PAUL IN EPHESUS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19: 1-27

1. And it came to pass, that while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul having passed through the upper coasts, came to Ephesus: and finding certain disciples,

2. He said unto them, Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said, ye have not, we have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost.

3. And he said unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism.

4. Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is on Christ Jesus.

5. And when they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.

6. And when Paul laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghost came on them; and they spake with tongues, and prophesied.

8. And he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing, and persuading the things concerning the kingdom of God.

9. But when divers were hardened, and believed not, but spake evil of that way before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated disciples, disputing daily in the school of one Tyrannus.

10. And this continued by the space of two years; so that all they which dwell in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks.

11. And God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul:

12. So that from his body were brought unto the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them; and the evil spirits went out of them.

13. Then certain of the vagabond Jews, exorcists, took upon them to call over them which had evil spirits the name of the Lord Jesus saying, We adjure you by Jesus, whom Paul preacheth.

14. And there were seven sons of one Sceva, a Jew, and a chief of the priests, which did so.

15. And the evil spirit answered and said, Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye.

16. And the man in whom the evil spirit was, leaped on them, and overcame them, and prevailed them, so that they fled out of the house naked and wounded.

17. And this was known to all Jews and Greeks also dwelling at Ephesus; and fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified.

18. And many that believed came, and confessed, and shewed their deeds.

19. Many of them also which used curious arts brought their books together, and burned them before all men; and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver.

20. So mightily grew the word of God, and prevailed.

21. After these things were ended, Paul purposed in the spirit when he passed through Macedonia and Achaia to go to Jerusalem, saying, after I have been there, I must also see Rome.

22. So he sent into Macedonia two of them that ministered unto him, Timotheus and Erastus; but he stayed himself in Asia for a season.

23. And the same time there arose no small stir about that way.

24. For a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith, which made silver shrines for Diana, brought no small gain unto the craftsmen;

25. Whom he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and said, Sirs, ye know that by this work we have our wealth.

26. Moreover, ye see and hear, that not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughout all Asia, this Paul hath persuaded and turned away much people, saying that disciples from them and resorted to the schoolhouse of Tyrannus. This was followed with glorious results.

III. God Working Miracles by Paul—11-16. Ephesus was noted for its wonder workers. If Paul's ministry was to be successful here, God must in an extraordinary way put His seal upon His work.

IV. A Glorious Awakening—17-41. 1. Fear Falls Upon All.—17. News of the casting out of these evil spirits created impressions favorable to Christianity.

2. It Brought to the Front Those Who Professed Faith in Christ, While Not Living Right Lives.—18. They believed but they had not broken from sin.

3. Gave Up Practice of Black Arts.—19. This means forms of jugglery by use of charms and magical words. They proved genuineness of their actions by publicly burning their books.

4. Uproar of the Silversmiths at Ephesus—23-41. (1) The Occasion—23-24. This was the power of the gospel in destroying the infamous business of Demetrius and his followers. It was clear to them that idolatry was tottering before the power of the gospel.

(2) The Method—25-29. Demetrius, a leading business man, whose business was the stay of others of a similar nature, called a meeting and stated that much people had turned from idolatry, and that the market for their wares was materially weakened. He appealed to his followers:

a. On the ground of business, saying: "This, our craft, is in danger of being set to naught!"

b. On the ground of religious prejudice. He said: "The temple of the great goddess Diana shall be despised"—27. His speech gained his end.

While in Boulogne the Dyments visited the cathedral and the cemetery for the British dead. They saw a long train unload hundreds of peasants and people of the working class on a pilgrimage to the cathedral for a special fete day, where the sick expected to be cured of their diseases, and where they must spend two nights in the public square in front of the cathedral.

From Boulogne Dean and Mrs. Dymont went to Paris where they stayed 10 days. They did not see much of the city due to the fact that Dean Dymont was vaccinated for typhoid, and remained close to his hotel, but they managed to visit the World's Fair Exposition and the Exhibition of Beaux Arts.

