KING'S REVUE NOW PLAYING AT BLIGH

Popular Musical Comedy Company Again Returns for Salem Engagement

King's 1925 Revue, which has played many engagements in this city during the past two years, is now holding down the boards at the Bligh theater. The company opened Monday evening in the presentation of a big comedy bill, "A Divorce Cure," and the offering was well received by an appreciative audience. The bill was interspersed with girl numbers, specialty dancing, musical and novelty numbers and several high class vaudeville acts.

Members of the company especially deserving of mention is Buddy Clark, a clever and versatile comedian, who kept the audience in a roar of laughter from start to finish, and Katherine, a petite ingenue and dancer of merit. Other members of the cast were good in their respective characters.

The chorus contains graceful and attractive girls who have good voices and the numbers presented by them received generous applause.

Tonight the King company will offer one of the best comedy bills in their repertoire, "Naughty Nurse," with new specialty dances, numbers and vaudeville acts.

By giving good clean entertainment the King show has become popular among theater goers in this city and capacity houses are anticipated during their engagement.

Guests From Portland

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Robertson (Mildred Apperson) were guests yesterday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Robertson. They will leave today by motor for McMinnville before returning to Portland.

MAY ROBSON IS TO COME HERE TONIGHT

"Helena's Boys" Successful Comedy Will Be at the Heilig This Evening

A tidal wave of laughter and good cheer is on the way and will reach here tonight at the Heilig theater with May Robson and "Helena's Boys" riding on the crest, with good luck and success indelibly stamped on them, as "Helena's Boys" has had a three months' run at the Henry Miller theater in New York, and is duplicating it on the tour.

Miss Robson is a paragon of perfection in the odd role of "Helena." The gist of the play is an awful moment in a woman's life when she is being left behind by her boys whose advanced and modern ideas are just opposite to hers. It staggers her at first, but when she gains her equilibrium she is armed for the conflict and she never retreats, but gains her point.

Augustus Pitou has surrounded Miss Robson with a fine cast of clever people, whose artistic work is a wonderful assistance to Miss Robson. The New York production is intact and is a marvelous example of stage-craft.

HEILIG VAUDEVILLE LISTED FOR FRIDAY

Five Excellent Acts to Be Presented; "La Petite Ballet" Is Feature

A wonderful variety of genuine entertainment is offered for the patrons of the Heilig theater with the next Association vaudeville unit show which comes to the Heilig next Friday.

The "La Petite Ballet" with Olliene Terry & Co. heads the bill with one of the most spectacular terpsichorean offerings of the season. Five attractive young ladies featuring Miss Terry present a rapid routine of all the well known dances including the Charleston, Oriental, toe, jazz, character dances and a big pony dance for a climax, in which all the girls are costumed as ponies. There is an abundance of luxurious stage settings and a wealth of gorgeous costumes.

A master magician and super-comedian is "Allen Norman," who deliberately sets out to deceive his audience and in spite of the fact that everyone instinctively declares "try to do it" he succeeds beautifully and humorously for he has the happy faculty of knowing how to mix in a rare line of humor with his magic and mysticisms.

One of the most unique singing and musical numbers is that presented by Frankie Hall and Billy O'Brien in their skit which they call "Sky-Larking." An aviation crash and its attending thrills is worked into the introduction of the act after which a number of those old time popular ballads are rendered in a delightful tenor voice by Billy O'Brien as well as a number of good harmony selections in which Miss Hall's splendid soprano blends perfectly with that of her partner. "Wild Irish Rose," "Kiss Me Again," and "Oh How I Miss You Tonight" are some of the favorites presented by this excellent team. Mr. O'Brien sprang into fame some time ago with his rendition of "Sally" which they also use in this act. A lot of good wholesome comedy is interwoven through out the act. Then there will be one of those nuttiest of "nut" singles in which Al Grady presents his pianologue called "Piano Songfollery." Grady is a good pianist and has a personality which helps in no small way to put across his comedy stuff which consists mostly of foolish songs and parodies of which he has an endless supply.

After being featured with big circus shows and outdoor attractions, E. and Jay McCrea are doing a vaudeville season with their daring routine of thrilling stunts and feats on the aerial rings. The act is called "Up He Goes" and keeps the audience constantly kept up wondering if it will be suddenly changed to "Down He Comes." They are thrillers of the first rank.

BOY SCOUTS HOSTS TO PARENTS FRIDAY

Reception Held at First Presbyterian Church by Sunset Troop No. 4

A reception held Friday evening at the First Presbyterian church by the members of Sunset Troop 4, Boy Scouts of America, honoring their respective parents, proved to be one of the most successful entertainments staged by local Scouts within the annals of the present organization. Some 75 parents were in attendance.

Members of the troop's committee, Messrs. Hudkins, Laws and Gahldorf, received the parents and visitors on behalf of the troop organization. Scoutmaster Harold L. Cook presented his troop of some 40 scouts, under the leadership of Senior Patrol Leader Ardery Rankin, and the evening's program was a repertoire of contests and demonstrations, mingled with technique and humor, on the part of members of the troop. Scout Varley Ennor demonstrated the art of making a fire by friction. Members of the Stag patrol, under the direction of Patrol Leader Carmica, constructed a bridge out of materials gleaned from the woods, which they put together by aid of Boy Scout knots. This bridge measured some 20 feet long and when finished was capable of supporting 600 pounds weight.

