

WOMEN'S SOCIETY

By AUDRED BUNCH

Interesting to Salem women and members of the State Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs is the meeting of the Portland organization which was held last Thursday evening in that city. Miss Louise Hacker, president of the State Federation and well known in Salem, was the principal speaker of the evening.

"Federated clubs may be likened to radio sets; one club and you reach the local community, two clubs and you have a larger radius, three clubs and you still have a still greater field of interest and enjoyment," said Miss Louise Hacker, president of the State

Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, in her address before the members of the Business and Professional Women's club which met at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening for their monthly dinner meeting.

"Today our state federation is a 12-tube set in that we have 12 active clubs, each a powerful force in itself doing splendid work in spreading the gospel of higher standards for women, encouraging greater cooperation between business women, extending opportunities and creating such a wealth of wonderful friendship and good fellowship.

"We have 706 members or broadcasters in our state federation, all members of the immense radio set, our national federation, reaching all over the world, for we are now international with the establishment of a club in Buenos Aires, South America. National and international contact with women who are up and doing things, and mutual feeling of interest.

"Let us all strive to tune in on this immense set of ours, in order that we may derive the benefits to which our membership in the clubs, state and national federation, entitles us."

As a token of appreciation of services as members of the state board, Miss Margaret Fleming, who served as first vice president of the state federation the past year and as corresponding secretary the two previous years, and Mrs. Pearl M. Baldwin, national vice president for two years and a board of members for three years, were each presented with a lovely corsage bouquet by Miss Edith I. A. Dalley, president of the local club, and given a rising vote of thanks by the membership for their successful regime. Miss Hacker also acknowledged that much of the credit of the organization is due to the unselfishness and vision of the women who have served on club boards and know the many problems to be faced, and extended to Miss Fleming and Mrs. Baldwin gracious thanks.—Oregon Journal.
