Charities Appeal
The Associated Charities of Salem have issued an appeal for bed clothing, clothing of any description, food, and other articles that might be distributed among the needy of the city. If anyone has any such articles he is urged to phone 1654-W, and the staff will be called for. The Associated Charities is planning on launching a drive during the first week of November for the purpose of obtaining sufficient funds to carry on the work of the organization during the coming year. It is the intention of the organization to obtain enough funds so that repeated drives in the city will not be necessary.

Coyote Is Killed
A wandering coyote which visited the chicken pens at the state school for the blind, corner of Church and Mission, was killed Monday morning by William McCarrill, engineer. The animal was young, apparently about five or six months old, and is thought to have caused a heavy casualty among the feathered residents of the city. The animal was seen by Mrs. Mildred Mortensen, laundress, who called McCarrill. The animal is believed to have followed the creek near the school property from the hill country above Silverton, where coyotes are still plentiful.

Bits For Breakfast
Delightful fall weather—
But most farmers want some hard rains, to get the ground in condition to plow.

Every new automobile in Marion county gives the county court a little more (license) money with which to build more paved market roads. Marion county certainly got off on the right foot in the matter of paved market roads, and she is going to stay there as long as there is an unimproved piece of road in the county.

Since Salem is to have a lot of special concern here: Dr. Burgess Gordon and other physicians of Boston have used the "apple-cart" of hard-hearted trainers who rule candy and other sweets off the diet of athletes. As a result of varied experiments these scientists have found that marathon runners who have lived on a generous carbohydrate diet during the training season and who eat candy before and during races not only come out ahead but are also in much better physical condition than those whose diet has been robbed of carbohydrates. Blood tests revealed that the runners who were the most exhausted at the end of the race had a low blood sugar percentage, while those less exhausted had a higher sugar percentage.

At the recent radio show in New York a demonstration was made by the inventor of the so-called wireless lamp. An egg was placed in a frying pan on a cake of ice. The wireless waves penetrated the ice and in a short time had the pan red-hot—and the egg

Public interest in radio throughout Europe just now is at a very high point, says Dr. Lee De Forest, who recently returned from a trip abroad. "The interest is greatest in England," he continues, "probably due to the fact that the programs there are more diversified than in the rest of the European countries. France of all the nations pays the least attention to its programs and broadcasting, and with the possible exception of one or two French stations very little musical matter is broadcast. For that reason French listeners build receivers capable of hearing the English stations."
