Impoverished Nobles of Korea Now Push Wagons

SEOUL, Korea—The Korean nobility, with the exception of a few propertied peers, is reported to be suffering from extreme poverty. Several of the nobles, who were once wealthy, are now working as cart pullers and performing other menial tasks as the only means of escaping starvation.

At the time of the annexation of Korea to Japan, about 60 of the leading Koreans were created peers and given property by the Japanese government. Most of them ran through this property rapidly. Recently 30 of the impoverished Korean nobles sent a petition to the Japanese government asking for financial assistance.
