FARMERS MAY GIVE EXPLOSIVE ORDERS

Pyrotol Available at Carload Rates Through United States National

"It is very important that orders be placed as early as possible," says F. E. Price, who arranged the pooling centers for the college extension service and in charge of distribution in Oregon. "It requires at least a month to get the explosive after the orders for a car have been pooled."

The cost of this explosive to Oregon users will be around $8 per 100 pounds. It is supplied by the federal department of agriculture merely for the costs of carting it for farm use and for shipping and handling. County agents handle the distribution in their counties, and to make it possible for farmers in non-county agent counties to share in the benefits of this cheap and powerful explosive certain banks have offered to take orders with no profit to themselves. This makes possible a saving of many thousands of dollars to Oregon farmers.

Pyrotol is made from surplus war material and was used largely by Oregon farmers last year in land clearing. The contract with the government specifies that orders must be placed in not less than carlots. This keeps down freight charges, but makes necessary the pooling of many orders.

Some months ago Mr. Kelly moved his family to Salem, since which time he has been representing Clark, Kendall & company in Salem and adjacent territory. Clark, Kendall & company is the second oldest investment banking house in the state and has been very active in financing Oregon industries and in creating capital for industrial and building enterprises through the flotation of high-grade first mortgage bonds. The company is one of the large dealers in general market issues. Its bond offering comprises a long list of foreign government and domestic bonds quoted on the New York stock exchange, as well as numerous Oregon municipal issues.

Mr. Kelly will represent his company with headquarters here and will offer to the clients of the company the new issues from time to time which come into the hands of Clark, Kendall & company through the eastern bankers, or which are purchased in the open market.

TYRUS COBB IS HONORED

DETROIT MANAGER PRESENTED WITH $10,000 CHECK

DETROIT, Aug. 29—(By the Associated Press.)—Frank J. Navin, owner and president of the Detroit American league baseball club presented Tyrus Raymond Cobb, Detroit's manager and veteran outfielder, with a check for $10,000 while six hundred enthusiastic fans, city officials and prominent baseball leaders looked on at a banquet given to Cobb tonight in honor of his completion of 20 years of service on the Detroit club. A $1,000 grandfather's check as a testimonial from the city of Detroit to one of its prominent citizens was also awarded to the "Georgia Peach," as Cobb is known in fandom. Then followed eulogies, in both word and song, individual addresses of praise from city fathers, including Mayor John W. Smith and civic leaders followed by a few brief remarks from Cobb himself. Timidly they were uttered as he stood visibly affected by this shower of attention. Cobb, the hero of the diamond, whose name is known to every schoolboy in the land and who has withstood the jeerings and boogies of crowds with stoical silence was "fused."

SON SALUTES COOLIDGE

PRESIDENT AND WIFE VISIT JOHN IN TRAINING CAMP

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 29.—(By Associated Press.)—President Coolidge, commander in chief of the army, received a salute today from Corporal John Coolidge, his son, on a visit to Camp Devens.

As a publicity feature of the citizens military training camp, the youth with cameras trained on him was singled out of the ranks after he and 1400 comrades had marched in review as a finale to their month's training. With the bearing of a soldier, he approached his father, clicked his heels and saluted.

Returning the salute, the president with Mrs. Coolidge standing along side, said: "How have you been getting along, John?"

"Fine, sir," replied the lad. Then he took his place again in the ranks for a round of caesthenics in which all the youths in camp participated.

John doffed khaki and in civilian clothes went to the quarters of Brigadier General Malverna Hill Barrum, camp commander, for luncheon with his father and mother. When they returned by motor to White Court he went with them for a visit here until his parents conclude their vacation.
