ROAD TO SUCCESS:—Commit thy way unto the Lord; trust also in him and he shall bring it to pass. . . . Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him. Psalm 37:5, 7.

OUR APPLES EXCEL IN FLAVOR

The Salem district produces the best flavored apples in the world—

Better than can be grown in any irrigated district—and this fact alone elects Salem as a permanent apple center.

But there are other things that help in this; for instances the Salem canneries take the culls and by-products, and Salem is for the central Willamette valley the banking, marketing, shipping and merchandising center of the industry.

The conditions for making Salem an outstanding apple center are that we grow the varieties in which we can excel, and make them of the very highest quality, and get the largest possible production to the acre, which makes for a cheap cost per bushel.

Now what varieties should we grow in our commercial orchards?

One shipping firm advises red apples for shipment. A Salem apple authority says if we are to grow red apples, we should specialize on Spitzenbergs, Rome Beauties and the Delicious.

Kenneth Miller, large grower and good apple authority, of the Sheridan section, recommends specializing on three varieties only: Gravenstein, Winter Banana and Grimes Golden.

Prof. Hartman, high Oregon Agricultural college authority, recommends the Yellow Newtown, Ortley, Jonathan, Grimes and Red Gravenstein.

Prof. Lewis, when he was one of the outstanding Oregon authorities, placed the Ortley first on his list for the Willamette valley. Another authority says if he were setting out a new orchard here he would major on the Delicious, with the Grimes Golden, Rome Beauty, and Winter Banana as other favorites. Read what the biggest apple man of them all, B. W. Johnson, says in the Biehn interview; what he says about varieties.

Another shipping firm would major on the Yellow Newtowns and the Delicious as the best packers and shippers, and they favor next the Spitzenberg, Rome Beauty and Jonathan varieties. Therefore they recommend these varieties as the best to grow.

Any way, the commercial varieties ought to be confined to a very few.

It should be said that the canneries here seem to favor the Newtowns and Spitzenberg, and apples of the classes to which these varieties belong. But they use a wide range of varieties.

Quality is the thing for the Salem district. It does not pay to raise scrubs. The scrub trees ought to be grafted over to the varieties with which we excel.

Do this, and let the world know that we produce the best flavored apples grown on the wide earth, and by organizing provide against dumping and the glutting of the markets, and the apple industry will be one of the big and profitable industries of the Salem district; even of this land of diversity, this country of opportunity.

SOUND LEADERSHIP

Judge William H. Atwell's instructions to the B. P. O. E. over which he is supreme ruler, is a credit to him and to the principles for which the Order stands. It is fundamentally American. It is a nobedience to the supreme law of the land and is an example of courageous leadership and respect for law. The Order should respond gladly and graciously to this quality of leadership.

Bits For Breakfast

More and better apples—
But more especially better apples—
That is the goal for the apple industry of the Salem district to work to.

Raspberries is the Slogan subject for next week. We should grow more raspberries; especially black ones, and we should make some of them into jams and jellies.

The corn show opens today at the Salem Armory. It will be the biggest and best ever, and every person interested in Salem should attend it and encourage it.

It's the flavor. That should be a slogan for Salem district (Willamette valley) apples. The Oregon pioneers produced the then finest apples in the world here, and the best flavored. They did it almost without effort. That was the time before the codling moth and all the other bugs of high and low degree. Better apples can be produced here now, because more suitable varieties have been developed. But it takes more work.

The Salem district canneries have put up a bumper pack the past season—and one of them is still going on apples, and will be for a month; taking the Hood River and Yakima culls. If the canneries should be taken out of Salem, the city would very seriously feel the loss.

The community exhibits at the corn show will also be better and bigger than ever.

'NORTHWESTERN' IS PORTLAND BOUND

Light Cargo Carried on First Northbound Trip During Present Season

The Northwestern, river steamer owned and operated by the Salem Navigation company, left Wednesday afternoon down the river from its Salem dock for Portland. But a light load was carried as it is the first Salem-Portland trip to be attempted this season.

The regular winter run will begin Sunday and will continue throughout the winter and spring. It is hoped that the channel will be sufficiently cleared by summer to allow the boat to run during the summer as well. The boat will stop at Brentano's landing to pick up a small quantity of lumber.

The boat recently passed government inspection, the inspector commending the condition of the craft very highly. The Mathloma, government dredge, is at work in further clearing the channel.

BOYS BASKETBALL PLAYERS REGISTER

Playing in Junior League to Get Under Way After Thanksgiving Day

Drawings for the Anderson Junior Basketball Tournament will be held at the Anderson Sporting Goods store next Wednesday and the names of all prospective players must be handed to George Cadwell, who has charge of the tournament, by that time. Each team is limited to seven players. All Salem school boys not connected with a regular team, under 15 years and weighing 130 pounds or less are eligible. Games will start Friday morning, November 27. All high school and junior high school players are barred from participation while YMCA leaders will act as referees and umpires.

The purpose of the tournament, according to Mr. Cadwell, is to promote clean amateur basketball for average players and to develop future players. The proposed tournament will be an elimination contest and all losing teams will be matched and suitable prizes given the winning team. Suitable individual prizes of silver medals and buttons will be awarded by the Anderson Sporting Goods store to the winners of the tournament in addition to those offered the "winners of the losers."

BOY SCOUT FILMS TO BE DISPLAYED

Animals and War Heroes Featured in Eight Reels at Church Party

Boy Scouts of the Salem territory, their friends and the general public, are invited to attend the moving picture entertainment to be given at the First Congregational church tomorrow evening, at 7 o'clock, according to Harold D. Ware, Scout executive.

Films of special interest to Scouts will be shown dealing with George Washington's scouts in the Revolutionary war, with the best methods of life saving and resuscitation, shooting big game with a camera which deals with the African jungles, lions, zebras, crocodiles and elephants. The picture program ends with "How Dreams Come True." Eight reels will be shown.

Pearl of Comediennes Wins Approval in Dramatized Version of "Helena's Boys"

May Robson Delights Audience at Hellig Theatre Last Night; Capacity House Is Lacking But Play Pleases

By AUDRED BUNCH
May Robson, the peerless, the pearl among the comediennes, won the lasting approval of a good-sized audience last night at the Hellig theater when she played in the dramatized version of Mary Brecht Pulver's story, "Helena's Boys," one of the most estimable of theater offerings. May Robson, as Helena Tilden, stationed in her own home at Cooperstown, New York, proves, after all, that she is mistress of herself, her boys, and a tremendous situation.

"When we differ with you you despise us and when we follow your ways you groan over us," Helena, the harassed mother, flung at her boys in speaking for the parents of the age. Helena's first problem was to broach to her own offspring news of plans for a second marriage,—news she was afraid to share with them because they were so "cocksure, calm, complacent, superior"—sons of a paragon father. Her second problem is to convince her younger son, "Beansey," that rudeness to
