In the nine years I have been supplying goats' milk for babies, malnutrition and weak, broken down stomachs I have seen some remarkable cures, but perhaps the Esherman boy, in which case "I lost my goat," is the most outstanding.

than cows' milk and is sweet and pleasant to the taste. It is difficult to detect any difference between goats' milk and cows' milk by the taste. The old-time prejudice against it is due to the fact that the buck, or male goat, has an unpleasant odor at certain seasons of the year, but the milk does not come from the buck as everybody knows. The doe, or female goat, is completely odorless and so is her milk. Try some and see for yourselves. Do not be slow to prejudice! Give the little goat a fair chance to prove its worth!

My attention was brought to this boy after six doctors and the city baby clinics had experimented with all kinds of prepared foods and modified cows' milk for over a year. Then they passed the buck and told the mother she could try goats' milk but it wouldn't do any good and if the boy lived he would be an idiot, caused by malnutrition and deformity from lying in the same position for fourteen months. He had reached such a stage one could hardly realize that the drawn, wrinkled mummy looking object was once a perfectly formed, plump baby, weighing nine pounds at birth.

REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD USE GOATS

The number of physicians who own their own goats is increasing and they prescribe the milk as being suitable for babies, adult convalescent patients and general family use. They frequently recommend it for tubercular cases because it is a food of nutritional value that is well borne by this class of patients and because it is well known that the goats themselves are considered immune

Bank clearings for six months reach $12,500,729, $2,000,000 over same period in 1924.

Accommodations and costs little food.

Lawn clippings, surplus garden stuffs, weeds of the neighborhood vacant lots can be used to supplement hay and grain, and she turns all into three or four quarts of life-giving food a day. Her milk is of the best for every household purpose. Delicious ice cream, butter and cheese can be made from it; it is excellent for cooking and cake making and makes wonderful whipped cream. Keep a goat—or better still, keep two goats;—an abundant supply every day in the year of the best food known and cut your milk bill in half.

It looked like a hopeless case, and the parents lived too far for me to deliver the milk, but I told them I would let them take a doe if by any chance we could do anything for this little bit of suffering humanity.

The baby was put into goats' milk, modified at first, of course, as he was very weak, but he held the goat milk down from the first and in two months was well on the road to a normal condition.
At this time I went up to see my doe and her patient. I found the boy sitting up in a high chair holding his own bottle of goats' milk and looking almost human. My doe was in extra good condition.

The industrial center of the United States is rapidly gravitating to Oregon because of the marvelously favorable conditions and prodigality of resources. World markets are opening before us like the first pink of an opening rosebud. Every dollar spent for "OREGON QUALITY" products stimulates it into full and refulgent bloom.

THE LOGANBERRY CROP HANGING ON

working on loganberries. They are also getting a few cucumbers for salting and pickling; just starting. They will get beans in a week or so. They are the only Salem canners taking beans, and their cucumber salting and pickling plant is new this year.
Libby, McNeil & Libby, at the Fruit Union plant, are still getting a goodly supply of loganberries. They are up to about 300 tons here, and expect loganberries most of next week. The berries are getting to their canners at The Dalles by truck each night.
Baker, Kelly & McLaughlin are still getting loganberries, for barreling, and they expect a supply all next week. They will take some evergreen blackberries for barreling, but they may receive them at some other point than Salem.

The evergreen blackberry crop is now expected to be a very fair one; much better than was the outlook some time ago. A good rain would still further improve the prospect.
What is congressional sentiment regarding the broadcasting of its sessions? "Nick" Longworth, speaker of house, says there is divergent sentiment both for and against it. "Personally," he states, "while I do not think it would be wise to broadcast the entire proceedings of congress, I am in favor of broadcasting certain special debates when big and vital questions are being discussed."
