Severson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Severson, was married to Clarence Sebo, the son of G. K. Sebo. The Rev. S. Lindseth of St. John's church, Silvertown, read the ring ceremony.

The Severson home on Church street was beautifully decorated for the occasion, a profusion of roses, asters, carnations and sweet peas being used in shades of pink and white. The bride, gowned in a tan going-away costume, came in on the arm of her father while Miss Sylvia Naa played the wedding march. She was met at the improvised altar between the living rooms by Mr. Sebo. They were unattended.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served at which Mrs. D. Ingebreton presided. Immediately after the luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Sebo left for a week's wedding trip after which they will be at home on the Sebo farm in the Waldo hills.

Mr. Sebo is a graduate of Oregon Agricultural college, where he was a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Silvertown

SILVERTOWN, Ore., Oct. 16.—(Special).—Trinity and St. John's congregations at Silvertown will unite according to the reports received from the quarterly business meetings held by both congregations at their respective churches Wednesday night. For sometime the question of uniting these two churches has been discussed. It was decided that this was the proper thing to do as both churches belong to the same synod. Committees were appointed from each congregation to act together on the question. A report was drawn up suggesting the union of the

For sometime past visitors to Silvertown have perhaps wondered why, when they asked to see the city hall, citizens of Silvertown looked sort of startled and began to speak quickly of something else, most likely the city park which two congregations and submitted before each Wednesday night. In order to carry the vote had to be two thirds majority for. In the St. John's church the report carried a vote of 42 for and 3 against. At Trinity church the report was rejected by a very large majority.

The question of holding both English and Norwegian services each Sunday was discussed in Trinity church but was defeated, because this would interfere with the Sunday school work. About 275 attend Sunday school regularly. However, a change was made whereby services in the Norwegian language were confined to the first and third Sundays of each month. Sunday evening services will be conducted in the English language at all times and will be held every Sunday evening.

Another matter sought up at this meeting was that of selecting a representative for the community health council. The council asked that Trinity congregation send such a representative. Miss Thea Jensen, a trained nurse was chosen to fill this position.

At the business meeting at St. John's church no changes were made in the language. English and Norwegian service alternate every other Sunday. No services are held on Sunday evening as the evening is given over to the Luther League meetings. Mrs. Jasper Dullum will represent St. John's congregation on the community health council.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized Wednesday at 1:30 p. m., when Miss Gladys Severson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Severson, was married to Clarence Sebo, the son of Mr. O. K. Sebo. The Rev. S. Lindseth read the ring ceremony.

is really very nice. Silvertown will no longer do this. In fact it is doubtful if visitors will be given an opportunity to ask to see the city hall before they are shown to it for Silvertown has a new city hall which was opened to the public Wednesday evening.

The hall was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers for the occasion. Even the fire engine was presented with a large bouquet of flowers. It is said that the city officials were busy all day getting ready for the opening. A club woman who had business in the new library during the day reports that she even found one of the officials down on his hand and knees cleaning off marks made by some one's shoes on the new floor.

Members of the city council acted as the reception committee Wednesday night and showed the visitors about through the rooms. The hall is 44x55 feet and was designed by Charles Rullman, the city engineer. On the first floor are housed the fire department, the water department, the recorder and the police. In the basement are store rooms and the city jail. On the second floor are the engineer's and the mayor's offices, the city council chamber and the city library. The latter now contains about 4000 books. Mrs. Alice Kircher has been chosen as librarian. The library will open on Wednesdays and Saturdays of each week. Col. E. Hofer presented the library board with 100 new books for the opening Wednesday evening and it is understood that he will become a regular contributor. The library is sponsored by the Silvertown Woman's club.

The old city hall, which still stands on South Water street was built in 1887 by Sol Smith. The city jail which stands along side of the old hall was built much earlier and for years occupied the corner where the Palfy Motor car company building now is. When the hall was built the jail was moved to its present location.
