

PERMANENT HEALTH COUNCIL IS PLANNED

Special Committee Will Cooperate With County Health Demonstration

Deep interest in the work of the Marion County Child Health Demonstration was shown last evening when representatives of almost all civic, social, service and medical associations of the city met at the Chamber of Commerce to hear of the work of the demonstration and to arrange for the organization of a permanent council from Salem clubs to cooperate with the demonstration.

T. M. Hicks, president of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, presided. He said that the work of the demonstration had progressed to the extent that it was now advisable to have a council made up of a representative of all city clubs to cooperate and advise with the demonstration in its health work in the city.

Dr. Walter H. Brown, director of the Marion County Child Health Demonstration, said that it was desirable to have a council from each city organization to work in cooperation with the demonstration and then a county wide council, consisting of one member from each locality.

"We do not supersede any present health agency in the city or county," said Dr. Brown. "The demonstration works with your present constituted authorities. We work with an advisory council from your medical associations and councils from your various organizations."

Dr. Estella Ford Warner, director of medical service of the demonstration, said that groups would be organized in each community for special work in connection with the demonstration, to not only discuss the local health problems of each community, but to give active help in connection with health work.

Miss Elvora E. Tomson, director of nursing for the demonstration, said that the nursing service, especially Monday mornings at the demonstration headquarters would need the help of women to assist in caring for the hundreds of babies brought for examination at the headquarters, 434 North High.

Miss Tomson also said that Salem would be divided into three districts with a nurse for each district. These nurses would help many families that require help and in this work the demonstration would need the active cooperation of various city organizations. She also said that the Salem council would be called upon to give advice and cooperation in many social problems that arise in the city.

It was the unanimous opinion of representatives of all clubs that Salem should form a permanent council to advise and work with the Marion County Child Health Demonstration, each organization appointing one representative. Each will be asked to make this appointment for a council to be held in about two weeks.

Mr. Hicks appointed a committee consisting of Dr. Henry E. Morris, chairman; Dr. R. Lee Wood, Dr. E. E. Fisher, Mrs. F. A. Elliott and Mrs. W. F. Fargo, to see that all organizations in the city appoint its one representative to serve as the Salem council for advice and cooperation with the demonstration.

Silverton

SILVERTON, Nov. 14.—(Special to The Statesman.)—The health clinic which has been conducted at Silverton during the past two weeks was completed Friday afternoon with 45 pupils examined on Friday. The committee reports that the clinic was very successful and that as a whole the mothers were very grateful for the interest taken in the children. Very few of the mothers objected to having their children examined. The few who did object, it is thought, did so because they failed to understand the purpose of the clinic.

The weight and height of the children were taken and the correct weight estimated for each child. The ears, eyes, nose, lungs, throat and heart were given a thorough examination by physicians. If defects were found the parents were advised to seek further medical attention from their family physicians.

The committee hopes to continue the work in January.

As a whole the children were found to be of good health and of the correct weight.

SILVERTON, Or., Nov. 15.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Mrs. Martin Hattberg was hostess at a pleasant little afternoon party Saturday in honor of Miss Cora Satern whose wedding to Victor Madsen will be an event of Thanksgiving. Miss Satern was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts during the afternoon. Mrs. Oscar Satern assisted Mrs. Hattberg in serving. Guests for the afternoon included Miss Satern, her mother, Mrs. Ole Satern, Mrs. Harold Satern, Mrs. Arthur Madsen of Brooks, Mrs. Hans Jensen of Silverton, Mrs. O. J. Moe, Miss Marie Tinglestad, Miss Winona Palmer, Mrs. Jelmars Retland, Miss Annie Hattberg, Miss Alice Jensen, Miss Lillie Madsen, Miss Alma Funrue.

Mrs. Anton Larson died at her home on the East Hill Sunday evening. Funeral services will be held from St. John's church Wednesday afternoon with the Rev. S. Lindseth officiating. Besides the widower, Mrs. Larson leaves two sons, Adolph and John, both of Silverton, and one daughter in Canada.

Funeral services for Ulls Henjum who was drowned in the Pudding river Saturday afternoon will be held from Trinity church Tuesday afternoon. Ulls was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Henjum.

Filipino Court to Decide Status of Poker as Game
MANILA—Meeting with adverse results in the courts in the prosecution of persons arrested on charges of playing poker, the constabulary authorities have concluded that further raids on these games would be useless expenditure of time and money until the question of whether poker is a game of skill or chance is decided by the supreme court.

The courts of first instance have held that poker is a game of skill, while the attorney general has rendered an opinion that it is a game of chance and as such is punishable under the laws.

Brigadier General Rafael Crame, chief of the constabulary, calling the attention of the secretary to the subject says:

"Since the attorney general in his opinion of several years ago held that poker was a game of chance and punishable instructions were given the constabulary to apprehend and prosecute all persons engaged in playing poker and those instructions are still in vogue. However, since judges have taken upon themselves to acquit persons engaged in poker playing, there seems to be no further need of the constabulary spending time and money in raiding these games if the men caught will be acquitted."

overtake the other boats till the next morning in the town of Liu Si Pien where we found them waiting. They were waiting for the soldiers to clear out a nest of robbers a little further up the river. Then the officer appeared and demanded more money. It was impossible to raise the $2,000 which he now demanded, on account of the freight. * * *

That night we tied up at Wang Chang, the place where the Open-shaws were robbed on their way down river. The next morning we were informed we had been sleeping across the river from 300 robbers; that two of our officers were killed, and that they had crossed the river during the night and gotten permission from the robbers for our party to pass. It is not known how much of our escort money was paid over to the robbers for this permission. The Chinese do not fight if there is another way.