From Paris they began their journey to the battle fields on bicycles. Apparently this mode of travel is quite satisfactory, for,

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON

Oct. 24.—(Special).—The battle-scarred fields of France, dotted with ruined villages and partly rebuilt towns, are described in a letter to Mrs. Prince L. Campbell from Bertha Stuart Dymont, Mrs. Dymont and Dean Collin V. Dymont are enjoying a year's leave of absence traveling through Europe.

The Oregon faculty folk spent two days in Boulogne, and the most interesting thing there, according to Mrs. Dymont, "was the fish market with the attendant fish women."

"It seemed as if the ocean might suddenly have emptied itself of fish," she said. "There were hundreds of carts filled with baskets of fish of every variety; also crabs, clams, oysters, shrimp and lobsters. The large market building was filled and the street along the water was packed with two wheeled carts. A cart would be rolled rapidly through a passageway in the market building. On either side of the passage was a raised platform filled with bidders. At the center the cart would be halted, an auctioneer would call out 'how much?' and the bidding would begin. In about half a minute he would declare it sold, and it would roll on to be followed by another. The contents of the cart had been sold for what in our money would be equivalent to from $3 to $5. Outside were huge drays filled with crushed ice, in which the fish were packed for shipment."

They saw a long train unload hundreds of peasants and people of the working class on a pilgrimage to the cathedral for a special fete day, where the sick expected to be cured of their diseases, and where they must spend two nights in the public square in front of the cathedral.

From Paris they began their journey to the battle fields on bicycles. Apparently this mode of travel is quite satisfactory, for,

Mrs. Dymont writes: "We enjoy the cycling greatly, and as we take it by lazy stages we have not become very tired."

Three days were spent at Verdun, from which place they visited many surrounding points. They found everywhere barbed wire, trenches, dugouts, old guns, shell holes and much debris. Fort Douaumont, taken by the Germans and recaptured by the French in 1916, and around which some of the most bitter fighting of the war took place, was described by Mrs. Dymont as extremely interesting.

"It has underground rooms and tunnels, electric-lighted when the Germans had it," she wrote. "There was the room of the commanding general, sleeping rooms, kitchens and wash rooms, telephone and electric rooms, etc. The Germans had built an elevator which lowered the soldiers to a still lower level, from which an underground passage extended more than half a mile out into the forest."

"Verdun is being steadily rebuilt," continued Mrs. Dymont, "but in the village ruins are still standing and the new work apparently progressing slowly. I was much distressed to find that the nice new homes still had the barns built as a part of them."

Monuments marking points that were the scenes of important engagements of the world war, and others erected in memory of soldier dead were found in many localities. One in particular, described by Mrs. Dymont as "a very beautiful figure of a young girl in flowing draperies holding up a wreath of victory, quite different from the usual monuments of guns and soldiers," had been erected by the State of Missouri to her sons fallen in the "Great War for Humanity."

Bobbed Hair

How to Keep it Thick Healthy, Vigorous

The constant curling and waving demanded by modern style in hair dress, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, streaked with gray; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast. A 35-cent bottle of refreshing, fragrant "Danderine" will do wonders for any girl's hair. This vitalizing beauty- tonic acts on the hair like fresh showers of rain and sunshine act on vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant. Try this for one week! While combing and dressing your hair, moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair—the effect is startling! Your hair immediately takes on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, becomes incomparably soft, wavy and appears twice as thick and abundant. —Adv.

Another Unpardonable Sin!

Is the neglect and abuse of our greatest gift, OUR EYES.

Modern times have put great demands upon our eyes in the form of artificial light, blurred newspaper print, movies, strong automobile headlights, etc. To overcome these artificial conditions it becomes necessary to assist the eyes in the form of glasses.

Expert advice is necessary and our business is dealing in perfect sight
