THE RESURRECTION:—Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. John 11:25, 26.

SALEM WILL OUT BELFAST BELFAST

Salem is destined to be the Belfast of the New World; and more. She is destined to out Belfast Belfast—

For two reasons. First, we have the natural conditions for manufacturing in the same perfection as they are found at Belfast, and we have in addition a great surrounding district for the production of the raw materials. We can produce them all right here, as fine as can be grown in the world, while Belfast must import about 85 per cent of her raw materials.

Second, our American people are an inventive people, and not wedded to old customs. They will take advantage of short cuts. They will thus reduce the expenses of manufacturing.

They will reduce the costs of scutching. They will dry with artificial heat, if this can be done without injuring the fiber for spinning or strength or durability.

They will cut out retting, if this can be done, as Henry Ford believes it can; as in fact he is doing, though he is making linen cloth so far only for coarse work, like brake bands. If retting can be dispensed with, linen will be cheaper than cotton cloth, and that will mean the employment of every idle and slacker acre in western Oregon in flax growing.

Even with retting and artificial drying and the use of humidifiers, flax fiber can be produced cheaper here than a cotton fiber can be produced in the sections of the United States adapted to its growth—

And linen is four to ten times as strong and durable in hard wear as cotton; and infinitely more lasting.

The second linen mill for Salem, to be organized tomorrow, will without doubt, by running its spinning machinery 24 hours a day, have a surplus of yarn, that may be used to induce specialty mills to come—

And once started, there will be many such. We are on our way to out Belfast Belfast.

SPLENDID IMPROVEMENT

Congratulations are due the Trustees for the projected beautification of the Willamette University campus. There will no doubt be sorrow expressed over the removal of some of the trees, but upon close examination it is evident that nearly all of those removed are more or less diseased and would never develop into really symmetrical, beautiful trees. And from their locations with reference to each other, to the buildings and the contour of the grounds they could not be brought into harmony with any definite, attractive landscape plan. Their removal will open the way to plantings which will soon develop into attractive lines of thrifty trees, shrubs and other floral beauties.

The campus has long been a distracting offset to the beauty of the grounds across the way and has neutralized to a certain extent, the attractiveness of the city's beautiful landscape effects.

When completed this improved physical feature will be in keeping with the intellectual, culture and progress of the university and will add also immensely to the attractiveness of the "city beautiful"—Salem.

ANOTHER HOPE BLASTED

The boozy-woozys and their seconds talk about Canada as the land where 4.4 beer is satisfactory. They are so sure of it that they almost smell and taste it. They think it, cherish the thought and almost live it.

But here is disappointment and near despair. A congressional committee has just completed investigation of the Ontario government's booze plan and here is the report of the chairman Hon. Grant M. Hudson:

"We asked whether 4.4 beer had satisfied those who wanted a stronger alcoholic beverage than the old 2.5 beer. We were told that after a trial of it the people turned away from it."

"Our next question was whether the sale of 4.4 beer had decreased the sale of bootleg liquor. The universal reply was that it had increased rather than decreased it. Also we inquired whether the beer had weaned the drinker of hard liquor to the mild beverage, and we learned that it had not. In fact, virtually every person we interviewed declared the whole system most unsatisfactory."

What a jolt for the friends of the booze guzzling gentry and the other foes of prohibition who have been using Ontario's percentage of alcoholic content of booze as an argument in favor changing the Volstead act to include the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer with just enough alcohol content to make men and women drunk.

JAILER SAID BOOTLEGGERS

SEATTLE, Sept. 22.—Charges of bootlegging are to be filed tomorrow against David Morgan, dismissed as jailer in the King county jail following a jail break

Colvin announced tonight. Morgan's alleged dealings in liquor were an additional reason for his discharge as jailer, Sheriff Matt Starwich revealed. Starwich said he had discovered the liquor transactions while investigating prison

County News in Brief

Silverton

SILVERTON, Sept. 22.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Knutte Digeress, son of N. Digeress, a Silverton merchant, left Saturday for Chicago where he will enter the Chicago Art Institute. Mr. Digeress has been attending the University of Oregon where he had but 16 hours left to graduate. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Mr. Digeress has for a number of years shown considerable talent in drawing. During the Homer Davenport Memorial fund campaign he attracted considerable attention with his Homer Davenport cartoons. Many declared his drawing was similar to the famous cartoonist. For the past year Mr. Digeress has been assisting his father in the latter's business at Silverton. During his recreation time he has drawn a number of cartoons of Silverton folk and Silverton events.

