

LOGAN SEASON IS OVER

ONLY FEW BERRIES AVAILABLE FOR BARRELING

The loganberry season is practically over for another year, although a few berries are still being received for barreling purposes. The crop in the Salem district this year was good and the price fair. It is estimated that approximately 2750 tons of loganberries have been shipped from the Salem district this season, and figuring at a price of five cents a pound for the entire crop, the amount brought into Salem this year by the loganberry approximately $275,000. Of this amount some $100,000 went to pickers and haulers.

This year's success does not seem to encourage many farmers into considering replanting acreages of loganberries. The loganberry has caused the downfall of more than one good farmer in the last few years and consequently people are a little afraid to risk them again. The prospects for next year's crop, however, are excellent and it is expected that a bigger yield than this year will be received.

SUMMER SCHOOL ENDED

FIVE WEEKS COURSE IS COMPLETED LAST WEEK

The five weeks' summer school held in Salem under the auspices of the Monmouth Normal school closed last week. The school this summer has been one of the most successful ever staged. Of the 533 students enrolled nearly all finished the courses.

Ten critic teachers and 52 student teachers from Monmouth had charge of the school under the supervision of Miss Margaret Cooper. The school is held each summer primarily to afford the practice required by the normal school before degrees can be granted to prospective students.

Of this year's student body, the majority were in school of their own volition rather than because their attendance had been encouraged by school officials.

CLINICS ARE SLATED

HEALTH DEMONSTRATION TO HAVE BUSY WEEK

Clinics under the direction of the Marion county child health demonstration will be held in the county this week as follows:

Tuesday and Wednesday the demonstration staff will hold clinics at Scotts Mills. On Thursday and Friday, a clinic will be staged at Liberty. Local committees appointed to take charge of arrangements in the two towns are as follows:

Scotts Mills: Mrs. S. M. Bennett, chairman, Mrs. Leroy Frazier and Mrs. Nellie Amundson.

Liberty: Mrs. Claude Stevenson, chairman, Mrs. Bruce Cunningham, Mrs. Harold Zosel, Mrs. Willis Dallas, Mrs. Frank Mahoney and Mrs. Fred Cone.

Committees this week at Brooks on Tuesday and Wednesday, and Pratum on Thursday and Friday, were as follows:

Brooks: Mrs. C. V. Ashbaugh, chairman, Mrs. Fred Batchelor, Mrs. S. A. Harris, Mrs. Walter Fuller and Mrs. Malcolm Ramp.

Pratum: Mrs. Carrie Branch, Mrs. George Klein, Mrs. William DeVries and Mrs. O. Myers.

DANCE REVUE OFFERED

MINIATURE FOLLIES PRESENTED AT BLIGH

Heading the new bill at the Bligh theater today is "The Miniature Follies of 1925." This number is a refreshing revue with three pretty women and two men, making up one of the most pleasing and delightful dancing acts of the season.

Oliver and Van, in "A Perfect Day" will prove to be a most clever turn from the start. Many funny situations and comedy dialogue will bring many laughs from the audience.

Leroy and Mabel Hart are a youthful pair of talented entertainers endowed with beautiful trained voices and wonderful personalities. They offer a most enjoyable vocal sketch which they call "Love in the Southland." They tell a story in song of the early '60s.

Jane Taps McKinney, whose billing is "A Dancing Surprise," is truly an artist in her line and there are few dancers who have worked out as nifty a turn as this pretty actress has.

Miss Chester, booked as "The Chattering Contortionist," comes to vaudeville from the circus ring, where she starred several seasons.

Birthroom of Italy's King

Will be Preserved Empty

NAPLES—After much incursion as to the best way of preserving for posterity the room here in which King Victor Emmanuel III was born, Minister of Public Instruction Fedele, after consulting Benedetto Croce, noted Sicilian philosopher, has decided to leave

It entirely empty, except for a marble tablet in the middle of the room to record the event.

