

The 85 schools are inactive, having closed their doors to avoid being fined for non-payment of the annual fee at the rate of $1 a pupil. There is in preparation a suit to enjoin the territorial officials from enforcing the provisions of the alien language law, as amended by the legislature of 1925.

Thirty schools having complied with the territorial requirements are operating.
