Birthday Surprise

The birthday anniversary of Mrs. T. S. MacKenzie was the occasion for a delightful surprise party on Sunday, September 6, when a group of forty-five friends gathered at the MacKenzie's attractive new home on the corner of North Church and Shipping streets. State P. T. Convention

The 20th annual convention of the Oregon Parent-Teacher association will be held in Portland October 27, 28, 29, 30. The First Methodist Episcopal church, Twelfth and Taylor streets, because of its splendid facilities for conducting a convention, has been chosen, and the theme of the assembly is "The Home and School in Education."

An unusually large attendance is expected this year, because of the presence here of the national president, Mrs. Margaretta Willis Reeve. At the close of the opening session Tuesday evening, an informal reception will be held at which members will be given an opportunity to meet Mrs. Reeve. On Wednesday she will give an address, and further opportunity will be given to know her.

Through the courtesy of the Multnomah council of Parent-Teacher association, a trip over the Columbia river highway and luncheon at Chanticler inn is planned for the out-of-town delegates to the convention, and to the state board of managers.

The last evening of the convention is to be given over to surprises and has been termed Specialty Night.

The silver cups offered by the city council to city associations and the silver cups offered by the state association will be awarded on the last day. One cup is to go to the association having the largest membership, and the other to the one having made the greatest percentage of increase over last year's membership. The state is offering the cups to associations outside of Portland. Following are the convention chairmen: General chairman, Mrs. C. V. Ross, Portland; assistant, Mrs. W. T. Brice, president of hostess council; credentials, Mrs. Glenn Fabrick, Medford; transportation, Mrs. R. M. Pogue, Portland; registration, Mrs. R. H. Sowers, Portland; publicity, Mrs. M. J. Coleman, Portland; resolutions, Mrs. Bruce Kester, Ontario; information, Mrs. V. M. Taft, Portland; conferences, Mrs. D. B. Kelly, Portland.

Through the courtesy of the state department of public instruction a handbook of information on the Oregon Parent Teacher association is now being printed. The book was compiled by the publicity committee, Mrs. M. J. Coleman, chairman, and it is expected that the book will be ready for distribution during the convention in October.

FALLS CITY FAIR DRAWS BIG CROWD

Fine Weather and Splendid Exhibits Welcome Annual Event This Week

FALLS CITY, Sept. 9.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Times change little after all, human nature not at all, in spite of modern inventions, and the changes in present day points of view. The heading of the story of the last fair held in Falls City previous to 1915 is quoted below just as printed in the Falls City News of October 7, 1911. With a change of dates and the number of exhibits, it might well set off the story of the 1925 fair held Sept. 8th:

"THE 1911 FAIR IS THE FINEST EVER

Over Two Hundred Magnificent Exhibits Shown in All Their Glory

NEIGHBORS ENGAGE IN FRIENDLY COMPETITION

Products of the Field, the Orchard, the Garden and the Household Are Brought Together for the Pleasure and Benefit of All.

Everybody Delighted With Result."

The floor arrangement, the fountain, and decorative scheme were all designed by Harold Wagner, a Falls City young man, who is majoring on architecture and allied subjects at the University of Oregon. He, with the assistance of Paul Starr, constructed the fountain, placed it in position, did the wiring, and all the decorations on it. The effect of the colored lights shining through the water, with the gorgeous flowers surrounding was very beautiful. Upon the floor surrounding the fountain a miniature garden of moss and pansies gave a charming effect.

The general color scheme used was green an danroshrdluoapuoau was green and orange, which was carried out in all the booths, crepe paper being used effectively, while much vine and maple, asparagus, and quantities of marigolds added to the effectiveness of the decorations.

Eight booths filled the side spaces, four on each side, with large tiers of shelves filling the space on each side of the steps leading to the stage. The entire stage space was used to display the art and fancy work, tables and benches, and all available wall space being filled. On one side of the steps the tiered shelves held the canned fruits, jellies, etc., with fresh fruit and some vegetables on the lower shelves, while the other side was used for plate fruit and vegetable displays.

The center of the room between the entrance doors and the fountain was the place of honor allotted to the double decked table used to display the magnificent collections of cut flowers entered for scoring.

One booth was entirely given over to the display of pies, cakes, bread, rolls, etc., and the honey exhibit.

The Falls City Canning company occupied one booth, displaying their Luckimute and Malamute brand canned goods, with sample cans of pears, loganberries, cherries and gooseberries cut and shown in dishes. Their exhibit was very well arranged, the fruit shown was of very fine quality, and while it was not entered for scoring or prize awards was deserving of a blue ribbon on its merits, regardless of competition.

C. E. Powell, whose father, J. S. S. Powell, was one of the largest exhibitors at the fair, held in 1911, had a wonderful display of farm products, grains, forage grasses, fruits, and vegetables. It was an education to study this display alone. No one could examine the splendid exhibits in this single farm display and fail to be impressed with the possibilities for diversified farming in this section of the county. Mr. Powell is using seed of many of the same strains of grains and vegetables used by his father, so the products are all well acclimated. Two cuttings of alfalfa grown right in the garden were exceptionally fine. We will try at a later date to enumerate the exhibits in full.

One hundred persons made entries, ranging from one to eighteen or twenty for each individual.

Among the entries were many articles of needlework priceless as relics, which deserve more extended mention at a later date.

A plate of large, well colored and well flavored seedling apples grown by Wm. Bohle deserves especial mention.

Well filled boxes of strawberries, of the New Oregon and Everbearing varieties, and a glass of perfect red raspberries attracted much attention.

Large Italian prunes, beautiful peaches, immense squash, cabbage, potatoes, etc., demanded to be looked at and admired.

Miss Lucy E. Case, nutrition specialist of the extension service of O. A. C. and Mr. Wm. L. Teutsch, district agricultural agent O. A. C., acted as judges.

KELLY WILL PRESIDE

MARION JURIST TO HEAR KLAMATH FALLS CASE

Judge Percy R. Kelly of the circuit court for Marion and Linn counties, has been appointed by Chief Justice T. A. McBride, of the Oregon supreme court, to hear the trial of E. E. Elliott, former Klamath county district attorney indicted in connection with the disappearance of several sacks of sugar following a liquor raid. Judge Kelly will also hear the trial of William S. Lovens, state prohibition commissioner, charged with larceny of a revolver from a Mexican, also in connection with a liquor raid. The trials will be held in Klamath Falls.

If you expect to have your own way all the time you should also expect to travel alone all the time.
