

UNDERWORLD DRAMA SHOWING AT HELIC

Lon Chaney Featured in "The Unholy Three"; Portrayal Excellent

Tod Browning's "The Unholy Three," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, is now playing at the Helic theater.

This picture is said to be something entirely new in the way of crook melodramas.

It concerns the adventures of a trio of crooks who leave a dime museum and during their criminal operations give rise to a romance that lends a great quantity of color to the plot.

It is a film adaptation of C. A. Robbins' story and has a peculiar twist that has never been seen in any other play of this type.

Lon Chaney, the screen's greatest make-up artist and character man, is the leader of the crook trio and appears in the role of a sympathetic heavy. The remainder of the crook trio consist of Victor McLaglen, famous English leading man who played opposite Lady Diana Manners, and Harry Earles, a thirty-five pound midget who masquerades as a baby. Matt Moore plays the male romantic lead opposite Miss Busch and Mathew Betz takes the part of Detective Reagan.

The action of "The Unholy Three" takes place in and about New York City. The film opens with a cheap museum but the plot is soon transported to a bird and animal store operated by "Mrs. O'Grady," whose expensive parrots for some mysterious reason are quite dumb in the homes of the owners, but who always were eloquent in the presence of the old lady.

Following a particularly atrocious murder the trio place the blame on Hector McDonald, a clerk in the bird store who has fallen in love with the girl. The latter is dragged away to a mountain retreat and is saved in a most awesome manner by a powerful ape which when attacked by two of the crooks escapes and eventually becomes the instrument that saves the hero and unites him with the heroine.

The script was prepared by Waldemar Young and photographed by David Kesson.

BIG CAT KILLED BY BEER HUNTERS

Salem Men Bag Cougar While on Trip Southeast From Eugene

A large cougar, measuring nine feet from tip to tip, was killed last week by a party of Salem men deer hunting about 70 miles southeast of Eugene and west of Diamond peak. The huge cat was shot by H. J. Wooley and E. F. Sequin with M. D. Ellis attending to the art of removing the hide.

Wooley and Sequin were watching for deer when Wooley saw a flash of gray down the mountainside. Calling Sequin's attention, they waited until the animal emerged from an open place. Wooley shot first and "creased" the cat's back. The cougar scrambled further up the mountain opposite and both men fired several shots. The cat was seen to roll into a ravine.

Both men investigated but failed to find traces of blood. Seeing the brush in which the animal had sought shelter move, Wooley fired and the movement ceased. Several rocks were tossed into the brush but all was quiet. Both men, with rifles held well to the front, began to crawl into the brush after the cougar, which was found sitting up. Both fired several shots and killed the cat. A bounty of $25 is offered by the state game commission and $10 by the county in which the animal is killed.

Though this is his 12th season into the district, Ellis said there were fewer deer with horns than ever before. All members of the party saw several but 17 of the 20 proved to be doe. None of the deer sighted bore horns equivalent to deer killed in former years, Ellis declared. He offered as explanation the fact that sheep are being grazed in the district. The cougar killed by the other two members of the party is the third that he knows of, Ellis declares. Last year while in the vicinity Wooley killed a bear but this is his first cougar. The belt was viewed by many persons yesterday at the rear of the Salem Automobile company, opposite the court house.

SCHOOLS SCENES OF REGISTRATION

be able to register until today. A decreased enrollment at the university this year was indicated by the registration Monday, less than 200 students completing the process. Only 175 freshmen took the English entrance examination, while last year nearly 200 were given the exam.

During the course of the day 1819 were enrolled at the grade schools, a decrease of 83 from last year. Registration at the various grade schools was as follows: Lincoln 295, Englewood 262, Garfield 258, Grant 256, Park 247, Richmond 243, Highland 234, and Washington 34. Only the rooms in the portable are to be used at Washington this year. Classes in the grade schools will commence today and will be run in full.

Parrish junior high school registration for the opening day mounted up to 791, a decrease of but two from last year. There were 190 students registered at the McKinley junior high. The class schedule was run through Monday and both schools are to have shortened periods today. At the high school registration reached 862 Monday. But the principal's office predicts that the enrollment will reach 1000 by Wednesday. The students registered yesterday had their courses enrolled and straightened. Today the schedule of classes will be run through, with much shortened periods. And the afternoon will be devoted to further registration and to the straightening out of courses. Having the afternoon free will give those students who have registered a chance to buy their books. They were not allowed to do so Monday as that was the day set aside for the grade school pupils. The junior high and high school students will be allowed to buy their books today.

Registration at Willamette will not be over until Wednesday, and classes will not be taken until Thursday, according to word from the registrar's office. Today is expected to be the big day for registration, as all the freshmen who took the entrance examination
