FROM MY COTTAGE ON THE HILL.

I catch a glimpse of the mountains,
From my cottage on the hill,
I see the cool green meadow
And a lake so blue and still.

I see the outline of a river,
Fringed with maple, fir and balm,
Whose beauty here in Oregon
Is unrivaled by the palm.

But, oh, when the sun is setting,
And the sky is all a-glow,
With great clouds of blue and silver,
Touched with purple, crimson, gold.

Then my soul is thrilled with rapture
As I gaze upon it all,
And how my head in humbleness,
For God hath made it all.

The living rooms were lovely with red chrysanthemums and holly. Bright red candles burned throughout the Lodge. The table was especially lovely with its centerpiece of carnations and lighted red tapers in sparkling cut glass.
