Large Missionary Mergers Are Proposed

Thirteen Societies With Assets of Fifty Millions May Unite in Two Boards—Proposals of Committee of Congregationalists Ready for Meeting Next Month

That thirteen Congregational missionary societies should unite into two is the proposal of a committee which has been studying the subject for two years and will report at the meeting of the National Council of the Congregational churches in Washington, D. C., October 20-28.

These societies expend annually over $5,000,000 and control directly properties and invested funds aggregating in the neighborhood of $50,000,000.

The proposal also provides for combining the three denominational periodicals in one; the Missionary Herald of the foreign boards and the American Missionary of the home boards becoming supplements of The Congregationalist.

No less than eleven other denominations have taken action or are contemplating it in the same general direction. All of this is in keeping with, though not determined by, the tendency in the business world.

These societies date back to the time of the Revolutionary war, immediately after which missionary societies were organized in the New England states for the purpose of extending the influence of the church to the frontier communities of the new country. This led later to the organization in 1826 of the National Home Missionary society. So also societies grew up voluntarily for promoting education, publication, Sunday school work, the building of churches and before the Civil war for work among slaves. So also the foreign missionary movement organized itself in 1810 under the name of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. Half a century later the women of the churches felt the challenge of ministry to women of non-Christian lands and three Women's Boards of Missions resulted, one in the east, one in the interior and another on the Pacific coast.

Thus it came about by the present time there are thirteen organizations all doing significant work and since 1923 directly related to the churches through the membership of the National Council each member of which is a member of each society. Until that date they were free corporations enjoying the confidence of the churches but not controlled by them except through individual members.

For more than half a century there has been considerable uneasiness in the churches over the number of societies and not a little agitation for merging them for the sake of economy and efficiency as for the sake of clearer understanding of the work by contributors. This has now come to a head in the present proposals to the National Council whose action controls that of the several societies. The plans call for uniting the three Woman's Boards of Foreign Missions with the American Board, giving the women a representation of not less than one-third on the controlling boards and committees and offices to conserve the interests of the former territorially organized boards. The women are also to be fully represented on the executive staff.

Likewise the nine societies whose work in the U. S. are to be united under one Board with a general board of directors representing the entire country and with four departmental committees for administering the details of missionary work. Here again the women are to be entitled to not less than one-third of the controlling committee and board.

The home societies involved are:

The American Missionary Association.

The Congregational Home Missionary Society.

The Congregational Church Building Society.

The Congregational Sunday School Extension Society.

The Congregational Education Society.

The Congregational Foundation for Education.

The Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief, and

The Congregational Woman's Home Missionary Federation.

The further recommendation is made that for presenting the causes to the churches and individual contributors there shall be a Joint Promotional Council composed of representatives of the several interests and responsible for all endeavors to create interest and raise money.

The objects in view in this radical proposal are economy and efficiency in the expenditure of funds, and greater effectiveness in education, publicity and money raising, together with the possibility of more democratic control of a simpler organization.

By economy "the committee means the making of every dollar go just as far as that dollar can be made to go." "For example, in publicity and promotion, we should expect that the expenditure of the same amount of money would yield far larger results; that it would mean the spending of a smaller proportion of our money."

By efficiency the committee means getting more work done and getting it better done for the same expenditure." Here there is thought of: the consolidation of offices, the elimination of overlapping on the field, increased ability to meet emergencies, desirable flexibility in budgets, and a unified treasury department with fewer sets of books and greater return on investments.

FIVE PRETTY GIRLS AT BLIGH THEATRE

Charnoff's Dancing Revue heads the new bill at the Bligh theater today. This act is made up of five pretty and clever girls in a routine of up to the minute dances. Dainty Maxine Henry, graceful cer; Veronica Teacamp, noted for the way she presents the Charleston strut, and Bulla O'Grady, who has won a name for herself as the jazz toe dancer, are featured in the act.

On the bill is Swift and Daley, who will entertain with their novelty musical offering. This couple play any instrument that sl in the catalog and have invented several for their own use in the act.

Hazen Edwards and Chum will offer plenty of good comedy.

The Perrys have an act that is different, with roping, singing and comedy.

Williams and Healey also present a comedy offering.

OWN YOUR OWN HOME!
The instinct for a home is as natural in humanity as the instinct to mate. A young couple beginning family life in their own home, secure at once a back ground, an anchorage.
Children brought up in their own home have the supreme advantage of a domestic sentiment that is one of the most valuable of spiritual possessions.
Without their own house, there is an inescapable sense of being transients, of having no firm foundation for family life.
We have several new bungalows, 4 rooms and breakfast nook, we will sell, just like rent.
