AT THE home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jaquet, of Victor Point, Miss Martha Jaquet became the bride, Sunday afternoon July 26, of Mr. Victor L. Cooley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cooley of Salem. Rev. C. M. Clark read the service in the presence of about 50 relatives and friends.

The ceremony was very simple and was performed before a bank of gladiolas, arranged in the living room.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white canton crepe which was worn with a long tiune veil caught in coronet effect with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of brides' roses and pink carnations.

Miss Alice Jaquet attended her sister as maid of honor and was attractive in a gown of blue crepe de chine. She carried pink sweet peas. Mr. E. N. Heff, of Portland, brother-in-law of the groom was best man.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Paul Jaquet, sister-in-law of the bride. Miss Neva Beryl Cooley, cousin of the groom, sang "At Dawning," accompanied by Miss Helen Wild of Portland.

A wedding dinner was served after the ceremony, the table being spread in the yard under the friendly branches of the shade trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooley are spending a few days at the Oregon beaches. They will be at home to their friends after August 1, 1925 at 1065 Hood street, Salem.

Ceremonies of dedication for a Samuel K. Barlow memorial shaft were held on the Mount Hood Loop highway near Government Camp were held yesterday at 2 o'clock in Oregon City. The erection of the memorial to the pioneer and the program of dedication was sponsored by the Multnomah chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and by the Sons and Daughters of Pioneers. Members of the Portland tent and of the Susannah Lee Barlow chapter, D. R. R., of this city, participated in the program as well as officers of the pioneer unit.

The monument dedicated was one of a number being erected by the D. A. R. along the route of the Old Oregon Trail in honor of the memory of Samuel Kimbrough Barlow, one of the early pioneers, who aided in developing the Oregon country. George Himes, secretary of the Oregon Pioneer society, will act as chairman of the day. The ceremonies opened with an invocation by Rev. W. G. Eliot, pastor of the Church of Our Father, Unitarian, in Portland.

Included on the program were musical numbers by Mrs. Nieta Barlow-Lawrence and Mrs. Imogene Harding Brodie, members of the Oregon City D. A. R. unit, and an address by Harvey G. Starkweather of Milwaukie, chairman of the monument committee of the Sons and Daughters of Pioneers' organization. A deed to the land on which stands the shaft and the monument itself was presented to the state and received by Governor Pierce when the memorial was unveiled. Members of the state highway commission made short talks. Mrs. Octave J. Goffin, regent of the Portland D. A. R. chapter, gave an address followed by a sketch of Susannah Lee Barlow by Mrs. Jennie Barlow Harding of Oregon City.

CULL OUT THE LOAFER HENS

Don't Kill the Layers, Market the Culls, and Save Feed

Nearly fifty per cent of the hens in every flock do not lay a sufficient number of eggs to pay for the cost of their feed alone. Nearly fifty per cent of the male birds in every flock are not worth breeding from. Therefore, one-half of the poultry owned by the average poultryman consumes the profits that he makes on the other half of his flock.

The most important thing that should be known to every poultryman is to tell how to select his good layers, how to pick the birds that consume food but do not lay, and how to pick birds that should be held over as breeders.

During the next few weeks is the important time to cull out these loafers. Hens that have ceased to lay eggs should be disposed of at once. By culling out these hens now you will not only save feed but you will get higher market prices for the culled out hens. The longer you keep these hens, the lower the market price will be and the more feed they will eat.

Cull them out and sell them as soon as they cease egg production. Keep the hens that lay late in the summer and into the fall months. It is easy and simple to tell these hens if you have the plain methods and secret given in

"The Call of the Hen"

A new revised edition of this book by Prof. T. E. Quisenberry, gives all the latest information on culling out the non-layers, selecting for heavy egg production, culling, etc. Hundreds of thousands of copies of earlier editions of this book have been sold and gave entire satisfaction. It is worth $100.00 to any poultry raiser.

The new revised edition is strictly down-to-the-minute in selection by color changes, bodily changes, pigmentation, head points, changes in moulting—all the latest authoritative information is worked out by state investigators and leading poultrymen.

Endorsed by leading authorities—government and state, county agents, farm bureaus, poultry clubs, and experienced poultrymen everywhere. Next to the trapnest itself, this is the best known method. Will positively tell the good from the bad. Contains many illustrations showing just how to cull out loafers, how to tell good producers without trapnests, how to select the breeders to keep over, etc.

It will prove ten times what you pay for it in a single season. Even if you raise but a few hens on a back city lot, you need this book. The method is so simple that a child can apply it.

Guaranteed absolutely to please you or your money refunded. Hundreds of thousands have been sold with this positive money back guarantee and not a book was ever returned. Send $2.00 for a copy, postage prepaid. Address all orders to the

Did You Ever Stop To Think?

By R. R. Wells, Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

That if gloom-spreaders were required to think before they speak, they might speak differently.

That most cities have gloom-spreaders galore. They are usually just plain theorists and reactionary growlers.

