EVOLUTION TRIAL NEARS END; TO CLOSE TUESDAY

Today brought almost a dead calm to the scene of the "evolution trial."

Persons who came early in the day to attend the trial, unaware that a halt had been declared over the week-end, went home again and the street crowds were made up of the normal Saturday visitors. Many of the several score newspapermen here went on a tour of the Smoky mountains or to Chattanooga.

Two attorneys in the case left for their homes — William Jennings Bryan, Jr., leaving for Los Angeles and William O. Thompson going to New York, and both Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan were in Chattanooga tonight. Mr. Darrow will deliver an address there tomorrow. Bryan has canceled all speaking engagements for the week-end.

AUTO LICENSES IN OREGON AID ROADS

designated a part of the national federal aid system, and the federal funds allotted to Oregon from 1916 to 1925 amount to $14,238,489, of which $4,552,662 was allotted for forest road work.

In 1905 there were but 218 motor vehicles of any description in operation in the state of Oregon, and the following year but 142 were registered. In 1907 a fund of $708 was realized by the state in a flat tax of $3 per vehicle from a total registration of 236 vehicles. The $3 tax prevailed until 1911 when the law was enacted fixing the horsepower of the motor as the basis of taxation and providing a sliding scale of $3, $5, $7.50 and $10. During the year 1911 there were 6428 motor vehicles of all classes registered, providing a revenue of $27,316. The horsepower basis of taxation continued in force until 1921 when the law was changed to provide a graduated scale of taxes for motor vehicles on the weight basis.

Until 1911 there were no segregation as to classification of vehicle licenses, but the chauffeurs were segregated that year and 1,671 were registered. Under the provisions of the act of 1913 another segregation was created under which, in 1914, there were 16,347 automobiles, passenger cars and trucks, 2,898 motorcycles, 1,838 chauffeurs and 110 dealers were registered, from which fees amounting to $77,592 were collected. The registration of operators did not begin until 1920 when a total of 139,568 operators were licensed. These licenses, being perpetual, are not required to be renewed and the registrations have increased to 354,673 to July 1, 1925.

From 1919, when a total of 83,332 automobiles and trucks were registered, yielding, together with fees from motorcycles, chauffeurs, dealers and operators, an aggregate of $602,579 in revenue to the state the registration of motor vehicles has grown apace, with corresponding increase in fees collected until, in 1923, when the motor truck segregation law went into effect there were 152,975 passenger cars, 13,437 trucks, 3,130 motorcycles, 14,258 chauffeurs, 565 dealers and 263,718 operators, and the collection of fees amounted to $4,069,609.40.

In 1925, from January 1 to June 30, a total of 166,107 passenger cars had been registered, lacking but 11,466 of equalling the total registration of the year 1924, and the fees received for the first six months of 1925, amounting to $4,844,210.08, were $67,856.18 in excess of those received for the entire year of 1924.
