Albert-Eoff Wedding

Salem has scarcely known a more beautiful bride than Miss Mary Jane Albert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Albert, whose marriage to Mr. Asel Eoff, son of Mrs. J. T. Whittier, was solemnized at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, October 21, at the home of the bride's parents at 245 North Winter street. Seventy-five relatives and friends were invited to witness the ceremony which was read in an impressive manner by Dr. Norman Kendall Tully, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Last night's bride has been one of the most extensively feted of the year and the news of the wedding is of interest throughout the state.

The service was read in the living room before the fireplace, which was completely embanked with potted ferns, palms and smilax.

Two tiers of exquisitely slender cathedral candles burned in glass holders at the altar which was festive on either side with a magnificent floor basket of the choicest white chrysanthemums. A nave for the bride was made by means of satin streamers reaching from the pillars of the stairway to the beautiful altar. Holding the ribbons were Mary Elizabeth Benz and Suzanne Sigel at the altar and, at the stairs, Miss Irma Reynolds and Miss Margaret Legge.

Immediately preceding the ceremony, Miss Josephine Albert, the bride's only sister, sang "God Touched the Rose." Miss Albert made a lovely picture in her frock of pink georgette adorned with roses on each side of the flounce and at a low waistline. Mrs. Ruesen Benz (Mildred Wiggins), a cousin of the bride, played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party assembled.

The bride was a picture of unforgettable charm as she descended the stairway on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was of lavish silk marquisette cut with a low waist line and elaborated with four godets, heavily beaded with pearls and rhinestones, and bordered at the neckline with the same gems. She wore a train length veil of net in a delicate flesh tint worn with a coronet of real orange blossoms with a band of silver lace embroidered with pearls. She carried a real lace handkerchief which belonged to her paternal grandmother. Her pumps were of silver kid. She carried a lovely shower bouquet of delicate pink rosebuds, boarders, orchids, and lilies of the valley with streamers of pale pink satin. Miss Rodgers caught the bouquet.

The bride's only attendant, Miss Margaret Rodgers, as maid-of-honor, wore a winsome mode of pale green chiffon and cloth of gold, with chic baskets of French flowers in applique. She carried a basket of flowers with a shower of pastel blossoms which exactly duplicated the miniature baskets of artificial flowers on her gown. Mr. Wolcott Buren attended the groom as best man.

The bride's mother wore a lovely gown of rich blue silk with the bodice embroidered in blue and gold metallic thread.

The living room, dining room, library, and even the veranda were decorated with the most gorgeous blossoms of the season. In the library, one entire wall was a bank of zinnias, French marigolds, asters, and Gladioli, low bowls and pottery urns being arranged on the ledge to give the charming effect.

In the dining room the table was covered with an imported cloth of Battenburg and Cluny lace. The gorgeous, deep red buds of Hadley roses filled a silver basket at the center of the table, French yellow tapers burned in silver holders. Mrs. Glenn Sigel cut the ties during the reception which followed the ceremony and Mrs. Edwin Jorgenson presided at the urn. Mrs. Lewis Griffith presided as hostess in the dining room during the evening. Assisting her were Miss Josephine Baumgartner, Miss Maxine Buren, Miss Katherine Hartley, Miss Genevieve Junk, Miss Dorothy Patterson, and Miss Ruth Griffith.

A beautiful array of gifts received by this popular young couple were on display on the second floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Eoff left for a ten day wedding trip to California. The bride's going away suit was a smartly cut ensemble in a novelty check with a stunning small hat in scarlet velvet.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Eoff are prominent in University of Oregon circles. Mrs. Eoff is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, while Mr. Eoff is a Kappa Sigma. Miss Albert is a graduate of Willamette University where she was active in musical and social circles, with the class of '24. Mr. Eoff is prominently engaged in business here where the young people will make their home.

After November 15 Mr. and Mrs. Eoff will be at home to their friends in their attractive new dwelling at Harvard and Twelfth streets.
