HARDING MEMORIAL IS DEDICATED BY TWO NATIONS

VANCOUVER, B. C., Sept. 16.—(By Associated Press.)—Under ideal weather conditions a Harding international good-will memorial was unveiled in Stanley park here today by the International Kiwanis clubs.

John H. Moss of Milwaukee, president of the Kiwanis International, who officiated, said: "Kiwanis International now dedicates this monument to its former fellow member, the late President of the United States, Warren G. Harding."

English and American songs were sung. In the exercises, messages from President Coolidge, former Secretary of State Hughes and 13 American governors were read.

The memorial is semi-circular, with an elevated center, containing

In the center are two bronze female figures, symbolizing and naming the two countries which hold in their hands an olive branch of peace. In front of the monument is a shallow pool of running water, which, in reflection and motion is designed to convey life activity. At each end of the structure is an eagle. The monument is 37 feet long, 13 feet 9 inches deep, 10 feet 9 inches high, and the figures are 7 feet 6 inches high.

RAIDS MENACE SCHOOLS

MANY AMERICAN BUILDINGS DESTROYED IN ARAB WAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(By Associated Press.)—The "holy war" declared by the Druses and Arabs against the French government has resulted in the destruction of American schools and churches in Hauran, Syria, says a dispatch from Jerusalem.

The dispatch quoted the following report from an American missionary, Miss Mary Maxwell Ford:

"Nearly all the Christian towns in the district called Hauran have been burned and the population driven out. The first raid took place at Kharaba when several hundred Druses and Arabs entered the town, looted and burned the houses and drove all the population into the desert. The American mission church and school were destroyed. The same thing has since happened in nearly all the Christian towns in Hauran."

The condition of all the Christian natives is similar to that of the Armenians who were driven out of Turkey in the previous deportations. This is the first disturbance in this area for more than 20 years.

The malaria mosquito is said by some entomologists to have been a factor in the downfall of the old Egyptian and Greek civilizations.

FOOTBALL INSIDE OUT

THE WHY AND HOW OF THE RULES

This is the second of Brown's articles on football. Another tomorrow.—Editor.

By NORMAN E BROWN

THE physical strain involved in football, as played today, is a constant topic of discussion. Time was, in the days of the flying wedge, when weight meant more than speed, that football was a bone-crushing, strength sapping game. Brown counted more than 100 deaths.

Then came the "opening" of the game, elimination of the "center rush," the advent of the forward pass. The game began to call men who could think and run fast—men in whom a "football" instinct, fleetness of foot and fire, led over best.

This speed added to the game raised the question as to whether its players were not burning themselves out in a given contest.

The official rules state that the games shall be 60 minutes long, divided into four quarters of 15 minutes each. It can be shortened.

"Time out" periods, during which play is not in progress, are not included in this time. These "time out" periods are taken for injuries and other exigencies.

There is an intermission of one minute between the first and second quarters and the third and fourth and 15 minutes intermission between the second and third. The fact that the teams seem to simply "change ends" during the first and third intermissions puzzles the fans. The goals are reversed in this one-minute period and this time is practically consumed in the change.

The teams, by agreement, can shorten the length of the game. The referee can take the initiative if he thinks light conditions demand it. And if, for any other reasons it is deemed advisable, the last two quarters can be made shorter than the first.

Now in this total game time the players, while in the game, reach the "peak" in the expending of mental and physical energy in every play. But the rules permitting re-entrance of players withdrawn and the now growing policy of coaches to use practically two full teams in the course of a game, cuts down this actual playing time of the men. The "time out" periods give them more rest. Men perfectly trained can burn this energy and recuperate it quickly. (Tomorrow—Scoring.)

FOOT LOST BY HUNTER

PROMINENT SPOKANE MAN IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

SPOKANE, Sept. 16.—(By the Associated Press.)—H. H. Herbert, prominent Spokane merchant and president of a large department store, shot off his left foot while hunting 23 miles from here today and is in a critical condition at a hospital here tonight.

INJURED PLAYER IS HOME

GRANTS PASS, Ore., Sept. 16.—(By Associated Press.)—Ken Williams, star outfielder and slugger for the St. Louis Browns, has returned to his home in Grants Pass, being out of the game for the rest of the season due to injuries sustained when hit on the head by a pitched ball over a month ago. Williams is on the road to recovery, but is still unable to play. He was able to go deer hunting today, however, with some of his friends.

Beautiful Small Brick Home

Costing only $300 More than Frame

PROOF that one may build a brick home, with its beauty, dignity, warmth, comfort and economy of upkeep, at only a slight increase in cost over a frame structure, is presented in the illustration above of a most popular design of the Architects Small Home Service Bureau.

This home, of five rooms, bath and half-basement, is designed for beauty, comfort and economy of construction. It was recently built in frame—in a Northwest city—for $5,254. It can be constructed of brick, as pictured above, for only $300 additional.

The Pacific Northwest Brick Manufacturers Association guarantees that the brick work on the above house, including material and labor for walls, chimney and fireplace will not cost to exceed $838, on contracts let in the next thirty days, adding only $300 to the total cost.

Cost is no bar to the use of brick in home building. The expense of using brick approximates six per cent more than good all-frame construction.

The additional cost of using brick is saved in the first five or six years in the painting cost alone. Brick walls do not have to be painted; they grow more beautiful with age.

The brick home is much cheaper to maintain than the frame home. The brick walls keep out cold and dampness, saving largely on the fuel bill. They preserve the interior woodwork, saving cost of repairs.

Should you wish to sell, the brick home will bring a much higher price than would frame.

Plans for the above home, No. 5-E-1 (Brick) are on file in the Seattle and Portland offices of the Association. We shall gladly advise anyone wishing information and assist in getting reliable cost figures.

FRENCH MISSION LEAVES

DEBT DELEGATION, HEADED BY CAILLAUX, COMING

HAVRE, France, Sept. 16.—(By Associated Press.)—Joseph Caillaux, finance minister heading the French debt mission, left for the United States this evening. M. Caillaux is determined to avoid fog or figures in Washington and will not allow the experts to confuse simple fundamentals by sterile controversies over statistics. Economic and financial studies which encumber the baggage of the members of the mission are regarded even by them as scarcely relevant.

The deliberations of "experts" which have taken up so much time at all the inter-allied conferences since the war are looked upon with disfavor by M. Caillaux, who considers them as interfering with the advance of business rather than promoting it because technicians would spend days in obstinate controversies over secondary questions.

M. Briand recently remarked that if there should be another war the experts ought to be put in the front line trenches.

Before his departure for Paris, M. Caillaux declared: "I am going there (to Washington) for the purpose of telling them, 'France is ready to settle.'"
