

POLK COUNTY MAN GETS FEDERAL JOB

Joe Helgeson, District Attorney, New Assistant U. S. Prosecutor

Joseph H. Helgeson of Dallas, district attorney of Polk county, now serving his second term in this office, will become assistant United States district attorney, succeeding Allan Bynon, whose resignation was submitted some time ago to be effective January 1st.

George Neuner, district attorney for Oregon, announced the selection of Mr. Helgeson in Portland. "Mr. Helgeson is a young man, a veteran of the World war, and has proved himself to be an able lawyer," Mr. Neuner said. "His most recent case which attracted wide attention was the Lloyd murder trial."

Mr. Helgeson is president of the state district attorneys' association and captain of the Oregon national guard company at Dallas. He will submit his resignation to the Polk county court at once. Mr. Neuner stated, and be ready to assume his new position the first of the year.

Governor Pierce will be called upon to name Mr. Helgeson's successor, and a large crop of aspirants is anticipated. At least four prominent Polk county attorneys are being mentioned for the appointment of district attorney. These are J. E. Sibley, Dallas; C. E. Ellis, Independence; E. K. Plassecki, Dallas, and W. W. Harcombe, also of Dallas.

FUTURE ASPECTS OF THE APPLE INDUSTRY

business. The advantages of soil and climate when fully utilized seem sufficient to neutralize the handicap of distance, and to insure fair profits over a period of years to the grower who has his orchard in a desirable location, who has the proper commercial varieties, who obtains large yields and good quality of fruit, and who is not too seriously handicapped by excessive production costs. On the other hand, apple orchards that are permanently injured by cold, drought, or disease, that planted in poor locations, or that are of the wrong varieties, will never be money makers.

In view of the above facts it is plain that general apple planting throughout the Willamette valley is not advisable at this time. Planting in a limited way, however, may be justified as a unit in a diversified planting scheme, or for the completion of an economic unit already begun.

Good Apple Orchards Should Be Saved

The mortality rate of apple trees in the Willamette valley has been unusually high during recent years. If this continues for a while longer, this region will not produce sufficient apples for its own needs. It would seem, therefore, that the apple orchards that are of good varieties and that are in desirable locations and should be preserved.

The Matter of Varieties Is Important

Here as well as in most other apple districts, success or failure is largely a matter of varieties. What varieties, then, should the Willamette valley growers keep and use in future plantings? Experience has shown that the list of real desirable sorts for this region is indeed very small.

For a late keeping variety, Yellow Newtown has thus far proved to be a very desirable variety here. It is somewhat slow in coming into bearing, but aside from this it is an excellent sort. Ortley also has proved to be a good variety here. This variety is not a real late keeper, but fills a need in the trade during and following the holiday season. Jonathan does fairly well here and seems to have a place, especially for the local markets. Grimes is still a favorite in many places, although it is not so popular as it once was. For a summer apple, Red Gravenstein, a red fruited type of the old variety by this name, appears to be especially desirable.

HIGH TARIFF PLEA MADE TO GRANGERS

Increase on Cheese, Wool, Sugar and Olive Oil Would Be Voted

(By Associated Press.)

SACRAMENTO. — Resolutions advocating an increase of tariff on importation of cheese, sugar, wool and olive oil, and the placing of a tariff on bananas was introduced before a special meeting of the national grange by George R. Harrison, master of the California state grange.

Harrison urged the national grange to take positive action by calling upon President Coolidge and congress to raise the tariff. The resolution by Harrison advocated a permanent court of international justice. John Phillips of Missouri advocated a resolution calling upon the national grange to approach congress to favor an early completion and operation by the federal government of the Muscle shoals project.

The grange was asked to go on record advocating more stringent pure food laws and more vigorous enforcement of such laws by state and nation in a resolution introduced by David Agans, state master of New Jersey grange. Agans resolution also reaffirmed the stand of the national grange in demanding "truth in fabric laws." George A. Palmier of Oregon introduced a resolution reaffirming the position of the grange against the letting down of immigration laws at the coming session of congress, also including a phrase in the resolution protesting and opposing any ship subsidy. The grange was asked to urge congress that there be no more sale of ships and that the vessels be used to build up the American merchant marine. In the hope of stopping entirely the importation of worthless seeds, especially to western states, W. W. Deal of Idaho introduced a resolution calling for a high tariff rate on alfalfa and clover seed. The grange was urged in the resolution to call on congress in the matter.
