

BEARCATS GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS

Twenty Men Report Nightly Scrimmage Will Start Early Next Week

Coach Rathbun at Willamette university has 20 men on the field endeavoring to place on the varsity. Of this number but seven were on last year's squad, and out of these only three are lettermen. Kamschicht at end, Rhodes at guard and Stolzheim at tackle are the only lettermen out at present, although Hartley, Robertson and Tomson are expected to report by the end of the week. Scott, Bateson, Woodworth and Taylor are the remainder who have reported from last year's squad.

As the Bearcats have lost Ippam, (captain) Post, Fletcher and Kramer of last year's squad, practically an entire new backfield will have to be built up before the first game of the season, which is with the University of Washington on September 26—less than 10 days to go. And out of the material from the freshmen who have reported, only four show promise of varsity material so far. The squad, for this time of the season, is the smallest out in years.

The big problem confronting Coach Rathbun is that of getting the team together in the last of the month. Another serious loss in the team is that of Malstrom at guard. He will not be able to participate in the first few games because of a recent operation.

But for all the handicaps with which the squad is starting the season, preliminary work is being plunged into hard and fast, because of the short time remaining in which to prepare for the first game. Thursday attention was given to kickers, to running down punts, to passing, and to signal practice. The boys also took a few flies at the dummy. Scrimmage will not take place until next week.

NEW AIR POLICY IS DECLARED IN VIEW

While former army and navy officers have placed on the president's investigating board, the majority will be civilians, chosen by the president, because of their special knowledge of the problem presented and because he believed that the country would have confidence in the conclusions reached.

Members of the board are: Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, U. S. army, retired, president of the Radio corporation of America and former chief of staff of the army.

Rear Admiral Frank P. Fletcher, U. S. navy, retired, of Washington.

Dwight W. Morrow, Englewood, N. J., lawyer and banker.

Howard E. Coffin, Detroit, aeronautical expert and consulting engineer.

Col. Hiram Bingham, United States senator from Connecticut and former air service officer.

Carl Vinson, member of congress from Georgia, member of house naval affairs committee.

James S. Parker, chairman of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, Salem, N. Y.

Arthur C. Dealson, judge of the sixth circuit court of appeals, Grand Rapids, Mich.

William F. Durand, Los Angeles, Cal., member of the national advisory committee for aeronautics, president of the institute of mechanical engineers.

WILLAMETTE WILL OPEN ON MONDAY

Arranged specially for the purpose. Those registering after Wednesday will be required to do so at the registrar's office in Eaton hall.

Dr. C. A. Downs will be retained this year as university physician. Each student will be given a thorough medical examination, and a chart will be made of his condition.

Dr. Downs will reserve a portion of his time each day for university students, and any student may receive medical treatment at any time he may need it throughout the school year.

One feature of the registration this year will be the gain by the men over the girls. In 1923 the freshman class averaged three women to every two men, but last year the freshmen class was evenly divided between the two, and from present indications the freshmen enrollment will continue to be equally divided. At the present time there are more women than men in the university, but if the present ratio continues, there will soon be an equal number of each.

FOOTBALL INSIDE OUT

THE WHY AND HOW OF THE RULES

By Norman E. Brown
Agitation to eliminate the try for goal after touchdown is growing yearly in football circles. This is interesting in view of the fact that in its earliest days of football the touchdown was secondary in the try for goal—its part being mainly to give a team a chance to try for goal.

Should this extra point at the game is now scored be eliminated in the future, the probabilities are that the value of the touchdown would be raised from six points to seven.

The goal from the field, three points, and safety, two points, are the other means of scoring as the game is played today.

The value of a goal scored by a kick from the field in comparison to the value of a touchdown, is one of the features of the game that makes the development of a good kicker a vital necessity in the building of a team. Such a kick from placement (the ball is held by a teammate for the kicker as the ball is passed by the center) or a drop kick furnishes one of the tensest moments in the game. History is replete with games won through the "educated toes" of stars.

DOUBLE PARKING BARRED

PRACTICE MUST CEASE ACCORDING TO ORDERS

Orders have been issued by the police department for the rigid enforcement of the ordinance prohibiting double parking in the business district. For some time it was customary for the traffic officers to permit motorists stopping their machines back of others for five-minute intervals, but it was soon discovered that the privilege was being abused to a great extent and so orders were issued to eliminate the practice.

BASEBALL

By the Association, 1925

Pacific
San Francisco 3; Portland 2, Seattle 7-3; Los Angeles 4-1, Sacramento 9; Vernon 6, Oakland-Salt Lake game postponed; rain.

