Funds Await Bonds
Seventeen school district clerks have failed to file their required bond with the office of the county school superintendent, and until these are in there can be no apportionment of school funds, which generally takes place early in November. The apportionment will be made on the basis of the school census last year with 15,673 pupils. Mrs. Mary Fulkerson, county school superintendent, is urging districts to get after their clerks and have the necessary bonds filed immediately.

Issuing Tax Receipts
Two or three weeks will elapse before all tax receipts for the last half ending October 5 are distributed and Sheriff O. D. Bower requests those not yet receiving their receipts to have a little more patience as there is still a huge stack of mail to be sorted. The receipts are being mailed as rapidly as possible. The work is being retarded, as Sam Butler, one of the deputies connected with the treasurer's office, was called to eastern Oregon Wednesday by the serious illness of his father.

Portlanders Buy Stock
A. L. Mills and W. L. Thompson, bankers in Portland, have each purchased stock in the new Oregon Lumber Mills, according to word received Wednesday from

T. B. Kay, president of the new mill. He and R. O. Snelling, secretary of the new company, motored to Portland for the purpose of canvassing for the stock, and as a result, each of the bankers mentioned took $2400 worth, and another man, also named Thompson, took $1,000 worth. About $40,000 has now been subscribed in Portland, but the town has not been canvassed, and Mr. Kay believes that there will be little difficulty in the raising of Portland's quota of $135,000.

Teachers Show Resentment
Several teachers in the Salem schools have expressed discontent with an order from County Superintendent Fulkerson that they must attend the teachers' institute to be held in Salem Friday and Saturday. The teachers do not object to attendance Friday, but they hold that Saturday is assured them by law to be a holiday, and some of them feel they should not be forced to go to institute on that day for that reason.
