The instinct for a home is as natural in humanity as the instinct to mate. A young couple beginning family life in their own home, secure at once a back ground, an anchorage.

Children brought up in their own home have the supreme advantage of a domestic sentiment that is one of the most valuable of spiritual possessions.

Without their own house, there is an inescapable sense of being transients, of having no firm foundation for family life. We have several new bungalows, 4 rooms and breakfast nook, we will sell, just like rent. like rent. RICH L. REIMANN, Realter 63s13tf

THE AGES OF WISDOM

(Reproduced by request) Every generation, no matter ow paltry its character, thinks itself much wiser than the one immediately preceding it, let alone those that are remote. It is just the same with fue different periods of a man's life. In the years of physical growth when our powers of mind and our stores of knowledge are receiving daily attentions, it becomes a habit to look down with contempt upon yesterday, as has been said. The habit takes root, and remains even after the intellectual powers have begun to decline-when today should rather look up with respect to yesterday. This is the place for Schopenhauer's observation that, although in its main qualities a man's intellect or head as well as his character heart, is innate, yet the former is by no means so unalterable in its nature as the lat-"The fact is that the intellect is subject to very many transformations, which, as a rule do not fail to make their actual appearance; and this is so, partly because the intellect has a deep foundation in the physique and partly because the material with

> THE GERMS OF GREATNESS It has been said that heredity, in essence, is stored up experiences of environment. Life is a perpetual challenge to that environment. How powerful is that challenge?

Has the individual any real day in 4t? To what extent, in short, do we control our deatiny? Luther Durbank offers this testimony; "Every observation and deduc-tion I have been able to make con-