American
Philadelphia 4-7; Detroit 2-3, Washington 10; Chicago 5, New York 4; St. Louis 2, Cleveland 6; Boston 5.

National
Pittsburgh 9; Boston 7, New York 8; Chicago 3, St. Louis 9; Brooklyn 5, Philadelphia 5; Cincinnati 1.

Education pays, unless you get the down to be an educator.

Rousing Reception Given Entertainment Offered at Heilig Theater Last Night

Vaudeville Program, Pleases Packed House; New Orchestra Introduced; Specialty Numbers Why Much Applause

By ALFRED BUNCH

A packed house—every seat full to the boxes—gave the opening vaudeville bill at the Heilig theater a rousing reception last night. Friday of each week will be vaudeville day at the new theatre and Friday, one after another, will doubtless prove red-letter days to the Salem theatre-going public.

An opening organ selection introduced the new instrument again to the public, after which the management extended greetings to its new patrons in a new circuit. Colorful picture reels introduced early Indian life, followed with an amorous and fistic comedy.

Two feature numbers by the new Heilig orchestra, with Mary Talmadge directing, gave savor to the evening.

The O'Brien Sisters and Mack Madge attempted to talk longer than five minutes, I shall stalk out and leave her spouting to the empty air.

"That's No Empty Threat."

"Humph! I know both of you as well as if I'd jointed and put you together," my mother-in-law responded. "You can't fool me! But I warn you, I shall call you both at six, no matter what time you go to bed."

"And that's no empty threat," Katherine groaned when my mother-in-law finally had taken her departure and I had closed the door behind her. "She means exactly what she says. Six o'clock! Ugh. That's my daily diet. I thought I'd be off for a day or two."

"And so you shall!" I said indignantly. "You are under no obligation to rise at that hour just because she wishes you to."

"No-o?" she drawled. "Do you imagine for one fraction of a second that with the lady in her present frame of mind toward me, I shall do anything to add to her fancied grievance? Nay, nay, little one. I never yet have stirred up the circus animals at feeding time, and I don't intend to begin now. After all, I don't need the extra-sleep. I'll have my regular eight hours if I don't jarry here too long, and more than that is only an enervating luxury."

"I'm glad you have a nice, philosophical name for it," I retorted. "But it's a shame to get you up, nevertheless. However, I suppose there's nothing else to be done, so I fancy we'd better postpone our talk."

"Not on my account," Katherine declared stoutly, but I knew that her fatigue was greater than she in "Bits of Musical Comedy" appeared in duo, trio, and solo, espousing their audience with their comical and acrobatic costumes. W. D. Dorfield's "Tris and 'Chatter' offered a new repertoire of sleight-of-hand tricks—with footnotes "by the author."

Dale and DeLene in their musical comedy, surprise created a furor with their portable wig and "prima donna" voices, while the Knox Comedy Quartet in "Out of Tune" made their real bit with their sustained "nasal" harmony.

In the distinctly novelty line was the clever "Le Petit Cabaret," enacted by Mantell's Manikin, at such a pace that "wives had to hang to their husbands, and husbands to their seats." The whole performance was hugely entertaining from first to last.

Madge attempts to talk longer than five minutes, I shall stalk out and leave her spouting to the empty air.

"That's No Empty Threat."

"Humph! I know both of you as well as if I'd jointed and put you together," my mother-in-law responded. "You can't fool me! But I warn you, I shall call you both at six, no matter what time you go to bed."

"And that's no empty threat," Katherine groaned when my mother-in-law finally had taken her departure and I had closed the door behind her. "She means exactly what she says. Six o'clock! Ugh. That's my daily diet. I thought I'd be off for a day or two."

"And so you shall!" I said indignantly. "You are under no obligation to rise at that hour just because she wishes you to."

"No-o?" she drawled. "Do you imagine for one fraction of a second that with the lady in her present frame of mind toward me, I shall do anything to add to her fancied grievance? Nay, nay, little one. I never yet have stirred up the circus animals at feeding time, and I don't intend to begin now. After all, I don't need the extra-sleep. I'll have my regular eight hours if I don't jarry here too long, and more than that is only an enervating luxury."

"I'm glad you have a nice, philosophical name for it," I retorted. "But it's a shame to get you up, nevertheless. However, I suppose there's nothing else to be done, so I fancy we'd better postpone our talk."

