TODAY'S RECIPES
Creamed Dried Beef—Cut a quarter of a pound of dried beef into pieces with scissors, pour hot water over it. After ten minutes drain off the water. Make a white sauce by melting two tablespoons of butter in a pan, thoroughly blending two tablespoons of flour, one-quarter teaspoon of salt and a few grains of pepper, then gradually adding one cup milk. Stir constantly. Boil two minutes. Place the sauce and the meat in a double boiler for ten minutes before serving.

Tomato Souffle—Melt two tablespoons of savory dripping, blend in four tablespoons of flour and gradually pour in one cup of seasoned, stewed tomatoes. (Use a bit of onion and bay leaf, a teaspoon of sugar and salt and paprika to taste when cooking the tomato.) Stir until the mixture is very thick and add the beaten yolks of two eggs. Remove from the fire, fold in the stiffly whipped egg whites and turn into a buttered soufflé dish. Bake in a moderate oven until well risen and browned.

COOKING VEGETABLES

Have the water boiling before you put the vegetables in to cook. Let it come again to a brisk boil when they are in, then salt to taste. Use as little water as possible and let it cook down toward the end of the cooking time and use it as a sauce with or without the addition of milk. If green vegetables are cooked according to these directions, uncovered, they will retain their fresh green color. Do not form the habit of adding even a suggestion of soda to the vegetable for this purpose, for it is not necessary and it is possible that soda may have a detrimental effect on the vitamin content of the vegetable. Cabbage, onions, cauliflower and other vegetables of rather strong flavor are best cooked uncovered. Remember never to cook vegetables any longer than is necessary to make them tender and palatable.

teaspoon soda, flour enough to make a rather stiff batter (about three cups). Drop from spoon on greased tins and bake in moderate oven. Dates, stoned and cut in pieces or figs may be used in place of the other fruit and peanuts or other nuts in place of English walnuts.

Delicious Peach Salad—Pare and cut in half large yellow peaches. Prepare two halves for each plate. Drop halves into ice water to chill and prevent turning brown. Chop one-half cup mixed nuts, one-half cup fresh or maraschino cherries; mix with mayonnaise. Fill peaches, which have been placed on lettuce, place a puff of thick whipped cream on top and serve very cold.

Whole Wheat Bread—Four cups of buttermilk, one cup brown sugar, a beaten egg, two rounded teaspoons soda, a scant teaspoon salt. Stir to a thick batter with whole wheat flour, making batter thick enough that it drops from a spoon.

Cobbler—Sweeten blackberries in pudding dish liberally and cover with a rich biscuit dough. Bake in a medium oven.

Where worn door sills, splintered boards, or warped places in the floor show themselves, attend to the repair as soon as possible. Mark the warped places with a small lead pencil mark as to where nailing is necessary. To nail when the warping is present will nearly always break the tongue of the board or split in the middle. When the heating plant is going the floor will dry out, the boards will come back where they belong, and then the pencil marks will indicate just where the nailing should be done. Replace worn or broken boards at once. A skillful carpenter or even a handy man can cut these out and replace them.

Many Mounts in Big Combined Show Recruited From Ranks of Working Horses

"Promoted." That in a word tells the story of the fine dappled grey, who, having pulled a "lead" in many a team hitched to many a red wagon from the Penobscot to the Pacific, is at last taken from the working ranks and made a performer.

With the mammoth Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey shows the chances are not great. There are more than 600 working horses but it is not often that a "rosin-back" is recruited from them. Yet opportunity knocks now and then. And when it does Tom Lynch, boss of all the baggage stock, will tell you that expectancy actually seems to be in the air as Jim Dial, of the ring stock stable, walks among the veterans bent upon picking one from their number.

When the selection is made the recruit is led away to his new quarters. For the first few days he is merely allowed to stand "behind the scenes" that he may grow used to the color, the romp and the glare of the band. Then his education begins in the rings. But always between shows. This training will go on for a month, perhaps. He will be "gaited," taught the "stop" and the "starts"—everything that a fine rider's mount must know. Then, finally, there comes the day when he is to make his first appearance before an audience. Always his master or mistress cheers him on with a smile. And it is a tradition that just before entering the "big top" the tyro must have a pat and a word from a clown. Briefly, that is the way the riding horses are "kept up." Splendid equestrianism is a marked feature with with melted butter, then place one thin slice of York state cheese on each round, add a dash of paprika on the cheese. Place in oven until cheese is melted. These dreams are delicious and are very good when served with a fruit salad in place of crackers.

Sweet and Sour Beans—Boil one quart of Lima beans shelled in salted boiling water until tender. Drain and reserve one cup of bean water for the sauce; melt one tablespoon butter, add one tablespoon flour, and then add the bean water. Then stir in two tablespoons vinegar and salt and pepper to taste. Serve hot. String beans may also be prepared in this manner.

the insertion on either side with fine stitches. This gives a strong, neat finish.

USING UP THE LEFTOVERS
Individual dainties cooked in ramekins of glass or pottery offer wide possibilities to the home cook, for almost every course may be prepared in this way. This is an excellent way to use up leftovers that are in small quantities, but that may be built up by the use of a few crumbs, mushrooms or other suitable things to the desired amount needed.

Boiled fish that is left may be flaked, have the drawn butter that is left added, a grated onion, a few crumbs of seasoning and a minced hard boiled egg, then put in a buttered ramekin and baked ten or twelve minutes, will make a nice little fish course.

HOP PICKERS PLENTIFUL SHORTAGE OF PRUNE CROP ADVANCED AS REASON

Lane Mofley, who has been signing pickers for the Williams hop yard at Eola, reports that pickers are more plentiful than they have been since the war. One reason is the shortage of the prune crop, which has required a great many more people heretofore than it will this year to pick the fruit. Another important item that will affect the labor situation is the large number of tourists in the camp grounds near Salem who are planning on an extended vacation so they can pick hops during the fall before settling down for the winter.

Digging May Reveal Swedish Pompeii Secret

CALMAR, Sweden.—Work has been commenced in excavating the Swedish Pompeii, an ancient circular city site from the early Iron age, with nine gates and foundations for 22 houses. It is in the center of the island of Oeland. The work is under the supervision of Marten Stenberger, an archeologist, and an appropriation for the expense has been made by the Swedish Tourist Association.

The existence of this old fortified retreat, Ismantorp, has been known for generations, but practically nothing has been done until this year to determine what the ruins conceal. The circular outer wall, formed of magnificent limestone blocks, joined with admirable skill without the use of mortar, is about 1200 feet long, 12 feet high and 18 feet thick. It is not likely, Prof. Stenberger believes that the wall was even much higher than it is today.
