

CARAVAN PLANNED FOR BILLY SUNDAY

"Salem Night" Will Be Observed in Portland Tabernacle Friday Night

Friday night will be "Salem night" in the tabernacle in Portland in which Billy Sunday is conducting a series of revival meetings. A section of 600 seats has been reserved for the Salem congregation and more seats can be obtained if they are required, is the message brought back from Portland by C. A. Kells, general secretary of the local YMCA.

A special train will be provided for the trip by the Oregon Electric, including as many cars as may be required. A special fare of $1.50 has been made for the round trip for each person, providing 200 make the journey. In case there is less than that number, full round trip fare will be charged.

Each member of the Salem caravan will be provided with a streamer, signifying that he is a Salemite, and these streamers will serve as passes for admittance into the Salem section. Because of the large crowd expected for Friday evening, no one will be admitted to the Salem section who does not wear one of the streamers. Therefore, it has been suggested that those who are contemplating making the journey by auto obtain ribbons before leaving Salem. The ribbons may be obtained from the ministers of any of the local churches, from the committees they have appointed, or from the YMCA.

Details concerning the Salem caravan were announced in all the churches Sunday, and a much larger crowd than 600 is anticipated. However, there will be seats for all those who bear the Salem streamer. The subject on which Billy Sunday will preach for the evening has not yet been announced.

REPORT ON SHENANDOAH CRASH TAKEN BY BOARD

Most of the survivors were agreed that the ship broke in two near the bow when she was making a second rapid ascent after having come down suddenly from the high altitude to which she was tossed by the sudden line squall. A number of the survivors were awakened from sleep either by the rapid rolling and tossing of the ship or the reading noise as the control car and the nose of the craft tore loose from the main section.

There is many a thrilling account of how officers and men saved themselves and each other as the main section settled to the earth after striking clumps of trees and of how the nose, then a free balloon, was brought down and finally held to earth by the shooting up of the helium tanks with pistols and shotguns to release the gas.

Lieutenant Commander Rosendahl, who had been sent out of the control car to supervise the release of gasoline tanks so as to prevent a possible crash, was in the nose section, as was Colonel Hall. Rosendahl's narrative told of the rescue of Lieutenant Anderson by means of a rope from the keel where he was barely able to cling on as the gale turned the nose around and around at a rapid rate.

Colonel Hall related that he went to the control car at 5 a. m. and described how the ship first went up, then came down and started up again, turning in circles. It was on the second ascent, the result of a violent gust, that the tail shot up suddenly and there was a landing noise.

"She's gone," Colonel Hall quoted Chief Rigger Allen as yelling.

"I called, 'everybody out,' and begin climbing up the catwalk," Colonel Hall added. "An officer called, 'go up quickly, Colonel.' I ran along the catwalk so as to give others room." Only a few others came up, however, Commander Lansdowne and the others remaining in the control car to meet their death in a sudden plunge to earth.

Colonel Hall told the court that the ship parted quickly and he saw the after and main section drift away and the control car fall. Commander Rosendahl took charge of the bow section and with the aid of Colonel Hall and Lieutenant Anderson and others in this section finally succeeded in getting the bag to earth on a hillside some ten miles from where the main portion of the wreckage fell.

Bits For Breakfast

To loganberry growers:

The annual loganberry slogan number of The Statesman will be the Daily of a week from Thursday, the 1st of October. You are interested, and if you have not received a written invitation to write, do so. Tell what you know about growing loganberries, and anything else that is of interest and benefit to the industry.

One of the most conservative men in Salem said yesterday that loganberries are a good bet now. He would not have said so last year. This is important. Let's have a general exchange of views.

E. P. Chalcraft, one of the star reporters of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, accompanied by his wife and child, was a Saturday visitor in Salem. He was accompanied by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Chalcraft, and they spent a little time visiting at Chemawa. E. L. Chalcraft was formerly superintendent of the Indian school at Chemawa. He is now in charge of the Indian agency at Siletz, where his son and daughter-in-law had been visiting. E. P. Chalcraft saw many improvements in Salem since he last visited this city.

