

AUDITORIUM CASE ORDERED REOPENED

Oral Opinion by Supreme Court Affects Special Election at Eugene

An oral opinion from the supreme court orders a second argument of the case of Campbell, appellant, against the City of Eugene. The plaintiff asks that a $500,000 bond issue for a municipal auditorium, authorized by a 30-vote majority on July 2, 1924, be declared void.

Other opinions handed down on Tuesday by the supreme court were:

Robert C. Kinney, appellant, vs. Birdie F. Schlusel et al, appeal from Multnomah county. Suit to compel the specific performance of a contract. Opinion by Justice Rand. Judge J. U. Campbell affirmed.

Charles Overton vs. William M. Stocker, appellant. Appeal from Lincoln county on motion to dismiss appeal. Continued for further action. Opinion by Chief Justice McBride.

J. G. Megier and Co. vs. D. S. Tarabochia, appellant. Appeal from Clatsop county. Motion to dismiss appeal granted in opinion by Chief Justice McBride.

City Motor Trucking company, appellant, vs. Franklin Fire Insurance company. Appeal from Multnomah county. Suit to collect insurance. Opinion by Justice Coshov. Judge George P. Skipworth affirmed.

John H. Dennehy vs. Watt & Washburn, appellants. Appeal from Clatsop county. Suit to recover money. Opinion by Justice Burnett. Judge A. L. Leavitt reversed and case remanded.

State of Oregon ex rel school district No. 56, Columbia county, vs. B. F. Kieckner et al, appellants. Appeal from Clatsop county. Suit to test the validity of consolidation of school districts. Opinion by Justice Belt. Judge J. A. Eakin reversed.

In re the estate of August Gerhards, deceased. Benjamin C. Anderson appellant vs. Emma Rayley, executrix. Appeal from Multnomah county. Opinion by Justice Belt. Judge George Tazewell affirmed.

RESPONSE GENERAL TO ARMY'S APPEAL

Many Supplies Received by Salem Salvation Corps; More Are Needed

Some time ago The Statesman printed an article concerning the Salvation Army's work of collecting old clothing, shoes, etc., from Salem residences and stores. The officer in charge of the Army's local corps states there has been a splendid response to the call that went forth in that article, and that a number of persons in hard circumstances have been helped by this collected material.

The Army has employed this means of helping people for years, along with its many other activities, and it has clothed and put shoes on the feet of a vast number of men, women and children, whose circumstances have put them in the unfortunate class.

All those who are downed by their circumstances do not seek charity, from the Salvation Army or any other, but it is safe to say that among the many who do, one will find that a large percentage find their way to the people of the blue uniform and the poke topnet. In these Army workers their more unfortunate brothers and sisters find people for the most part who understand them and their needs, and who can talk to them in their own language—some of them out of experiences like unto those of the applicant for help. Salem residents know this, and Captain Pitt says he and his workers have been kept busy making calls to all parts of the city.

Keep the Army in mind when you are rummaging through the house and come upon something which you can afford to dispense with for the helping of those not quite so fortunate as you may be, and no doubt are.

CROP SPECIALIST SPEAKS UPON FLAX

Aumsville Growers Invite OAC Expert to Salem Saturday Afternoon

The Aumsville flax growers, feeling that the Aumsville district is becoming a great flax growing center, have invited Prof. James T. Jardine, director of the experiment station, Oregon Agricultural college, and G. R. Hyslop, farm crop specialist of OAC, to meet with them next Saturday afternoon at the Salem Chamber of Commerce to discuss matters of flax interest.

The invitation has been accepted by both Prof. Jardine and Prof. Hyslop. Being greatly interested in flax growing, the Aumsville growers have asked that the Oregon Agricultural college establish an experiment station near Aumsville, as such a station would be of benefit to all growers in the southern part of the county.

It is understood that the flax meeting will be devoted largely to a discussion of the proper methods of improving the quality of the flax crop, the value of irrigation and also the results of proper fertilizing of the soil.

Many of the largest flax growers in the county are in the Aumsville, Turner and Stayton district, and not only all flax growers from this district but from all parts of the county are invited to attend the meeting Saturday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce.

