Prize Winning Poultry

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dorman, owners of the Everlay poultry farm, stocked with Tancred Strain White Leghorus, recently visited a large poltry ranch near Silverton to see the prize winners of White Leghern mature fowls second pen at the state fair, over a man who has been showing birds for over twenty years. Their interest in these prize winners is due to the fact that the fowls were purchased from the Everlay farm last year, and shipped to Silverton when day old chicks, and came from heir regular stock of Tancred strain Leghorns.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorman have been too busy raising stock for winter layers, and cleaning up and improving the ranch, putting up new buildings, and caring for their birds to go into the show game as yet, but promise themselves to groom some of their good fowls
