All those born in Illinois, or who have lived in that state, together with their friends, are invited to attend the picnic.

Shortly after dinner speeches will be made by Hon. Harley White, Mrs. Seymour Jones, and others. "The virtues and general excellence of our native land will be told in song and story," the president of the organization said. PURDY FILES REPLY

SALEM ATTORNEYS ARE REPLIED TO IN LABEL SUIT

Will E. Purdy filed a reply in the circuit court yesterday, to an answer prepared by Walter C. Winslow, S. M. Endicott, and Chris and Mary Lachele, whom he is suing for slander, the outgrowth of alleged statements by them that he was guilty of forgery.

In the reply Purdy says that the defendants declared that he had altered a receipt and committed forgery with reference to the receipt, and was "a forger and no amateur at the game." According to the complaint, Purdy declares that these statements were not only made at the trial of the case and in the circuit and supreme courts, but were repeated at different times, both before and after the trial.

"The plaintiff alleges," the complaint reads, "that the defendants well knew that said contention was false and that all of said statements and contentions were maliciously made for the purpose of injuring the reputation and standing of this plaintiff in the community where he resided and was in business and was a candidate for office."

SALE OF REMEDY LARGE

ROMANCE OF MAN'S ACHIEVEMENT IS RECOUNTED

Public offering by New York bankers on Thursday of 100,000 shares of common stock of the Vick Chemical company brings to national attention the outstanding success of another southern enterprise. Vicks VapoRub, chief product of the company, was first made by Lunsford Richardson in Greensboro, N. C., in 1895, and its manufacture takes today among Greensboro's important industries. This product, originally supplied to the customers of Mr. Richardson's drug store, is now distributed in every section of the United States, in Canada, and all other English-speaking countries, in Mexico and every Latin-American country except two, making a total of 42 foreign countries in all.

The development of the Vick Chemical company adds another romance of individual achievement to the records of American industry. It is largely the story of Mr. Richardson's faith in the product he had created and his untiring effort to build for that product the market which he believes it deserved. How well he has succeeded is demonstrated by the steady expansion of sales until now more than 21,000,000 jars of Vicks VapoRub are used annually.

The amazing growth of the company in the 29 years since Mr. Richardson disposed of his retail business is revealed in the development of sales. In the southern states, where complete distribution was first achieved, the average annual sales per thousand of population has increased from $7.41 during the five-year period, 1910-1915, to $66.21 last year. The average for the southwest states was $20.04 during 1915-1920, and $63.04 last year, while in the northwest states, the newest territory to be opened up, the increase has been from $4.92 during that period to $24.20 last year. The business, which was launched with a capital of $8,000, now has a value, as measured by the market worth of its securities, of more than $16,000,000.

Browning Cinderella, Golden Dream Punctured, Back in Humble Home

Mary Louise Spas, 21-year-old Bohemian girl who represented herself as 14 and was adopted by Edward Browning, millionaire New York realtor, is back with "paw and maw" in a humble home, after living for a week like Cinderella in a palace. She is shown with her father.

men had done the work in the afternoon when the monthly issue of commissary supplies was made, the men being permitted to take these to their cells.

Robert Crawford, head flax man, was leaving the office when he met Murray on the ground near the corner of the building toward the gate, he told the jury. Murray threatened him with a knife until Jones reached the ground when both dashed for the arsenal. A third man was seen just coming over the roof of the building. He believed that both the guards in No. 1 and 2 Posts could have shot and that Holman in No. 1 had ample opportunity to shoot as the men ran 15 or 20 feet to the office. Crawford room brandishing a stiletto-like knife. When Murray turned to Davidson and Nesmith he left. From near the fountain he called to Carl Charlton, outside, to give the alarm, while Charlton directed his attention to Kelly and Willos, coming down the rope. With his hand in his pocket White bluffed them into putting up their hands, he said, and held them until Jones appeared with a rifle and forced him away. White said he stepped away from the two men in order to give Hubbard and Holman an opportunity to shoot. Both Hubbard and McKinley, who had reached the tower, could have shot either of the men, he declared.

J. S. Murray, chief clerk and burlington expert, produced figures showing the prison population last Wednesday to be 485, with 38 guards and nearly a dozen additional men on the payroll. Not more than a dozen men have had more than two years experience he said.