HARRY GREB WINS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 13.—(By Associated Press.)—Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, middleweight champion of the world, easily defeated Tony Marullo of New Orleans in a 10 round bout here tonight. Greb won every round. Greb weighed 166 pounds and his opponent 167 1/2. A small crowd watched the battle.

Five hundred state prisoners are at work, most of them in prison flax plant.

KIWANIS SPONSORS AN ESSAY CONTEST

"Salem Industries" Subject for Students of City; Many Cash Prizes

In an endeavor to bring home to the people of Salem the natural and industrial advantages of the city and its unusual beauty, the Salem Kiwanis club is planning to inaugurate a "Campaign of Confidence." An essay contest will be sponsored by the club in which all school children from the sixth grade to and including the senior year in high school will be eligible to participate.

The high school students and the junior high school students will write on the subject, "Salem's Industries." The subject on which the grade school students will write is "Why I Like to Live in Salem." The contest will be opened perhaps the first of next week, and all essays must be in by Monday, November 9.

The teachers of the various schools have appeared to be willing to cooperate in the contest, and the Kiwanians are hoping that the papers will be given a preliminary going over at the schools.

The ten best essays are to be sent in from the high school, the eight best from each of the junior high schools, and the two best from each of the sixth grades in the city.

Prizes are to be given as follows: High school, first prize $5, second prize $4, third $3, fourth $2.50, fifth $2, sixth 1.50; junior highs, first $4, second 3, third $2.50, fourth $2, fifth 1.50, sixth $1; grades, first $3, second $2, third $1.75, fourth $1.50, fifth $1.25, sixth $1 and seventh 75c. There will be a grand prize of $5 awarded to the best essay submitted in the city.

WHITE COLLAR JOBS IRK COL. E. HOFER

Salem Publisher and Newspaperman Addresses Kiwanis Club Tuesday

The schools of Salem should be under business management instead of political management, in the opinion of Col. E. Hofer, who addressed the Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon Tuesday. He declared that business management is 50 per cent more efficient than political management.

It is the opinion of Col. Hofer that pupils should be started early in their education to be fitted for the work they are to follow later in life. He heartily recommended the system used at the San Mateo-Burlingame union high school in California, at which, he said, all the students are put to useful study, such as trades.

Col. Hofer is a believer in vocational education, and believes that the school system should be shaped along lines of an industrial democracy. He indicated that he has little patience with "white collar" jobs, and classed professional men, such as lawyers, doctors, newspapermen and writers with real estate "sharks." He said that most of those who train for these professions find no job awaiting them when they are through with their education, and as a result have to be given work with the state.

Col. Hofer stated that the Salem school buildings and grounds are worth about $1,500,000, and the only way to realize interest on this investment is to improve the product of the raw material which is the students.

Declaring that only one student in ten will become a professional man, he said that the schools should pay attention to the other nine that will have to work to earn their living, as it is on these nine that the country is relying to carry on the government.

BUILDING SURVEY SOUGHT BY LABOR

Business Agent to Report at Big Open Meeting Tuesday, October 27

By unanimous vote of the Salem Trades and Labor council last night, S. B. Davidson, business agent, was instructed to make an inventory of building operations in the city, both residential and commercial, and report at an open meeting of the central labor council October 27. The inventory was ordered following the suggestion made by W. H. Chase, painter, in behalf of the building trades committee, in order to ascertain the percentage that is being constructed by organized labor.

Some buildings, it was pointed out, are divided between union and non-union men. The object of the inventory is to inform the various crafts of the activities of other crafts. While the meeting will be of primary interest to the labor unions, President Boehringer, in behalf of the council, has issued a general invitation for all those interested to attend the meeting.

Appointment of a new building trades committee, to include the label league locals contributing to the business agent fund, will be announced by President Boehringer at the next meeting.

The building crafts represented on the committee are the carpenters, plumbers, sheet metal workers, painters, electricians, plasterers and hod carriers. The meeting will start promptly at 8 o'clock.
