THE DISTINCTION of being the first white couple ever married at Metlakatla, the village on a tiny island off the coast of Alaska, belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poling (Olive Tomlinson) who returned last week from their wedding and honeymoon. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock on the evening of August 8, in the native mission church at Metlakatla. Dr. Daniel Poling performed the ring ceremony, after the young couple had marched four blocks from home to the mission as the municipal band played for their joy. The bride was appealingly lovely in her wedding gown of tiered georgette elaborated with delicate lace and worn with a filmy veil with cap head-dress.

The bride's bouquet—in a country where there are no hot-house flowers—was of sweet peas, forget-me-nots, and bachelor buttons. Miss Rachel Poling, as maid-of-honor, carried a similar bouquet. Her frock was of Canton crepe and ostrich. Mr. Daniel Poling, Jr., attended the groom as best man, while little Miss Billie Poling was flower girl and little Miss Jane Poling, ring bearer.

Immediately preceding the ceremony, Miss Laura Hudson, an Indian girl, sang "At Dawning." Following the ceremony, the bridal party marched back to the native home where a reception was held, and the young couple taken into the Simpson tribe and given tribal names. The following morning, the government nurse entertained at a wedding breakfast in Mr. and Mrs. Poling's honor. The young couple remained a week at this island village before sailing for home on the Prince George. Mrs. Poling had been a guest in the Alaskan village since early in July.

Mr. and Mrs. Poling, both prominent on the Willamette University campus, will be at home after September 5 in Monmouth.

On Tuesday evening, the First Evangelical church was the scene of a large reception in their honor, given by the families of the young couple. The early part of the evening was devoted to a program in the auditorium of the church, opening with a group of numbers by the church orchestra, the bride and groom—the bride entering as the music played. Immediately after Mrs. Laura Poling sang, followed with readings by Mrs. Carrie Chase, Miss Naomi Phelps sang at the close of the program, the orchestra playing as the bride and groom and assemblage of guests adjourned to the basement of the church.

In the receiving line were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poling, Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Poling, and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tomlinson.

Miss Mildred Tomlinson assisted in the rooms. Among those who served were: Miss Naomi Phelps, Miss Savilla Phelps, Miss Martha Chase, and Miss Mildred Tomlinson.

The church parlors were attractively decorated with early fall flowers.

Mrs. Ed Keene entertained as her guests Sunday, Mrs. J. R. Stewart and Mrs. Ralph Whipple of Albany.

An attractive shower of the week was that on Monday evening at which Miss Myrtle Jensen was the hostess honoring Mrs. Paul Poling (Olive Tomlinson) whose marriage was an event of August 8 in Metlakatla, Alaska. Many gifts were acknowledged by this charming bride of the month, during the evening.

In the group were: Mrs. Paul Poling, Mrs. Gladys Bacon, Miss Hollis Vicks, Miss Helene Gregg, Miss Helen Arple, Miss Mildred Grant, Miss Pauline Remington, Miss Carol Cheney, Miss Louise Nunn, Miss Gladys Fleischer, Miss Anne Lavender, Miss Cleo Weddie, Miss Evangeline Helnick, Miss Ruth Heinick, Miss Elois Heinick, Miss Ruth Wechter, Miss Lois Nye, Miss Mildred Tomlinson and the hostess, Miss Myrtle Jensen.

Dr. H. K. Stockwell and son, Donald, who returned home early this week from a month's absence in the eastern United States and Canada, was accompanied by a sister of the late Mrs. Stockwell, Mrs. Charlotte Gunn Roche, and her three-year-old daughter, Charlotte, of Portland, Maine. Mrs. Roche will be here until the first of October, as the doctor's guest.

A host of friends who grieved at the passing of Mrs. Stockwell will want to know that at the burial in Danville, Quebec, floral offerings such as the community had never before seen, were sent in beautiful tribute from Montreal and Quebec, as tokens of esteem to one who had spent her childhood in Danville. Dr. Stockwell, too, grew up in Danville, where he and the girl who became his wife were playmates together.

The friends of Mrs. Stockwell will be glad to welcome her sister, Mrs. Roche, among them, during the time that she is here.

The Loyal Volunteer Band of the Court Street Christian church will sponsor an all-church social tonight following the midweek service. Quite a number of the Stanyon volunteers and friends will be present. Also Miss Grace Farnham, who is at present visiting with her sister, Mrs. O. P. Wegner of this city, will be present and speak a few minutes. Miss Farnham sails for Japan next week where she will serve as a missionary in the Yotsuya Mission. She is to be remembered with a shower of money and useful ar-

FRANK E. TICHEBOR, wife and daughter of Portland, spent a few hours with Salem friends yesterday while on an automobile trip south. Mr. Tichenor has for many years been organizer for the Woodmen of the World for the Oregon district and resided in Salem for many years where he is well known.

Paul G. Roeder, whose aim is work in South America, was left without appointment that he may continue his studies in Boston University. Mr. Roeder graduated from Willamette University last June and will leave for the east in 10 days.

Rev. G. S. Roeder, former pastor of the Center Street Methodist church, has been returned to Walla Walla for another year by the annual conference which just closed its session in Spokane.

Professor and Mrs. E. C. Richards are being welcomed home from a ten weeks' absence in Berkeley, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Allen (Irene Curtis) have returned from their wedding trip into northern Washington and Canada, having made stops in Tacoma, Seattle and Vancouver, B. C. After spending a few days with Mrs. Allen's mother, Mrs. L. G. Curtis, they left for the coast where they will be guests of Mr. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Allen.

At the council meeting of the Salem Arts League held Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. Mary C. Rowland, Otto K. Paulus was elected to the office of art director to fill a vacancy left upon the resignation of Mrs. F. S. Barton. Plans for a number of programs were made at this time, the first to take place on Wednesday evening, September 16, in the auditorium of the Salem public library. At this time, Professor N. B. Zane of the University of Oregon will give an illustrated lecture on applied art, at which the general public will be welcome.

A program on Japanese art, a reception, and a program on Indian art were arranged for the autumn weeks.

The detailed work of the Salem Arts League is carried on in classes, known as sections, of which there are nine. Those interested may join any one of the open groups upon payment of a dollar, the dues of the organization. The Art's League remains unique in that it is one of few organizations open to the entire family.

Large interest is expected to attend the announcement of the new section of which Miss Cornelia Marvin, state librarian, will be the leader, dealing as it will, with the history of art applied to civilization.

The other sections will be continuations of those already organized, with a few necessary changes in leadership. The story-telling section promises to be one of the most active of all under the leadership of Lola Cook Bellinger, while the photographic art section, with Robert C. Paulus as leader, will have the privilege during the winter of meeting in the studio of Miss Kathryn Gunnell. Miss Grace Elisabeth Smith will continue as leader of the Writers' section, while Mrs. S. H. Van Trump will take charge of the Civics Art group. It will be necessary to supply new leaders for both the Music and Interior Decoration sections. Classes in dramatic art and sketching are also being arranged.

SILVERTON, Ore., Aug. 24—(Special.)—With the coming of autumn social activities are again coming to the fore. During the summer months people have been coming and going so much that social life has been irregular. While picnics and camping have been in order very few indoor parties, with the exception of an occasional shower, have been given. During the past week a number of parties were enjoyed and with the coming of school days a number more are being planned for those leaving for the universities