All was going well the next morning until we came to a rapid. Our boat was in the lead and was almost across the rapid when an empty boat which was stealing free escort by going along with our fleet suddenly shot out from the opposite side of the narrow channel and it was impossible to avert the crash. The empty boat was smashed in above the water-line by the nose of our boat, the unexpected bump leaving us to drift back through the rapid. We scarcely missed crashing into "Abraham's boat."

The remainder of the letter is just as brimming with frightening experiences that racked these voyagers until their hearts stood in their mouths many times. Time and again death seemed only a matter of a moment's time. An especial peril was encountered at the largest and most dangerous rapid of all. "At this time all up-river boats must cross the river, and if the water is high the crossing cannot be made. The boat would probably crash into the stone cliff which comes down to the water's edge and be sunk."

The Archer-Crawford boat tripped * * * and in the middle of the stream we saw the boat lean and the rudder break off and float down the rapid. An oar was then used as a rudder. It was a poor substitute, but it seemed hopeful!

At last Mrs. Randle tells of safely reaching Yu Hwa Chi, where they could sit "on the back end of our boats and watch the full moon and its reflection on the wide and rushing river," knowing they would soon begin the "last leg" of their journey.

Mason-Miller Wedding
The marriage of Miss Jessie M. Mason and Herbert A. Miller took place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents before an assemblage of relatives and friends. The bridal party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Maude Herren, and took their places before an improvised altar which was banked with yellow and white chrysanthemums and ferns. The impressive service was read by Rev. Henry Gross of the Evangelical Lutheran church. The rooms were prettily decorated in yellow and white. The bride wore a brown beaded georgette frock and carried yellow roses.

Mrs. Francis Mason of Portland, sister-in-law of the bride, attended her as matron of honor. Her gown was of brown silk. William O'Neil acted as best man.

After the ceremony Miss Hazel Bugher and Mrs. Francis Mason assisted in serving refreshments. Mr. and Mrs. Miller left for a wedding trip, after which they will

"The Phantom of the Opera," presenting Lon Chaney in an even greater role than he portrayed in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" will close its Salem engagement with the afternoon and evening performances of today at the Oregon theater.

There has never been a greater picture shown in Salem, nor one which will linger longer in the memories of the hundreds who have seen it. Its weird, even terrifying features are in themselves only a part of the strange appeal which the production holds for its audience, and are wonderfully tempered by the splendor and magnificence of the film as a whole.

Chaney's interpretation of the phantom or ghost that haunts the great Paris Opera House is a bit of artistry that has seldom been equaled and never surpassed on the screen. Norman Kerry and Mary Philbin in the principal supporting roles are likewise at the peak of their achievements.

"The Phantom of the Opera" is one picture that admirers of great acting and technical achievement should make a particular effort to see. Its greatness cannot be adequately told in cold print.

INDIAN'S SON WAS NOT BURIED ALIVE

only the effects of pneumonia would have appeared.

The lawyers wrangled about the meaning of Dr. Johnson's statement. Cass E. Herrington and Ivor W. Wingren, defense attorneys, maintained that it showed the baby died of pneumonia and that it was not murdered. Clarence Ireland, assistant district attorney, contended that the words of Dr. Johnson showed that the baby was only suffering from pneumonia and not dying from that cause.

When the government rested its case, Mr. Herrington asked Judge Symes to free May by a directed verdict. He asserted the government had not proved a corpus delicti—that there was no evidence to show a murder had been committed and that the government's case indicated only that the baby had died.

Nearly an hour of argument followed. Then Judge Symes ruled that the government had not proved a murder had been committed.

"You may go now," Herrington told May, who still was staring at the judge. May made no move.

"Do you understand you are free?" Herrington insisted, prodding him in the ribs.

"Do you know what this is all about?"

"No," he grunted. Then his attorney steered him out of the court room.

Watching the Market

The sugar market, after a steady decline for about five months, has turned, and is now advancing! The wholesale price has advanced 30 cents in the last week. We do not pretend to know how much more the market will advance, or whether the price will stay high after advancing. There is a large crop of sugar this year, but many large dealers in sugar think the price has been too low. We are still selling at the old price, but we will be unable to sell at this price very long.

THE TOMATO INDUSTRY

Another Valley industry that is rapidly coming to the foreground is the canned tomato industry. Until recently the Valley people were of the opinion that our good grade canned tomatoes had to come from California or some other state. After careful scientific comparison it has been revealed that the GRAND ISLAND BRAND of local solid pack tomatoes excels in fine texture and flavor any heretofore shipped here. In offering you the GRAND ISLAND BRAND tomatoes we are offering you a SUPERIOR PRODUCT, a LOCAL PRODUCT, and one at a more REASONABLE PRICE than you can get a shipped in product for. By cooperation it is possible to build this, ANOTHER VALLEY INDUSTRY, to an enormous size as the demand for good canned tomatoes is almost unlimited. This product was late in being put on the market this year on account of an unavoidable delay in getting labels and trade mark registered. Don't confuse other Island brands with GRAND ISLAND Grown by Morton Tompkins & J. H. Tompkins.