Holman has been at the prison nearly two years and McKinley about a year and a half, it developed at the inquest. Sweeney and Hubbard had about three months experience. Both Holman and Sweeney were killed.

Four guards appeared before the coroner's jury last night, and by their testimony failed to clarify any salient point, with that of George Robinson, chapel guard, conflicting with Carey's statements. Jones and Kelly were cellmates, he declared.

In explaining why he did not shoot from Post 7, Charles McKinley, guard, declared that because Kelly and Willos were in front of Peter White with their hands up, neither he nor Hubbard made an effort to use their guns.

S. B. Sandefur, former prohibition agent of Medford, now a guard, said that he yelled to Post 7 to "shoot." Sandefur told the jury he was outside the fence and went toward the tower on the south to shoot.

E. C. Charlton, of the engineers' department, was also called.

The taking of testimony will continue at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

CONTRACTS ARE LET

CORVALLIS, Or., Aug. 17.—Contract for the erection of the new women's building at Oregon college was let late today to T. Traver of Corvallis, low bidder at $258,000. Contract for heating, ventilation and plumbing was let to Rushlight, Hastorf & Lord, Inc., of Portland, at $36,000.

A recent estimate showed more than 17,700,000 motor vehicles in use in the United States compared with fewer than 15,400,000 telephones.

CHAMPOEG WOMAN DIES

MRS. BEN M. SMITH IS VICTIM OF HEART ATTACK

Mrs. Ben M. Smith, 57, of Champeog, died suddenly of a heart attack Sunday afternoon, while attending a picnic at the Champeog memorial park. Besides her husband, a prominent rancher in that district, she leaves three sons, Arthur, Walter and Cecil, and one daughter, Mabel. She is also survived by a sister, Mrs. Fred Miller, of Woodburn, and two brothers, Joseph Kennedy, of Portland and Thomas Kennedy, of St. Helens.

Mrs. Smith was well known in Woodburn, her former home, her parents having been pioneers in that section. The funeral will be held from the Catholic church in St. Paul at 10 o'clock this morning.

CONVICTS LEAVE NO CLUE; GUARDS STAY

One farmer reported that his row had been milked dry, but a search of the district failed to reveal any traces of the missing convicts.

A detachment of National Guardsmen under Captain Paul Hendricks spent several hours Sunday combing the unnamed canyon in which it is believed the convicts are hiding. The results consisted of finding a pair of cotton socks similar to those worn by the convicts who have been permitted to purchase outside side supplies, and one set of tracks.

Reports from Medford that the troops would be recalled were denied today by General George A. White, adjutant general. A small body, used as any similar body of civilians, are in the field and are wearing the olive drab uniform for identification purposes, he said.

Belief is expressed here that the convicts will soon tire of a steady diet of fruit and fresh vegetables and will make known their presence by raiding some place for more substantial food-stuffs.

GIBSON'S PRODUCTION PROMISES EXCITEMENT

It is contended for "Let 'Er Buck", Universal-Gibson series coming to the Bligh theatre three days starting today, with Hoot Gibson as star, that never before has a picture been made in such an elaborate atmosphere. It is not contended that other pictures have not cost more to produce, but it is contended that if the extras and the settings used in connection with the filming of his picture had been paid for as part of the expense the picture would have cost more than any other picture ever filmed. And all this because "Let 'Er Buck" was made in Pendleton, Oregon, while that city's famous Annual Round-Up was in progress. In consequence here was available for atmospheric purposes a collection of the most skilled cowboys, the most vicious bucking horses, the danger-wisest steers and a host of other elements all of championship standing when it comes to sports of the cattle range.

Many of the daily events on the three-day program were filmed to be incorporated into the action of the picture story and there are times that the film shows the entire huge arena, with horses sending cowboys flying through the air, steers being roped or bulldozed, the while thousands looked on from the grand stands.

Hoot Gibson is a favorite among the riders who assembled at Pendleton, for in 1912 he won the all-around championship there. Further, several of the Universal Ranch Riders in the company are old time participants in the Round-Up sports and they were entered in a number of the events on the program.

SALMON RUN STARTS

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Aug. 17.—Humpback salmon began to appear in Sound waters yesterday and cannermen believed today that the biennial run was on in earnest when large catches were reported to have been made in traps of local canneries.

While it is reported that only four Americans returned incomes of above $5,000,000 for 1924, more than two million returned incomes of $2,000, and that is really what keeps the wheels turning.