The Oregon Electric is going to give a round trip rate from Portland to the state fair on Thursday and Saturday of $1.50. That is, Thursday and Saturday of the fair. On Friday, there will be a one way round trip fare from Willamette valley points south of Salem. This will help bring crowds to the state fair.

Col. W. B. Bartram arrived in Salem from Toronto yesterday. He will represent the Canadian interests in the organization of the Oregon Lumber Mills company on Thursday, after which everything will be ready to go ahead in the selection of the site and the construction of Salem's second linen mill.

SEPARATE AIR UNIT DEBATED BY BOARD

The position taken by General Patrick ran counter to that of his two brother officers, both of whom held that the army's present organization should remain intact and that any move that might tend to disrupt a unity of command would be detrimental to the national defense.

Mr. Davis in his statement set forth at length the views of his superior, Secretary Weeks, who vigorously opposed the unified air service project before a congressional committee last winter. Explaining that the secretary was prevented by ill health from being present, the acting head of the war department emphasized that he was endeavoring to carry in all respects the established policy of the department. General Hines and Drum represented technical discussion of various phases.

UNITED BRETHREN IN 72ND SESSION

Vancouver Is Host to Visiting Delegates Beginning Last Thursday

The 72nd session of the United Brethren in Christ of the Oregon conference began Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, being held in the Wallingford Memorial church at Vancouver, Wash., opened by a masterly address by Bishop William H. Washinger on "Current Opinions Concerning Christ."

Bishop Washinger rings true on the old gospel truths, emphasizing the fact that the Bible is the Word of God, and in Jesus Christ the Lord is the only hope of salvation, closing with the fine tributes given by those in every avocation of life to Jesus Christ.

The Holy Communion was then administered by the conference, Superintendents Dr. G. L. Bender of Oregon and W. A. Nicoles of Columbia River conference; and two conference secretaries, Dr. G. K. Hartman and F. S. Mitchell, and Rev. F. W. Porteus, pastor of the Vancouver church.

A very pleasing incident was the welcoming of members of the Columbia River conference by the Oregon conference, the two having been united at the last general conference. Miss Emma Paige, Rev. and Mrs. Turley, evangelists, and Mrs. J. Hal Smith, secretary of missionary education, were introduced and spoke words of greeting.

Dr. G. K. Hartman was re-elected recording and statistical secretary and treasurer; Dr. George McDonald was chosen as conference superintendent.

The evening session was given to a symposium on education, the speakers being Dr. W. A. Nicoles on "The Ministry and World's Progress; Dr. G. K. Hartman, "The Ministry and Its Great Achievement; Dr. H. Dixon Boughter on "Philomath College," Dr. G. E. McDonald on "Our Seminary." Mrs. J. Hal Smith will be the speaker for Friday evening, the subject being "Face to Face With the Great Commission."

The conference continued until Sunday evening.

power to impose a fine of from $100 to $500, and from 60 days to six months in jail. Alderman Patton advocated hard labor as the remedy for drunken drivers, and asked that provision for such be placed in the ordinance. But it was revealed that the city judge already has power to impose a sentence of hard labor at his discretion.

The one big row of the evening came when a petition to erect a service station on Capitol and Center came before the council. Mr. Berger, who wished to build the station, was present to advance his reasons. But vigorous protests were voiced by owners of the houses adjacent to the lot in question. It was held that erection of the service station would decrease the value of property and become a nuisance in the neighborhood. The petition to build the service station was not granted.

Ladd & Bush, local bankers, were awarded the selling of street improvement bonds amounting to $27,493.36. Seven concerns entered bids.

Ordinances were adopted providing for the acceptance of dedication of land for street and highway purposes by Margaret H. and Merle Hoesocrans, and by J. W. Wiegand, et al.

Petitions were adopted to improve Cottage from Cross to Wilbur, and from Cross to LeFelle, and to improve Division from High to Liberty.