The Silverton Food Products company has just completed a successful season, closing the cannery Saturday night. With the exception of the prune pack, which was about the same as that of last year, the packs have been smaller this season than last. The evergreen blackberry pack was half as large as that of last year. Even so large a pack as this was above expectations because of the condition of the vines. It is thought that the little rain in the early part of the evergreen blackberry season developed the berries to some extent. The prune pack, while no larger than that of last year, is said to be a better grade.

Funeral services for Olie Foss were held at Trinity church Monday morning with the Rev. George Henriksen officiating. The body was sent east for burial. Mr. Foss died at Silverton Friday morning.

Ruben Jensen motored to Corvallis Monday. Mr. Jensen took his supplies for the college year down and returned to Silverton Monday evening. He will leave next Sunday to take up his studies. Mr. Jensen is a sophomore in the department of industrial arts.

Sunnyside

Miss Loraine Gregg is home from California where she has been visiting her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Chandler of Silverton, were visiting in this neighborhood Sunday.

Mrs. Emma Heckart left Sunday for her home in Walla Walla, Wash., after spending the summer with her son G. T. Heckart.

Sunnyside school will start on September 28.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Corpstein left Saturday for their home in Phoenix, Ariz., after spending the summer on their prune ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pearson are visiting at Tillamook.

Miss Grace Chandler spent the week-end with home folks.

Stayton

Mrs. Melissa Kitchum came over from Albany Thursday to attend the funeral of C. E. Brown, and remained the rest of the week to visit friends. Mrs. Kitchum was for many years a resident of this place, her husband, Dr. J. M. Kitchum being the leading physician here at that time.

Norval Fisher has enjoyed a day or two visiting with his friend and college chum, Johnie Johnson of McMinnville, who was entertained at the Fisher home while here. Mr. Johnson, who finished college at OAC last year, graduating in the same class with Fisher, is now traveling for a Portland firm selling bank supplies and was calling on the local bank.

C. F. Loose and wife are busily engaged this week in remodeling the interior of their farm residence, three miles west of Stayton. The place was recently made vacant by the removal of the Dixon family who have resided there the past four years. Mr. Loose is fixing the place up for rental purposes.

Julius Krenz of Victor Point, who was arrested by fire warden Albert Robens for setting fire to slashings during the closed season was brought her for trial Saturday. Mr. Brown, a Salem attorney looked after the defendant's case, while Mr. Ferguson of the fire service commission acted for the state. A jury composed of Margaret Fisher, Will Ryan, C. D. Stayton, Archie Casper, John Van Handel and W. A. Cladek found him guilty, and Judge Grier imposed a fine of $25 and costs.

Among the out of town people being entertained here this week is Mrs. Ann Ferguson of Goldendale, Wash., who is spending a few days as the guest of her niece Mrs. Joseph Fisher. Mrs. Ferguson will go from here to the Oregon State Fair grounds where she will be in camp fair week.

The entire cannery force was put on a special order job one day last week, when R. D. Hoke, the cannery manager, received an order for forty cases of especially prepared prunes. The lot was to be peeled, pitted and 40 per cent sugar.

Frank Splawn who has been general manager of the Downing service station for several months has resigned; his resignation going into effect last week. Lester Barrows has accepted the position.

Most of the folks who went to the hop yards from here have returned home and those who have not, will likely finish work and return by the last of this week.

Lee Brown who has employment in a lath mill at Klamath Falls for the past few months was called home Wednesday of last week by the death of his father.

Mrs. Keyes, an aunt of J. T. Mack, was a guest at the Mack home here during the week, returning to her home in Mill City.

The Blinston family has returned home from the hop yards.

Those of the Trick family, who have been at Toledo, returned home Saturday evening.

Mr. Canoy went on a fishing trip to the coast last week.

On next Friday evening there will be a reception held at the church in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Tamplin. A general invitation is extended to the people of this community, and it is hoped that a large number will be present to meet the new pastors.

The members of the Sims and Boje families went to Mehama last Sunday.

Miss Bertha Cole and Kenneth Cole went to Sublimity on Sunday.

Scotts Mills

Miss La Vern Rich left for Eugene Friday where she will attend school this winter.

Miss Loraine Hogg left for Salem Sunday where she will enter high school this winter. Her sister, Doris, will visit relatives in Salem this week.
