

KIWANIS CLUB HEAR FAMOUS LECTURER

Clement B. Reed Speaks to Club on Comedy-Drama, "What Price Glory"

Clement B. Reed, lecturer, spoke at the Kiwanis club Nov. 3. He told the story of "What Price Glory," the comedy drama which is said to have been the dramatic sensation of New York for over a year.

Much fine work has been done by Mr. Reed on behalf of the American Legion and, when Louis O. Maclean the producer of "What Price Glory," wanted someone to go ahead and let the people know that this wonderful play was to be sent on tour, he chose Clement B. Reed as the one best fitted to describe this attraction.

"What Price Glory" is the official play of the American Legion as it shows just what war meant at the front but from a comedy angle, for comedy always takes close on the heels of tragedy.

There is no doubt about Mr. Reed's entertaining ability as a lecturer and his "What Price Glory" talk will prepare the way for that admirable play written by Maxwell Anderson and Laurence Stallings. First hand contact with their subject gave these able authors their inspiration for this famous play.

Legends of Sanskrit Put in New English Volumes

CHICAGO—A new translation from the ancient Sanskrit by Arthur W. Ryder has just been published by the University of Chicago Press.

Under the name "The Panchatantra," the book contains some of the world's oldest tales, first gathered more than 1,500 years ago in the Vale of Kashmir and now presented in English. Without footnotes and glossaries, the volume is rich in epigrams and verse from which the oriental flavor has not been lost.

Weird legends of lions who hold court like kings, scheming jackals and birds which talk with fishes, are told in the five books of the volume. The opening yarns tell of the broken friendship of Bull Lively and Lion Rusty and insert therein are numerous stories which dovetail into one another.

Every paragraph or so is broken with a bit of sprightly verse, many of which are introductory to a separate legend or allegory. The leader is sent wandering from the original plot for a time but eventually another rhyme brings him back to the main thread of the story.

The tales originated in British India and were told by Buddhist monks more than 2,000 years ago. In the sixth century they were translated by a Persia physician and during the eighth century they reached Bagdad. Later the stories were translated into Greek, Latin, Hebrew, German and French. LaFontaine is said to have relied upon them extensively as a source for his fables.

The writer had business at the Worcester building in Portland recently. We were required to circle about that district for a half hour in trying to find a place to park our car and finally gave it up and returned to our hotel, later walking a dozen blocks to fill the appointment.

DITMAR IS GUILTY ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Drunken Driving Refuted by Attorney Who Makes Many Insinuations

"Guilty as charged" was the verdict brought in by the jury trying the case in the city police court Saturday of Duck Ditmar, charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Bert Macey, council for Ditmar, laid the defense around the point that if Ditmar had been drunk while he was driving, he would not have been able to maneuver his car into the garage at his home. The driveway, it was brought out, is built in such a way that in order to get the machine into the garage, a curve of nearly a right angle must be passed.

Chris Kowitz, city attorney, put his case briefly, basing his claim for a verdict of guilty on the testimony of Officers Warren Edwards, Walter White, George Thomas and George Edwards, all of whom swore that Ditmar was drunk beyond doubt.

Ditmar, when on the stand admitted that while he was out in the country just before he returned home at 2 a. m. of the morning in question, had taken "a little shot of moonshine." Whereupon counsel for the defense admitted in his argument that Ditmar might have been drunk, but the prosecution had failed to show that he was drunk while he was driving.

Mr. and Mrs. Ditmar, parents of the defendant, testified that they did not believe he was drunk but that they had urged him to go to the station with the officers when they sought to arrest him. Ditmar, claiming that he had to go to work, was at first unwilling to go to the station.

During the course of the argument for the defense, Attorney Macey declared that Officer White didn't have the nerve to say the boy was drunk. He intimated that Officer White had a hidden motive in pressing the arrest.

"White's face showed more signs of the effect of liquor than Ditmar's. Perhaps he went to Ditmar's basement looking for something to drink, and didn't find it, and that's what made him sore." Later Macey asserted that "Ditmar's story is more worthy of belief than the testimony of all four of the officers."

The jury deliberated for about half an hour, it being reported that one of the members held out for some time. The members of the jury were F. A. English, Sr., J. F. Ulrich, E. W. Muller, S. G. Robinson, Rufus E. Boatwright, and Merrill D. Ohling.

Macey asked for time to determine whether or not he has legal grounds to make a writ of review. Sentence will not be passed by Judge Poulsen until the middle of this week.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

PLAN DRAINAGE SURVEY

BOARD OF DIRECTORS WAIT FOR HIGHER WATER

The board of directors of the Salem Drainage district created several weeks ago are planning to make an investigation as soon as the water gets high enough to allow the conditions of which the land owners in the territory have complained, according to F. W. Durbin, member of the board. Other members are T. B. Kay and W. H. Steusloff.

The announcement of the examination comes as a surprise, as land owners thought the election of Steusloff and Durbin, who seem to be opposed to the district, would indicate that the land owners were satisfied to let the matter drop.

Durbin declares that the board will do their duty and will conduct a thorough examination of conditions as soon as the time is feasible.

"Salts, castor oil, pills and other harsh cathartics are bad for children because they act by irritation.—They act much like putting pepper in the eyes or nostrils."
—DR. CALDWELL

Mother! Never Give Your Child a "Physic"

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every day or two was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time even if the child was heretofore chronically constipated. Dr.

Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless, and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.
