

TWO BLIND WOMEN WILL SPEAK TODAY

Visitors Will Have Charge of Services at First Spiritualist Church

Almost everyone looks upon blindness as the most terrible of human tragedies. Yet this evening those who attend the services of the First Spiritualist church, at W.O.W. hall, on Liberty street, will have the pleasure of hearing two blind women who have cheerfully accepted their affliction and are today living useful, contented lives. They are Mrs. Anna Lee Snyder of Portland and Miss Marguerite Carney. The former is a trance lecturer and message bearer, the latter a soprano soloist.

Both the visitors, who will be guests of the local church, are natives of Oregon, but there are thousands outside the state who know "the blind medium and singer" as they are called. Miss Carney, who has been blind since birth, recently won a competitive scholarship which will take her to Chicago for one year, where she will study and continue her vocal training. The rich color of her voice and its rare timbre have caused many who have heard her to predict that all the world will one day know the joy of hearing this talented Oregon girl.

Mrs. Snyder, on the other hand, has been blind for the past 16 years. Her tragedy was the result of eye rheumatism, and for more than 14 years she has earned a livelihood for herself and her two children through her powers as a psychic reader and lecturer. Her earnest, sincere and inspiring talks and messages have had many thousand auditors, and her days are filled with the work she loves, for she is called by churches all over this state and in other states to preach.

In speaking of her blindness, Mrs. Snyder said: "Since I left your Salem school I have learned that it is the trials of life that fashion the really worth while men and women. Sorrow and trouble pass no one by, but bitter suffering is the loom on which unselfish, understanding characters are woven. There is no heartache too great to bear. God knows the strength of each one of us and He gives no one a burden greater than he can bear. If people would only realize the truth of God's mercy, they would not shudder at any affliction, for no trouble will be given them which patience and determination cannot overcome. Sorrow and suffering are the crucibles which smelt the ore of life, destroying the worthless and leaving the gold." Mrs. Snyder's daughter will also be a visitor at the Salem church. Pauline Snyder will accompany Miss Carney at the piano.

STORY ABOUT FLAX BEING READ WIDELY

Article Appears in Standard Oil Bulletin; Is Written by C. E. Wilson

One of the best pieces of national advertising that Salem and the flax industry has received recently is in an article published in the October issue of the Standard Oil Bulletin that has a circulation throughout the United States.

Under the heading of "Flax Growing in Oregon," the story written by C. E. Wilson, manager of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, tells the history of flax growing in the Willamette valley and how the Willamette valley flax received the highest awards at several world exhibitions, beginning with the Centennial exposition in 1876 at Philadelphia.

The information is given that Salem is the only city in the United States west of the Mississippi river with one linen mill in operation—the Miles Linen company—and the assurance that by the time the 1926 flax crop is harvested there will be a second linen mill in operation in the capital city of Oregon.

The Standard Oil Bulletin editor was very liberal in space given the story and also in the six cuts used, photos being furnished by the Salem Chamber of Commerce and the Oregon State Flax Industry.

COUNTY ASSESSORS TO MEET IN DALLAS

Governor Pierce Expected to Lay Down the Law at Tuesday Gathering

Responsible for lonely people, confidential de-Dallas will be host November 3 to the County Assessors' association of Oregon, at their annual session, according to announcement of Fred J. Holman, Polk county assessor. The meeting follows the annual conference of the assessors with the state tax commission which takes place in Salem Monday. It is expected that 35 of the assessors will be present.

The visitors will be guests of the Dallas chamber of commerce at a luncheon at the Gall hotel at noon and will make a tour of the industrial district following the luncheon.

Speakers at the session will include C. L. Starr, attorney of the Cobbs-Mitchell Lumber Co., C. C. Chapman, editor of the Oregon Voter, George L. Gerlinger, general superintendent of the Willamette Valley Lumber Co. and E. J. Himes, civil engineer.

Hiram U. Welch of Multnomah county is president of the association and C. L. Tailman of Benton county is secretary. The sessions are usually held in Portland but last winter the association accepted Mr. Holman's invitation to come to Dallas.

The meeting in Salem is the one at which Governor Pierce has announced his intention of laying down the law to the assessors.

MY HUSBAND'S LOVE

my conviction that he was only in an ordinary swoon, there seemed a tight hand clutching my heart until the restoratives I applied were rewarded by the opening of Dicky's eyes.

"Did I go under?" he asked slowly. "What a fool!" "Don't talk yet!" I urged. "Drink this." I slipped my arm under his shoulders and put a glass to his lips. He drained it obediently and I eased him back to his pillow, taking my first opportunity to give more than a cursory glance to the queer looking and blood-stained bandage around his head. But as I bent down to inspect the bandage, Dicky put up both hands over it, as if he were protecting it from me.

"Didn't you ever see a cut on the head before?" he demanded, crossly. "I'm all right, now, or will be in a minute or two, and I'll attend to this myself."

CORN SHOW PLANS ARE TAKING SHAPE

Bulletin Gives Information Relative to Preparation of All Exhibits

Information concerning the annual Marion-Polk county Corn Show to be held and revelation of a part of the program has been prepared in bulletin form by the Chamber of Commerce and is being sent out to the various communities that are planning to participate in the show, to be held at the Armory November 19, 20 and 21.

Prof. E. N. Bressman of the farm crops department at OAC is to judge the corn exhibits Thursday afternoon, November 19. On Friday, November 20, Prof. C. E. Schuster of the horticultural department at OAC and Miss Helen Cowgill, assistant state club leader, will judge the community exhibits. Prof. W. L. Powers, head of the soils department at OAC, will deliver an address at the Armory Saturday afternoon, November 21. Prof. Bressman will give a talk Friday afternoon explaining why certain awards were made. Concerning the community exhibits of canned goods, the bulletin warns "pack of canned goods must be uniform, not too dark nor too clear, and the jar must be filled. Syrup is often of wrong consistency for the particular product." It is also suggested that the jars must be clean. Advice is given again canning large carrots or beets, although baby beets and carrots are all right. It is said, however, that the scoring is low for canned turnips, carrots, beets, squash or cabbage.

Silverton

SILVERTON, Oct. 30.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Eastman Bros., local manufacturers of the Eastman Safety Chute, known as the E-Z start fire chute, will have

CORNS AND CALLUSES

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on any aching corn, callus, or "hardskin" on bottom of feet. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.—Adv.

a motion picture film displaying the process of the manufacture from the rough iron to the time when the chutes are put into use. The pictures will contain illustrations of the method the chutes are used. These pictures will be shown at the Gem theater on November 6 and 7. The picture was made especially to show to school boards and heads of large institutions. Demonstrations have shown that 90 children a minute can go down this chute with ease and without any danger. Even if John D. should devote himself to poetry exclusively from now on, it is a question whether he can manage to die poor.