It was first proposed to restore the room to its original appearance at the time the king was born; then there was a plan to fill it with relics excavated from the ancient city of Herculaneum, but both of these suggestions were abandoned.

Guam Children Trade Old Relics for Movie Passes

HONOLULU—An ancient sacred relic in exchange for a ticket to the movies is the latest tale to float up from the mysterious islands of the South Seas where a group of scientists is attempting to solve the problem of the origin of the Polynesian race.

It is told in a letter from one of the workers attached to the Bishop Museum, Honolulu, and concerns Guam and the Chamorro children of the sunbaked shores of that island who hunt assiduously for bits of weathered stone in order to enjoy viewing the cowboys, train wrecks, shooting scrapes and bathing girls that appear on the Guam screen as representing that far away and unknown country, America.

The search is "hazardous," for the children because of the tradition that the strangely-shaped stones which are in such great demand at the Agana "movie-house" belonged once to the "Taotomonas," or the "people of other time," who are feared so greatly that none of the adult residents dare touch the relics.

The stones are the implements and weapons left by the former inhabitants of the Marianas, who may have belonged to a race antedating the Polynesians, the scientists say.

Many varieties of the objects are necessary for the study of the habits and customs of the race and the Bishop Museum expedition has contracted with the Agana motion picture theater in one of the strangest compacts ever signed. Its terms provide for an exchange of the relics for free admission to the show, the museum to redeem the stones, most of which have come from "Tabu" or forbidden spots. They will be studied carefully and perhaps in them will be found the clue that will lead to the origin of the Polynesian peoples.

GERMAN VINEYARDS ARE HEALTHY

BERLIN—An excellent grape crop is expected throughout Germany this year according to the federal statistical bureau. Almost all the wine producing areas report that the vines are in splendid condition so that the hope for a duplication of the banner year of 1922 is justified.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke
 How does a mere woman who is commonly supposed to have no head for figures, acquire a knowledge of taxes that will enable her to hold down a job like that of Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue of the Chicago district? Well, this is the way Mrs. Reinecke did it.

She became interested in politics and suffrage as a very young girl and at her first suffrage convention was made a member of the board. She was often called the "baby member." When the Woman's National Republican Committee was organized Mrs. Reinecke was made secretary and Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman. Mrs. Bigler, treasurer of the Illinois state association, suggested the study of taxes to her.

"Every time we talk to men in the legislature about appropriation they talk taxes. You go learn something about taxes so we can answer them," she said.

In 1917 Mrs. Reinecke was appointed on the board of assessors and gathered information about state taxes. Then came the war which interrupted her studies. After the war she was appointed assistant collector of internal revenue in the Chicago office where she studied federal taxes. Shortly after her appointment the collector became ill and Mrs. Reinecke did the work and a year later—1923—when he died, President Harding appointed her in his place.

Collecting $2,000,000 each year from thousands of taxpayers Mrs. Reinecke calls a "housekeeping job." She says the big problem is to make all the details of administration time correctly—like getting all the dinner cooked at once.

Mrs. Reinecke has a husband who is proud of his wife's ability. She says the combination of home making and career works very well in her case but thinks it is impossible to generalize on the subject.

Mayor Sentences Boys to Go to Sunday School

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa.—Placing them where they shall be taught "Thou shalt not steal," Mayor Gilmore sentenced four boys whose ages range from 9 to 14 years to attend Sunday School regularly for an indefinite period. The boys were charged with taking a pocketbook belonging to their school principal and were taken into custody when the grandmother of one of them discovered the theft and notified the police.

After pleading guilty, the boys were shown cells in the city

US Dominates Theaters of Europe, Critic States

BERLIN—America is setting its imprint upon the French theater quite as much as upon that of Germany or of Austria, in the opinion of Hellmuth Barnick, critic, in writing in the Lokal Anzeiger.

