

HARD LUCK HITS BEARCAT ELEVEN

Willamette to Put Green Aggregation in Field Saturday, Says Coach

A rain of hard luck has befallen the Bearcat team, just when the first game of the season, that with University of Washington at Seattle, is looming up next Saturday. Pasnacht has an injured shoulder and will not be able to take the trip. Houston, upon whom Willamette has depended for efficient work at center for three years, is in bed with the flu. G. Baker, a rookie from Illinois who has been showing a great deal of promise at practice, wrenched his back and will not be able to place in the lineup. If the list of injuries keeps multiplying at the present rate, it will not be long before there will be more on the crippled list than there are in the game, according to Coach Rathban.

Willamette will start against Washington with the greenest team it has had in years. An entirely new backfield will be out on the field, and the line will be composed largely from green material. In fact, Rhodes, Stolzheiser and Hartley will be the only old men in the lineup at Seattle. Hartley reported for practice Tuesday morning, and his advent has added considerable strength to the team.

A streak of silver is beginning to show itself through the cloud that hovers over Sweetland field camp of the Bearcats, however, now that Schweining has reported again for practice. Schweining thought he would be unable to turn out because of the amount of time he must devote to his studies and his work, but has finally seen his way clear to turn out for the season. He played quarter and full last year and did most of the kicking. He showed up well at kicking in practice Tuesday.

Collingsworth is developing rapidly and shows promise of excellent backfield material. He is fast and tricky on his feet and can be relied upon, practice indicates, to use his head. Buck Winslow, 127-pound sophomore, is showing promise at end, his reserve of fight making up for what he lacks in weight.

It is hoped that the game with Washington will bring out the possibilities for a team that will beat the Whitman, Pacific and College of Puget Sound teams last in the season. Last year Willamette was beaten by all three, and the Bearcats feel it is their turn for the long end of the scores this year.

TENNIS FINALS TODAY

OKERBERG AND EMMEL IN CITY CHAMPIONSHIP

The final of the singles in the city tennis championships will be played off this afternoon at 2 o'clock on the state hospital court between Roy Okerberg and Te Emmel. The winner of this match will be awarded the city trophy cup.

Yesterday the finals in the men's doubles was played, with Okerberg and Bates winning from Emmel and Mickey. A large crowd attended the meet.

FOOTBALL INSIDE OUT

THE WHY AND HOW OF THE RULES

NOTE—This series on the football rules, by Norman E. Brown, celebrated sport authority, is attracting unusual interest. This article deals with the safety, one method of scoring, which confuses many followers of the game.—Editor.

By Norman E. Brown

Our last article dealt with the touchback and explained in a general way the difference between it and the safety. Because both are registered behind the goal line they are confusing.

As explained, the touchback, generally speaking, is made when the ball in possession of a player guarding his own goal is declared dead when the impetus which sent it behind the goal line was furnished by the opposing team.

The safety is scored when the impetus, under the same conditions, is furnished by the side defending the goal.

This impetus can come in many ways—a kick, a pass, a fumble by an incompletely forward pass behind the goal line, a foul or illegal ball in the possession of the team behind the goal line, or a kick made by the defending team which crosses the side lines behind the goal lines before it is touched.

A safety counts two points. The procedure after the safety is scored is much the same as that after a touchback. The ball is placed in play from scrimmage on the 30-yard line of the team making the safety—that is the team which had had possession of the ball.

Study this and the touchback explanations carefully. (Tomorrow—About Lineups)

WALKER AND SHADE ARE TO MEET AGAIN

Return Match Likely in View of Close Decision; Mickey Is Willing

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(By Associated Press.)—Negotiations for a return match between Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, and Dave Shade of California, promoter. The indecisiveness of Walker's victory over Shade in a 15-round title clash at the Yankee stadium last night, Rickard said, prompted him to start dickering for a return match to be held during the winter season in the new Madison square Garden.

Although no contracts have been drawn up, Rickard said that Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, is willing to sign for the match but that Leo Flynn, manager of Shade, has not yet been approached. Flynn, however, is expected to seize the opportunity for another chance at the title.

Official figures of last night's show reveal that a crowd of 32,000 paid $185,156 to see the fight. With the state and federal taxes deducted Rickard emerged with a net gate of $159,906.80. Of this Walker is understood to have received a flat guarantee of $100,000 with Shade getting a 12 1/2 per cent cut.

BABE HERMAN WINS

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—(By Associated Press.)—Babe Herman, Pacific coast featherweight, tonight decisively outpointed Johnny Farr, Cleveland, in a 10-round go. Newspapers gave Herman five rounds and Farr one, with the other four even.

TOOTH OF PREHISTORIC MAMMAL IS DISCOVERED

FINDING OF SPECIMEN CONTRADICTS OLD THEORIES

Beliefs Relative to Geological History of Coast Declared Upside

HOQUIAM, Wash., Sept. 22.—The tooth of a prehistoric mammal at least 3,000,000 years old, was turned over to Rev. J. H. Geoghegan today by a fisherman who found it on the bank of the Humpulph river, about 10 miles west of here, last week.

Rev. Geoghegan, who several months ago declared that a large skull found in the bed of the Hoquiam river was from a similar animal, is authority for the age given, and declares that the second find proves conclusively that long-accepted theories as to the geological history of the Pacific coast are in error. Both specimens were from land animals, which existed prior to the glacial or pleistocene period, proving that the coast could not have been submerged in water before that period, as has been assumed by scientists. The nearest similar discovery has been at Utah and Wyoming. Mr. Geoghegan will search the vicinity where the tooth was found for additional specimens, and will send his find to the University of Washington for verification of his statements.

The tooth weighed two pounds and five ounces, and is in a fine state of preservation. Part of the enamel, nearly one-quarter of an inch thick, is still in good condition, though the grinding surfaces were largely worn away. The greater part of the specimen is composed of roots five inches long. The grinding surface measures nearly seven inches by more than three inches, and an exposed nerve indicates that the giant animal probably suffered severely from toothache in his declining days. The tooth is probably that of a mastodon or mammoth, Mr. Geoghegan believes.

In Washington a monkey badly bit a boy who was teasing it. It all happened because the boy did not spring from the monkey—in time.