Petitions for a sewer in the alley between Hazel avenue and Laurel avenue, and for lowering the sewer in blocks 72 and 73 in order to drain the basements were adopted.

Orders for assessing the actual cost of improving Belmont between Summer and Capitol, Eighteenth between D and Market, Ferry between Fifteenth and Nineteenth. License tax to regulate motor vehicles carrying passengers and the ordinance providing for a five-minute double parking for the loading and unloading of passengers and freight, were referred to the ordinance committee.

Dr. H. J. Clements issued a protest against the city health officer because a smallpox patient was allowed to wander about the streets of Salem. The council moved that Dr. Mott, city health officer, be cited to appear before the next meeting of the council and explain why conditions exist that allow a smallpox patient to run loose.

Amendments to the ordinance regulating plumbing in the city failed to pass, and Mayor Glessey expressed himself as sorry to see the measure fail, as he considered it important to the health of the community.

Ordinances to assess the actual cost of improving Cross between High and Church, Thirteenth between Rural and the south city limits, Electric between High and Cottage, Mill between Twenty-third and Twenty-first, Howard between High and Church, Trade between Commercial and High, and North Seventeenth between Center and D were passed.

At the close of the meeting Mayor Gelsy expressed the hope that work on the new budget will commence immediately, to avoid a last minute confusion.

OPEN LISTING BUREAU ROOMS AVAILABLE FOR FAIR WEEK ARE WANTED

Anticipating the usual rush for accommodations during fair week the Marion hotel will establish a listing bureau for rooms, at which place all residents of the city having rooms for rent at that time may list them. This bureau is maintained for the convenience of visitors, who are thereby assured accommodations in the homes of residents of the city at reasonable prices.

The listing of rooms will begin Friday morning at 10 o'clock, under the charge of Mrs. Ruel Smith, who has worked with Mrs. Emma Murphy Brown on several occasions of this kind, Mrs. Brown not being able to take charge of the work this year, the management has secured the services of Mrs. Smith, who will be assisted by Miss Dorothy Robnett.

Thuringia Wins in Court Contest for Stradivarius

WEIMAR — A famous Stradivarius violin, mute for years in a safe deposit vault, recently passed definitely into the possession of the Thuringian government, which had been bequeathed the instrument but was later sued for its recovery by heirs of the donor. The litigation continued for many years.

Fabulous offers made for the Stradivarius led the heirs to start suit on the strength of a clause in the will of the donor, Concertmaster Koempel of the Weimar Court theater, that they should have an option on the purchase of the violin whenever it was offered for sale. The heirs rejected one compromise made by a lower court which refused their claim.

Herr Koempel, who was the favorite pupil of Ludwig Spohr, had first given his beloved instrument to the Thuringian Asylum for the Blind, a government institution, but now it has been entrusted to the care of Professor Retz, present concertmaster of the German National Theater of Weimar.

AVIATORS NOT WORRIED MEN IN FOREIGN SERVICE TO REMAIN, THEY SAY

OUZZAN, Morocco, Sept. 21. (By Associated Press.)—The American aviators of the riffling squadron are not worried by the state department's ruling that they are violating the law of the United States. They received the first inkling of the ruling through the Associated Press dispatches. The aviators say they feel fully justified in serving under the Sultan of Morocco.

They point out that they have taken a no oath of allegiance, have signed no enlistment papers and can leave the service of the Sultan whenever they desire. They avow that they intend to remain throughout the campaign.

The American aviators did their hardest day's work on Friday since they arrived at the front. They dropped three tons of bombs on Moroccan concentrations in the morning and afternoon flights.

Colonel Chales Sweeney and Captains Holden, Bullen, Cousins, Susan and Mustane, all accompanied by French army officers, participated in the two raids.

The American aviators, forming the Sheriffian squadron have flown a total of eight hours during the past five days and have dropped nine tons of bombs and fired several thousand rounds from their machine guns against the riffling. As many as eight planes have participated in a single raid.
