Gile Finishes Report
H. S. Gile was again the principal speaker at yesterday's noon luncheon of the Salem Rotary club when he completed the report begun the previous week on the international convention of the club held in Cleveland last month. Music was furnished by a group of picked men, all over six feet tall, who offered the new songs adopted by the recently organized club for tall men. The club was organized by a Rotarian shortly before the convention for the purpose of promoting the interests of tall men. Their songs were a plea for conveniences to accommodate tall men, with the threat that tall men were at last out to demand their rights.