That gloom-spreaders do much to make themselves disagreeable and to block progress. Most of them seem unable to change their mental attitude and put themselves forward as city builders.

That gloom-spreaders should change and try to help build the home city by courage instead of trying to tear it down by fear.

That it is never too late for most gloom-spreaders to have a change for the better. They must understand that to better their own condition they must help to better the home city.

That for a city to attain success it takes consistent, persistent and continuous application of good horse sense.

Gloom-spreaders who can't change, who can't see any good in the home city should buy a lot in the cemetery and phone for the undertaker. They are dead!

British Anxious to Make Another Climb Up Everest

LONDON—Addressing the Royal Geographical Society's anniversary meeting, the president, the Earl of Ronaldshay, said neither the members of the late Mount Everest expedition, nor the Mount Everest committee were prepared to admit defeat with regard to the conquest of Everest.

The prospect of putting the matter to the final test, he said, depended upon the willingness, or otherwise, of the Tibetan government to grant permission to another expedition, rather than upon the readiness and ability of the committee to organize and despatch it.

Bits For Breakfast

We will wonder some day—

We will wonder why it took so long to get full develpoment of the mining region at Salem's front door.

The ore there is apparently rich enough to pay well for mining it; and there is a vast extent of the ore; almost "unlimited" quantities.

The Slogan man must prove, in The Statesman of Thursday, that this is the best sheep country on earth, and that there should be sheep on every farm. Can you help? If so, please do so, today or tomorrow.

As all old-timers will remember, it used to be the custom for the chairman of a lecture committee to introduce the speaker; and he usually improved the occasion to do a little spread-eagling on his own account. Mark Twain tells of one instance, however, which was refreshingly different. He was to lecture in a mining town. The chairman of the lecture committee was a rough old timer, who had had the job wished onto him. When the time came to start things he arose and said: "I don't know anything about this man who is goin' to speak to us. Leastways I know only two things. One is, that he has never been in the penitentiary, and the other is, I don't know why."

The taxes are indeed very heavy and, if those laid on by the government were the only ones we had to pay, we might more easily discharge them, but we have many others, and much more grievious to some of us. We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly, anad from these taxes the commissioners can not ease or deliver us by allowing abatement.—Benjamin Franklin.

Coffee prices are down. The Brazilian coffee profiteers have been hoist by their own petard, so to speak. They fixed prices so high that other coffee producing countries greatly increased production. Then American housewives, best customers for Brazilian coffee, economized when prices were high and American wholesalers would buy in only hand-to-mouth lots. Now the coffee profiteers are getting what the sugar profiteers got a few years ago. Only fair dealing insures good business.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Crisp Bacon—Have bacon cold and pan hot. Turn once or twice while cooking, and when done lay slices on clean paper to drain. Pour off fat before cooking next slices.

Potato Soup—Pare and quarter six potatoes, slice one large onion, and cut two slices rather lean bacon into small pieces; add pinch of celery seed or celery salt, cover all with hot water and boil slowly for 30 minutes or until potatoes have begun to fall apart. Do not drain, but put all through potato ricer, making rather thick pulp. Add one pint milk, one tablespoon butter, and a binder made of one tablespoon flour stirred smooth in one-half cup milk or water. Bring soup to boil, stirring to prevent scorching. Add salt and pepper to taste and serve with a sprinkling of grated cheese or parsley if desired.

Housewife's Delight — Brown three-quarter pound hamburger steak in three tablespoons butter or drippings from bacon. Meat should not be formed into cakes. Add one-half box macaroni which has been boiled in salted water and drained. Add to this one small can of tomatoes, and a little chopped green or red pepper. Stir and cook over slow fire for about twenty minutes or until flavors of ingredients are thoroughly blended. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve with a sprinkling of browned grated cheese if desired. This may be accomplished by placing in oven with biscuits for a few moments. Dishwashing is saved by cooking altogether, thus giving the food its name.

WATER ICE

One quart water, two cups sugar, three-quarter to one cup fruit juice or fruit pulp. Boil sugar and water together for ten minutes. Add flavoring, cool and strain through fine sieve or cheesecloth. Freeze with stirring.

Lettuce and Chive Salad—Shred with the fingers a head of chilled lettuce, add a handful of cut chives and cover with French dressing. This salad may be served from a large bowl, with wooden implements.

SUGGESTIONS

When you put a clean paper in your cutlery drawer fold or cut at least three thicknesses. Then when the top one is dirty, it takes but a minute to take it out, leaving a fresh paper in view. Use heavy white shelf paper, as newspapers turn yellow.

Before preparing meals spread some newspapers over the kitchen floor to catch the little things that fall from the table, stove or kitchen cabinet. Afterwards the papers are easily picked up and burned, thus keeping the floor itself clean.

A hole in the side of an aluminum kettle may be closed by placing the ball part of a snap dress fastener in the hole and flattening the head.
