SPAULDING PLANS NEW SHINGLE MILL

Work of Driving Piles in Slough to Support Structure Is Under Way

The Spaulding Logging company is planning to build a shingle mill on the Willamette slough just south of the paper mill, according to announcement received here on Wednesday. Work of driving the piles upon which the mill is to rest, has already been commenced. The mill will have as its equipment a saw that will turn out between 750,000 and 1,000,000 shingles a month, it is said. It is reported that the company already has enough logs on hand to insure operation of the mill for some considerable time. Cedar logs are to be used in the making of shingles, but officials believe that a sufficient number of such logs will be received with the shipments of fir logs to keep the mill in action. It is the plan of the company to sell most of the shingles in Salem and throughout the Willamette valley. What quantity that is left over will be sold to eastern markets, if possible.

Equipment of the mill will enable the men to drag the logs from the slough, cut them into shingle lengths and into bolts, and then into shingles. About six men will be employed to run the mill, it is said.

ACTION ON PLAYGROUND ROTARIANS REQUEST RESTORATION FROM COUNCIL

The Rotarians at their weekly luncheon Wednesday voted to recommend to the city council that the playground fund, which was eliminated from the coming city budget by the budget committee, be reinstated into the budget by the council. There was but one dissenting vote to the resolution. "I believe that the council is not justified in removing the playground fund from the budget," declared T. B. Kay, state treasurer, and a member of the club. Every service club in the city has now adopted a resolution asking the council to reconsider the matter of removing the playground fund from the budget and recommending that such action not be taken.

DRAINAGE MEN COMING JOINT MEETINGS TO BE HELD HERE TUESDAY

The joint meeting of the Oregon State Drainage association and the Oregon Irrigation congress, to be held in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, is of special interest to Marion county, in the opinion of those who are familiar with the reclamation work done and being planned in Oregon.

It is said that more than 4,000 acres of the Ankeny bottom can be improved if it is properly drained. It is also said that about 12,000 acres of the French Prairie district can be reclaimed by draining, and some 10,000 acres of the Turner Prairie tract by the same process.

Various phases of reclamation in Oregon will be discussed at length at the meeting of the two organizations. It is understood that the two bodies are planning to unite in one great organization at the meeting in Salem, for the purpose of carrying on the plans of reclamation in Oregon under one body.

It is thought that all in all, approximately 50,000 acres in the Salem district will be able to be reclaimed.

Latest Bobs and Waves Now Available to Chinese Girls

SAN FRANCISCO.—For the first time the beauty shop has invaded Chinatown. Two of them are doing a flourishing business. The operators are Chinese girls, graduates of hair dressing and manicure schools, and on the walls hang diplomas informing customers that they are duly qualified. Most of the patrons are Chinese girls who want the latest bobs and waves. However, an occasional Chinese sheik, with pinch-back coat and 22-inch trouser cuffs, can be seen opposite the manipulator of orange steak, cuticle knife and buffer.

OREGON IS CALLED 'DEAD' THRU EAST

Position Is Irksome to President of Portland Chamber of Commerce

"It is up to us in Oregon to better our conditions," declared W. D. B. Dodson, president of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, in a brief talk before the Salem Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon Tuesday. Mr. Dodson declared that he rebels against the position Oregon is now placed in, having the reputation in the east of being a dead state. He brought out that the Willamette valley shipped but 17,000 carloads of foodstuffs last year, while Yakima valley in Washington, a much smaller and less fertile place, had shipped 50,000 carloads. It is such conditions as these, he said, that he would like to see done away with, and advocated cooperation as one of the most important means of bringing about an industrial renaissance in the Willamette valley.

The meeting was devoted to speeches by several members of the local organization who brought out and stressed various points on Kiwanian ideals. Those who spoke were Dean George Alden of Willamette university, Dr. George Vehrs, Dr. O. L. Scott, Byron Wright, Dr. Fred Ellis and Dr. Henry Morris.

Lloyd Thompson, soloist with the Willamette university glee club, entertained the Kiwanians with a couple of numbers. Kenneth McCormick, also of Willamette, accompanied him on the piano.

"What Price Glory" Puts Real War on Stage Before Heilig Audience

Drama of Battle Featured by Talented Acting and Genuine Sentiment Received With Frequent Applause

"What Price Glory," a drama of war into which a seasoned marine, Laurence Stallings, and a great dramatist, Maxwell Anderson, have poured their resentment of privation, and slaughter, and futile sacrifice of conflict, until a living picture of war has been created, brutal and real in detail, was presented before an ample and enthusiastic audience at the Heilig theatre last evening.

Of profanity, there was plenty; the cursing of the war days, but to focus attention upon that was to ignore the genuine purpose of the piece, which shows the conflict not a "mere playing with paper dolls," but a grim and dirty business.

NAVY PICTURE COMING

Ramon Novarro, popular moving picture actor, is coming to the Heilig theatre Saturday and Sunday in "The Midshipman."

Over the affections of Charmaine, these two former comrades, each of whom at one time has "broken" the other in rank, manage to quarrel throughout the piece, victory being snatched from each when the company is forced to move into trenches.

Of the college soldier, there is plenty, with all contrast in favor of the marine. The second act, a cellar in a disputed town, is gruesome enough, a real cross section of men's lives under fire, full of humor, and drama and brave boys who, a moment later are "only a pack of bloody rags, and a pile of dirt."

Wounded in action, the top sergeant returns to Charmaine only a few minutes before his company commander arrives, having been relieved at last in reward for the capture of a German officer, demanded by the staff. Sick with fatigue, the two rivals find their enemy smothered out when headquarters revokes the promised leave and the division moves back to the front.

"I don't know where we're going. Nobody does," is Captain Flagg's parting comment. "Which goes to show it takes a — lot of fools to make a war," calls Top Sergeant Quirt, as he races after his departing command.

Throughout the piece, the audience responded with spontaneous bursts of laughter, and genuine surges of sentiment. Of its kind, it is a play well done, and was well received.

Thank God for the Brave Little Mayflower

A LITTLE band of Pilgrims, storm-tossed, suffering privation and hunger, landed on the bleak New England shore.

The historic Mayflower had at last reached a haven of Liberty, but what great trials awaited those 55 survivors in a wild and trackless country.

We bow our heads in reverent contemplation of their courage and fortitude, and on this day of Thanksgiving we pledge ourselves to become worthy of the sacrifices made by our brave forefathers.
