ROAD LOG FROM SALEM, ORE. TO OYSTERVILLE, WASH.
BY ALBERT BYERS
The tourist to the Oregon or Washington beaches will find the Salem-Astoria route a most delightful drive. From Salem to Astoria the road is paved the entire distance.
Astoria is 157 miles from Salem.

To reach the Washington beaches proceed to the foot of Fourteenth street where is located the dock of the Astoria-North Beach Auto Ferry which operates between Astoria and Point Ellis, Wash. At the present time ferry leaves at 8 a. m., 1 p. m., 3 p. m., and 5:20 p. m., for Point Ellis—distant 5 1/2 miles and requiring 30 minutes for passage. After June 25 ferry will operate on an hourly schedule with capacity for 32 cars and 496 passengers.
From Point Ellis, Wash., dock to McGowan Postoffice is a distance of 1.5 miles, the road for this distance having been rocked just recently, but from here on to the end of one trail this road is excellent gravel surface. 0.5 miles from McGowan is Fort Columbia a Government Military reservation, and 1.9 miles further on is Chinook. The mouth of the Chinook river is crossed just 163.5 miles distant from our starting point, the road from Point Ellis to the Chinook river paralleling the Columbia.

Immediately upon crossing the Walcut river, 166.7 miles from Salem a road sign indicates a westward turn to Ilwaco 1.5 miles distant. From Ilwaco side trips can be made to Fort Canby, another Government Military reservation, 3 miles distant over a planked but passable road, and to North Head Lighthouse, also and north of Holman we reach Seaview 169.5 miles from Salem.

The autoist has the choice of two roads from Seaview to the Beaches to the north, one directly north over a fairly good road and about 1.5 miles shorter than by the main highway which is gained by returning over the same route we arrived by and then travelling north over good gravelled surface to a road sign 171.2 miles from Salem directing the traveller to turn west 1 mile for Long Beach (the World's Auto speedway.) When the tide is low the beach offers the autoist the finest stretch of driving surface for a distance of upwards of 25 miles, many visitors preferring this driveway in travelling from one beach city to another.

Retracing the 1 mile to the main highway and turning north a road sign 181.6 miles from Salem indicates a turn west for Ocean Park 0.7 miles distant. Nearby is located a United States Coast Guards station.

Retracing the 0.7 miles back to the highway proceed north to Narcotta 182.1 miles from Salem. Here you will find Postoffice free auto camp, and ferry landing for Nehalem on the Washington mainland.

4.1 miles north of Narcotta and 1 mile from the beach is Oysterville the northernmost community on the peninsula and the end of our trail.