The troop orchestra, composed of members of the troop, delighted their hearers with varied musical selections. This orchestra includes the following members: Fred Carmical, Fred Remington, Clinton Lovell, Ronald Hudkins, Tommy Livesley and Russell Scott.

Troop 4 owns an Atwater Kent radio, the gift of William Gahldorf, and this, together with the troop's motion picture machine, provided special entertainment for the occasion.

Nine candidates have filed their applications to become members of the troop within the past two weeks. The membership of the troop is limited to 64 scouts, and when this number is reached, which will be very soon, boys wishing to become members will be placed on a waiting list.

Refreshments were served Friday evening by members of the Tiger patrol, under the able direction of Patrol Leader Russell Rankin.

BEBE DANIELS HERE IN MIRTHFUL FILM

Brilliant Comedy, "Lovers in Quarantine," Playing at Oregon Theatre

Bebe Daniels, star in "Miss Bluebeard," brings a new and equally amusing comedy to the Oregon theater this afternoon in "Lovers in Quarantine," which will be the feature offered on that screen until tomorrow evening when "The Knockout" comes to replace it.

The gales of hearty laughter which marked the showing of "Miss Bluebeard" are all contained in "Lovers in Quarantine," and there are a few more thrown in for good measure.

Bebe, as Diana Gordon, is a mischievous little tomboy who acts first and thinks afterwards. She believes desperate situations require desperate remedies, and is not the type of girl to give up the man she loves without a wholesome battle.

Diana falls in love with Tony Blunt, played by Harrison Ford, who imagines himself in love with Diana's flirtatious older sister, Pamela, and plans to elope with her on a steamer. Diana, believing that Tony is really in love with her, through a clever scheme takes her sister's place on the boat, and it is not for three days that Blunt discovers he has eloped with the wrong girl.

Matters begin to call for fast thinking when the passengers on the ship are all quarantined. Diana and Tony, referred to by all as "the honeymoon couple," with the girl's spinster chaperone, Amelia Pincet, are assigned a little bungalow apart from the rest. Then the fun begins. It's Bebe's funniest picture—the funniest picture you've seen in many months.

DINNER STORIES

It happened the other day. Quite a crowd of people missed a most harrowing tragedy.

"Sir," yelled a pedestrian suddenly, "you stuck your umbrella in my eye!"

"Oh, no, sir!" replied the genial idiot. "I assure you that you are mistaken."

"Mistaken!" yelled the injured one. "Mistaken! tell you I know when my own eye is injured!"

"Doubtless you do, sir," replied the genial idiot. "But you don't know my umbrella. I borrowed this one yesterday!"

A young married man met a friend of his bachelor days, and insisted on his coming home with him to dinner. His wife was unprepared for visitors, and calling him aside told him that she had only a few oysters, and that when the friend had eaten his quota of six he must not be asked to take any more. In spite of his promise to remember, when the guest had eaten his six, the host pressed him to take more. The wife looked distressed and the friend declined. The husband insisted, the wife looked in agony, and the guest firmly refused to have the rest of the oysters brought from the kitchen.

Later the wife said to her husband:

"How could you urge him to have more oysters after I had explained to you that there weren't any more?"

"I am very sorry," said the penitent husband, "but I forgot all about it."

"Forgot about it! What do you suppose I was kicking you under the table for?"

"But you didn't kick me."

Forrest Taylor Players Bid Good-bye With Comedy-drama at Heilig Theater Last Night

"Johnny Get Your Gun" Is Final Offering; Play Full of Irresistible Humor With Taylor in Leading Role

By AUDRED BUNCH
 Salem people have had a taste of a kind of dramatic offering they are going to hate to give up, and it is to be regretted that the comedy drama, "Johnny Get Your Gun," at the Heilig theater last night was a farewell performance. A play full of irresistible humor, Forrest Taylor in the major role, and the lovely Anne Berryman playing opposite, resolved into a total that was a sparkling success. With far more social maneuvers than trigger manipulations, the play at first glance would seem to belie its name. But in spite of the fact that all "war" was a parlor and studio affair there was a very distinct once or twice when one's goose-flesh rose.

The prologue of the play is given over to action in the studio of the Burnham-Barnard Picture company in Los Angeles where some clever scene-shooting is done in scenario adaptation and the arrangement of "sets." The three acts proper are staged in the fashionable Long Island home of proxy relatives and a hoax duke. For a "Johnnie" like Wiggins, "With a pistol in his hat" to adapt himself to the ways of the Duke No More and his clientele.

Supporting members of the cast included William Brewer, Cecil Drummond, Charles Rice, Kirke M. Decker, Alvin Baird, and a thoroughly superb young actress, Miss Franc Hale, who took the part of Janet Burnham, the rich orphan "without a nickel," for about five minutes.

Salem can well hope for an early return of the company to Heilig which, of necessity, they are discontinuing for a time, at least, from their circuit.
