

BROTHERHOOD MEETING PROVES BIG SUCCESS

JASON LEE CHURCH IS SCENE OF BIG GATHERING

Dinner Served by Young People; Dr. S. B. Laughlin Is Principal Speaker

Jason Lee Methodist brotherhood met last night in what was declared to be its most successful meeting since its organization. More than a hundred sat at the banquet tables and partook of the excellent dinner prepared by the young people of the church.

The wives or sweethearts of the men of the brotherhood being their guests was the inspiration of the enthusiasm that was so manifest.

The brotherhood is gaining in members and usefulness and is declared to be the most outstanding organization of the church. Perhaps another cause for the large attendance should be accredited to the fact that the Epworth league sponsored the banquet. A booster club within the league is raising funds to defray the expenses of 24 or more delegates who will attend the institute held at Falls City August 2-10. They are happy over the returns of the evening which has increased the size of their budget more than two fold.

The program as arranged by Rev. Le Roy Walker consisted of solos by Mr. Ronald Craven, who was accompanied on the piano by Miss Lucile Anderson; reading by Master Kenneth Hunt; songs from the Gilbert trio; trombone solos by Herbert Jasper, assisted by Miss Clara Jasper; selections by the league orchestra.

The address of the evening was given by Dr. S. B. Laughlin of the Willamette university, his subject being "Friendship." His talk was instructive, entertaining and deeply spiritual. He based his arguments on the scripture text found in John 15:15: "Henceforth I call you not servants... but I have called you friends." "Friendship," declared the speaker, "does not take the life of another, but, rather, gives his life for another. Friends are not cowards when they do not fight. The surest force for resistance is the spirit of Christ manifest in daily living."

The appreciation of his auditors was shown in the careful attention given him. This meeting, it is believed, will give a new impulse to the brotherhood and church.

SCIENCE DEBATE EVADED

BAPTISTS MAKE LITTLE REFERENCE TO "APE" CASE

ASTORIA, Or., July 21.—"Let science do what it may, it will only deepen my faith in the fundamentals of the Christian faith."

Such was the only reference to the fundamental-evolution squabble in many churches of late made by Rev. J. Villers of Portland in sounding the keynote of the Oregon Baptist's state convention which opened its sessions in this city tonight.

The Rev. Mr. Villers declared that "evangelism" or the business of saving souls would be the keynote of the present session.

He declared that the need of the world and of humanity was: "A renewed appreciation of Christ and a restoration of the lost emphasis on sin."

His audience was told that 75 per cent of the juvenile delinquency cases appearing before the court of domestic relations in Portland involved children of divorced parents.

Evidence of a determined effort to avoid any modernist-fundamentalist battle was given during the annual conference of Baptist ministers of the state which was held today preceding the opening of the Baptist convention.

OPINIONS HANDED DOWN

SUPREME COURT HAS LIGHT CALENDAR TUESDAY

Tuesday was a light day at the supreme court, with only five opinions handed down, none of them being of any great purport other than to those immediately concerned.

The opinions handed down yesterday were:

Thompson Optical Institute vs. R. A. Thompson, appellant; appeal from Multnomah county; appeal from a decree restraining defendant from violation of a contract to refrain from engaging in business of manufacture and sale of optical goods and from carrying on an optical institute. Opinion by Justice Brown; Judge Robert A. Tucker affirmed.

In the matter of the petition of the Scappoose Drainage district; appeal from Columbia county; objections to cost bill sustained in opinion by the court.

E. B. Thrift et al vs. George P. Laird, appellant; appeal from Curry county; appeal from decree foreclosing executory contract for sale of land, directing sale thereof by sheriff and barring defendants of all interest in the land. Opinion by Justice Coshow; Judge H. B. Bell affirmed.

Petitions for rehearings were denied in City of Athens vs. Jack and in Condit vs. Condit.

Eight months after her secret marriage to George W. Gill, law student, Mrs. Margaret Parsons Gill, 20, stands accused by police of playing a part in the death of her former sweetheart, Robert Read, Centenary College football star. Read died in or after a fight which Gill (inact) admits they had in the water at a resort near Shreveport, La., clad in bathing suits, while Mrs. Gill, in a rowboat, looked on. They deny direct responsibility for his death, which was caused, police allege, by a blow with an oar propelled by Mrs. Gill.

LAUNDRY HELD CAUSE OF RESTAURANT FRACAS

VALLEY GRILL PROPRIETOR BEATEN BY GIRL

Employee Resents Accusations; Male Friend Takes Hand and Owner Flees

An argument that started over the mixing of some laundry in the Valley Grill yesterday ended in a free for all fist fight, in which Miss Nell Mitchell completely vanquished her opponent, Harry Corn, proprietor of the grill.

Mr. Corn made the mistake of thinking that he could tell a woman how to mix clothes in a washing machine, but quickly discovered that he had erred. Miss Mitchell informed him that she did not mix the laundry, and then from worse to worse until Miss Mitchell became thoroughly incensed and began to administer a thrashing to Mr. Corn was not opposed to settling the dispute in that way and he, too, fell to pommeling Miss Mitchell. The two contestants were separated by bystanders after it became apparent that Corn was no match for his opponent.

COURT ACTION DRAGGING WOODBURN CASE INVOLVING $20,500 CONTINUES

Seemingly interminable, the suit against the city of Woodburn for $20,500, instituted by Nicholas Miller of that town, dragged through another court session yesterday and may not be concluded today. A motion by the defendants for a declaration of non-suit was denied by Judge Percy R. Kelly yesterday when the matter came up early in the morning session.

Attorneys for Miller closed their case during the morning after examining nine witnesses. The defendants opened in the afternoon and will carry over today. It is believed the case will not be concluded until Thursday morning as the city of Woodburn has subpoenaed a large number of witnesses and most of them will be called to the stand. The trial was started on Friday and has already gone through four days of court. It was said at the beginning that it would take only a day and a half to try the case.