"America is the bacillus," he observes, "which is infecting Europe. One notices this in Paris quite as much as in Berlin or Vienna. What Italian would have thought of producing 'Aida' in the open air outside of Vienna for an audience numbering tens of thousands, were it not for the fact that New York transformed a church into a theater, and made a theater into a church? America with its super-European dimensions simply kills the theater halls that have been kept up since the days of baroque. At Hollywood America builds up the whole inner city of Paris in order to film the photoplay 'Notre Dame.' America cracks the whip in the Casino de Paris and in the Olympia, and all Paris applauds."

SHIP FRIENDS OF MRS. F. E. SHAFER ARE HERE

Particularly interesting guests in Salem last week were "Little Billie," a Lilliputian actor, and his companion, Captain Patrick O'Hay who stopped here to renew acquaintance with their ship friends, Mrs. F. E. Shafer and W. Earl Shafer. The four know each other from having traveled together when Mrs. Shafer and her son made their voyage to New Zealand in 1923. "Little Billie" and his companion were especially honored at a breakfast while here. Captain O'Hay and "Little Billie" are on tour of the country by motor, having left New York City exactly 30 days prior to their arrival here. Captain O'Hay, who is a lecturer of note, is truly a "fighting fisherman" having fought in nine wars under the English and American flags. Both travelers are loud in their praise of the scenery and the highways of the northwest. It was their opinion that no highway on which they have ever traveled surpasses that from The Dalles to Portland—the Columbia highway. "Little Billie" and his companion left Salem to continue their tour into California and Arizona, returning to New York City by the southern route.

Dane Scores Government for Help to MacMillan

COPENHAGEN—The Danish explorer, Peter Freuchen, launched a violent newspaper attack on the Danish government for permitting the American explorer, MacMillan, to search the ruins of Viking homesteads in Greenland on terms hitherto refused to highly reputed Danish explorers.

Freuchen winds up his attack by saying that while Amundsen remained unheard from, any attempt at saving him—even by MacMillan—might have been tolerated, but now that Amundsen is safe there is no reason to grant MacMillan any facilities.

CULL OUT THE LOAFER HENS

Don't Kill the Layers, Market the Culls, and Save Feed

Nearly fifty per cent of the hens in every flock do not lay a sufficient number of eggs to pay for the cost of their feed alone. Nearly fifty per cent of the male birds in every flock are not worth breeding from. Therefore, one-half of the poultry owned by the average poultryman consumes the profits that he makes on the other half of his flock.

The most important thing that should be known to every poultryman is to tell how to select his good layers, how to pick the birds that consume food but do not lay, and how to pick birds that should be held over as breeders.

During the next few weeks is the important time to cull out these loafers. Hens that have ceased to lay eggs should be disposed of at once. By culling out these hens now you will not only save feed but you will get higher market prices for the culled out hens. The longer you keep these hens, the lower the market price will be and the more feed they will eat.

Cull them out and sell them as soon as they cease egg production. Keep the hens that lay late in the summer and into the fall months. It is easy and simple to tell these hens if you have the plain methods and secret given in

"The Call of the Hen"

A new revised edition of this book by Prof. T. E. Quisenberry, gives all the latest information on culling out the non-layers, selecting for heavy egg production, culling, etc. Hundreds of thousands of copies of earlier editions of this book have been sold and gave entire satisfaction. It is worth $100.00 to any poultry raiser.

The new revised edition is strictly down-to-the-minute in selection by color changes, bodily changes, pigmentation, head points, changes in moulting—all the latest authoritative information is worked out by state investigators and leading poultrymen.

Endorsed by leading authorities—government and state, county agents, farm bureaus, poultry clubs, and experienced poultrymen everywhere. Next to the trapnest itself, this is the best known method. Will positively tell the good from the bad. Contains many illustrations showing just how to cull out loafers, how to tell good producers without trapnests, how to select the breeders to keep over, etc.

It will prove ten times what you pay for it in a single season. Even if you raise but a few hens on a back city lot, you need this book. The method is so simple that a child can apply it.

Guaranteed absolutely to please you or your money refunded. Hundreds of thousands have been sold with this positive money back guarantee and not a book was ever returned. Send $2.00 for a copy, postage prepaid. Address all orders to the