"Not on my account," Katherine declared stoutly, but I knew that her fatigue was greater than she

(Continued on page 7)

30,000 SWEATERS WANTED AT ONCE

Red Cross in Need of Supplies for Disabled Veterans in Hospitals

Thirty thousand sweaters needed to meet demands of disabled service men in hospitals. Can we count on your chapter to help us meet this emergency? Your quota is 25. Send reply to Pacific branch. Urge local publicity campaign for knitters and donations to purchase the necessary wool. War workers should rally to your support.

The above is the wording of a dispatch received from Red Cross headquarters at Washington, D. C., yesterday, by C. E. Albin, chairman of the local Red Cross.

It takes a pound of wool for a sleeveless sweater, and a pound and three quarters for one with sleeves.

The Salem Red Cross rooms are on the third floor of the Derby building. Phone 1386.

It goes without saying that Salem will immediately respond with her full quota to this demand—and will probably double or treble it.

"Mareoni says it will soon be possible to telephone anywhere on earth." Provided the line isn't busy.

Professor Peck, landscape expert of OAC, was the principal speaker at the Lions club luncheon Friday noon at the Marion hotel. Care in the appearance of the yard and street was emphasized. H. H. Gwynn sang two bass solos.

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

Peck Lions Spenser—

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

Adelle Garrison's New Chapter of REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

Copyright by Newspaper Feature Service

CHAPTER F-114

The Curious "East-Word" Bathing Gave Madge

"Well!" my mother-in-law exclaimed when, with frequent excited interruptions and questions from her, I had finished my story of the happenings across the road. "I can see where we have that family on our hands for a while."

"Let me see," she continued speculatively. "We have more potatoes and cabbages and other vegetables than we can possibly use before Spring, and it's no use trying to sell them out here. And there's more milk than the pigs need, and the hens are laying fine now. We can't send them milk and eggs and vegetables, and perhaps a fifth or two of that pork Jim put down last Fall. But I will take some money, besides. I hope you thought of that when you offered to take the care of them on your shoulders."

Her tone held the old captious note, and I realized that like a spoiled child temporarily on its bad behavior, my mother-in-law had been "as good as she could be" for just about as long as she could stand it. That she was tired and exceedingly nervous with the strain of preparing for the impending arrival of her daughter and her distinguished son-in-law, I also knew, and I hastened to proffer the Scriptural "soft answer."

"I don't expect to give them but a very little for their immediate necessities," I said placatingly. "Tomorrow, if the father has not been released on bond, which appears entirely probable, I shall report their case to the Red Cross local, which will investigate, and if relief is necessary, will see that town funds provide for them. But I am sure the eggs and the milk will be welcome, anyway, with so many little children."

"I'm glad you had that much sense, anyway," she answered in a more mollified tone, ignoring the latter part of my little speech. "But I wish I'd gone over myself. However, I suppose you did like the beat you knew how. Do you want anything more of me tonight?"

"Why, no, thank you, Mother!" I answered hastily, fervently hoping that she would not detect the smile which I was hopelessly pressing back from my lips.

"Then I'll go to bed," she announced, rising. "I'm tired to death. You two would better go to bed, also, instead of chattering here half the night, as you're planning to do. We're all got a hard day in front of us tomorrow."

"You wrong us, Madam Gram," Katherine said lightly. "If

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

(Continued on page 7)

MOTORMATES

"Sustained Quality" as applied to Associated Gasoline and Cycol Motor Oil means that these two products constantly and successfully meet the most rigid of operative tests. Regular use of the MOTORMATES assures you of efficient and economical motor operation.

Deal with the dealer who serves you well—the MOTORMATES dealer.

ASSOCIATED OIL COMPANY

OREGON

QUALITY PICTURES

— NEW TODAY —
The fastest of the fast-moving dramas of the great outdoors

A great drama of the Colorado mountains, filled with breath-taking action. Huge steel monsters rushing over shining tracks—train wrecks—heroism—heart-grIPPING situations—and through it all the eternal lure of captivating Romance.

"The Limited Mail" is different from anything ever seen on the screen. It will hold you tense, spellbound, enraptured. Don't miss it.

MONTE BLUE
VERA REYNOLDS

TODAY
SUNDAY MONDAY

By ELMER E. VANCE

ALSO A JACK WHITE PRODUCTION
WIDE AWAKE
Lige Conley
McDonald
Pathe News
MATINEES 25c - 35c — EVENINGS 35c - 50c
KIDDIES A DIME ANY TIME

