Cass Nichols to Exhibit His Chester White Hogs at the California Fairs

Cass A. Nichols, Salem route 6, will leave Saturday with a carload of his choice Chester White hogs to be exhibited at fairs in California. He expects to exhibit at Stockton, Ventura and Pomona, as well as at the California state fair at Sacramento. He will then return in time to exhibit at the Oregon state fair, and later on to exhibit at the Pacific International at Portland.

Mr. Nichol has exhibited at the leading shows in the northwest and won many prizes. This is his first venture on the California circuit.

LAX DISCIPLINE IS SAID ESCAPE CAUSE

Last seven months and who has had seven years' experience, testified. Murray had steady employment, he said, while Jones, Kelley and Willos were employed whenever possible, the remainder of the time being in the "dog house" with between 115 and 150 other idle convicts, where there was some gambling for tobacco.

I. W. Hubbard, guard at Post No. 7 the night of the break, said that he saw Kelley and Willos with hands raised and was not aware that there was a general break. He refused to fire at men in this position and because he and Guard McKinley knew there were other guards in the turnkey's office, also refused to fire at random.

Discipline is as good as it ever was, William Fisher, chapel guard and farm boss, declared. He has had fourteen years' prison experience.

Trustees say that things are "all right" and that another escape is expected according to James Hawthorne, foreman of the flax department, who came to the prison from Belfast, Ire., about two years ago. Guard house gossip has it that discipline is lax, he said.

Dave Lavendar, in charge of the machine shop, had no criticism to offer. Tools are checked out and in by a convict clerk he said and none are missing. In his belief it was impossible for a brace and bit to have been "borrowed" during the afternoon of the break and returned before the final check. The 2-inch chisel used by the escaped convicts was rusty, he said. Prior to coming to the prison he was jailer at Pendleton for four years.

Discipline is good at present and getting better all the time C. A. Kuykendall told the jury. He admitted that there had been some gambling among the convicts. Prior to coming to the prison two years ago he was a deputy sheriff at Wallace, Ida.

John Davidson, veteran guard with six years' experience each at Walla Walla and the Monroe reformatory, was recalled for questioning relative to taking a shot at two convicts in the yard three weeks ago. The men were "jovling" an one-legged boy and laughed when he ordered them away, he said. The shot was fired a few feet above their heads in order to enforce the command. He reported the matter to the warden and was told it was wrong to stir up the convicts as the warden was afraid that they might set fire to the flax, he said.

J. S. Murray, chief clerk, explained the system of transfer of accounts. The men are permitted to order $3.50 worth of supplies monthly and as several convicts have newspaper agencies, they take tobacco as the medium of exchange and then turn this in for credit on the subscriptions. Transfers known to be due to gambling debts are not approved by the warden he said.

None of the witnesses could remember having seen Guard Lute Savage, who was shot nor Guard John Sweeney, who was killed. It is not known whether Sweeney was killed on the way from dinner or if he had come down the wall from Post No. 2 to the aid of J. M. Holman, who was also killed.

KILLED IN LUMBER CAMP BODY OF MAN NAMED WALES HELD AT SILVERTON

SILVERTON, Or., Aug. 19.—(Special to The Statesman.)—The body of a man killed at the Silver Falls Timber company camp was brought to Silvertown last night and is now at the Jack & Ekman mortuary. Detailed information is expected to reach Silvertown later.

STATE PARKS SECRETARY SPEAKS AT ROTARY CLUB

SPENDS DAY CONFERRING WITH STATE OFFICIALS

Organization Seeking to Develop
Forests for Recreational Purposes

Raymond H. Torrey, field secretary of the National Conference of State Parks, Washington, D. C., was in Salem yesterday conferring with State Forester F. A. Elliott and members of the highway department relative to what action is being taken in the state in regard to the promotion of the recreational features of state parks. Mr. Torrey expressed himself as very interested in the proposed Milliloma state forest south of the Umpqua river and the plans as outlined for its administration when the final exchange is completed with the forest service. He also stated that the plan of the highway department is acquiring parks along the various highways in the state is a new departure in this line of work and is the first time that anything of this character has been brought to his attention. It is his attention to pass this idea on to other states.

The National Organization on State Parks was organized in 1921 with the purpose of devoting its time to the establishment and development of state parks and forests for recreational purposes. It also serves to make investigations as to desirable legislation along these lines and pass the information on to other states. Mr. Torrey's trip at this time is for the purpose of securing this information and before returning to Washington he will have visited Minnesota, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Washington and Oregon as well as the southwestern states. Data on the eastern states has already been secured. The results of his investigative work will later be published in bulletin form.

Mr. Torrey addressed the Rotary club at the regular noon luncheon.

AHEAD OF THE SCHEDULE

MOUNTAIN STATES POWER CO.
AT FALLS CITY

Word came from the correspondent of The Statesman at Falls City last night that, 24 hours ahead of their promised schedule, the Mountain States Power company delivered the goods.

That is, at 2:30 yesterday afternoon, the main transmission line was completed and the electric current turned on.

Falls City now has 24-hour service, with juice to light a city and power to operate all kinds of factories. While much remains to be done, the main job is finished, the new transmission line is completed and in working order. Meters have been installed all over the city. The work of re-wiring the street lighting system will be carried on as rapidly as possible with its regular crew. A large number of extra men have been employed on the transmission line in order to get there on schedule.

The Mountain States Power company has leased the old jewelry store building on Main street at Falls City and has a fine collection of household conveniences, all operated by electricity, ranging from a curling iron to a washing machine. There will be some on there later on to demonstrate the working of this equipment. The housewives of Falls City may now enjoy the luxuries of city ways in house work and cooking, while staying at home and having all the advantages of a country residence.
